Hot winds fanning arson-caused Banning blaze

BANNING, Calif. (UPI) — An army of more than 2,000 men struggled today with California's first major brush fire this summer, an arson-caused blaze that crackled through more than 6,500 acres, pushed by searing desert winds.

Fire investigators said the arsonist ignited the blaze in heavy brush on the Morongo Indian Reservation, the site of another major "incendiary fire" which consumed thousands of acres early last summer.

The fire threatened Banning for a while Wednesday, burning to within less than a mile of the town but then veered away in rocky foothills.

Two firemen were injured and a half dozen elderly persons were evacuated from a rest home on the northern outskirts of town because of the dense smoke rolling through the area.

Another serious fire burned in the Sequoia National Forest, 135 miles to the north. The flames had consumed more than 100 acres of "prime virgin timber," 100 foot tall pine trees, in one of the state's most popular outdoor recreation areas in the Greenhorn Mountain region, the U.S. Forest Service reported today, but did not threaten the giant Sequoias which give the park its name.

"Pilots say they can see the smoke from 100 miles away," said fire dispatcher Don Starr.

The southern fire began on the Morongo Indian Reservation Tuesday night, flaring through the rocky foothills of the San Gorgonio Mountains, eating its way through dry brush, sometimes at a rate of 400 acres an hour.

The state Division of Forestry fielded a force of more than 2,000 men, 60 trucks, 25 bulldozers, two helicopters and nine air tankers, which make "bombing runs" dropping thousands of gallons of fire retardant on the brush.

"Things are looking a little more favorable now," a forestry division spokesman said early today. "The winds have subsided somewhat, and some of our backfiring has been successful on the east side of the fire. We have problems on the northwest corner—there's about a mile of open line there. We hope to have the thing contained by 8 o'clock tonight if the weather helps."

Temperatures of 105 degrees were reported on the fire site Wednesday, the second day of a heat wave that brought 100-plus temperatures throughout Southern California, and Santa Ana winds blew at a steady 20 miles per hour.

Weather

Sunny and hot today and Friday. High today, 106; low tonight, 60; high Friday 103. The high Wednesday was 105; low this morning, 64. Sunrise Friday at 5:40 a.m. Sunset at 8:06 p.m.

Via Verde plans referendum on S.D. decisions

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — Residents of Via Verde have again declared war on the city. They're planning to start referendum proceedings to reverse decisions on two condominium developments that were approved by the Planning Commission Wednesday night.

Phil Wax, who has led several other campaigns to change City Council actions involving Via Verde, told the commission Wednesday that he is "going to hit the streets with petitions" to start referendum proceedings.

The commission had just voted 4-1 to grant a conditional use permit for a 63-unit condominium and also voted unanimously to grant a conditional use permit for an additional 55-acre condominium.

Gerald Klein, chairman of the Planning Commission, said after the commission's action that the cases could be appealed to the City Council within 20 days, but Wax said it would be useless to go to that trouble.

"It would be a waste of time. Vinnell-Pauley (developer of Via Verde) gets everything it wants, regardless of what the people want," Wax said.

Dr. Marvin Ersher, president of the Via Verde Homeowners Association, testified against both projects at the public hearing. He said after the meeting that the statement about the referendum wasn't just a threat.

He said the homeowners association would participate in the action. He said it would just take several weekends to obtain the 10 per cent of the total registered voters signatures needed to start the referendum.

Zone changes for both properties haven't received the final adoption from the council. It is the policy of the council to hold off on final adoption until final plans are filed by the developer.

Wax said Wednesday night that he wants the properties changed back to their original residential designation requiring 15,000 and 20,000 square foot lots.

Planning commissioners met at the sites of the two developments Wednesday evening with the project developer, Darryl Wright of Crowe Pacific Development Co. of Newport Beach, and several Via Verde residents.

Nixon, Brezhnev okay nuclear swap, speed up disarmament

High of 106 seen today; more ahead

Temperatures zoomed to 105 degrees Wednesday as the record-breaking heat wave continued. A high of 106 was forecast for today with no relief in sight until the weekend.

Wednesday was the hottest June day ever recorded in Pomona. The previous record was 101.8 degrees, set during a June heat wave in 1957.

Ontario recorded a high of 107 degrees Wednesday.

The National Weather Service office in Riverside said the hot weather and desert-like condition will continue through Friday. A cooling trend will begin over the weekend when ocean breezes are expected to cool temperatures.

Pomona Valley residents suffering from the excessive heat did get a break with smog conditions Wednesday. The Los Angeles Air Pollution District said Pomona's peak reading Wednesday was .11 parts per million. The highest reading in San Bernardino County was .12 ppm in Upland.

The smog forecast for Upland and Chino today is .25 ppm and .30 ppm for Pomona. This is considered light to moderate smog.

Area fire departments were busy again Wednesday fighting grass fires amidst the extreme heat. Los Angeles County, Pomona and La Verne fire departments fought a blaze which burned 10 acres of vacant land in Puddingstone Hills in county area south of Brackett Field.

Pacts held highlight of summit

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev have reached agreements to exchange nuclear research and speed the process of nuclear disarmament, and were to fly back to Washington today to sign them, the White House announced.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the agreements were reached at this mountain retreat Wednesday. They are considered the most important visible results of the eight-day summit.

The pacts would provide for joint research and exchange of scientific and technological information in the peaceful uses of atomic energy and also would outline the basic principles for U.S. and Soviet negotiators trying to reach agreement on limitations on offensive nuclear weapons.

Ziegler said the agreements would be signed in the East Room of the White House. Nixon and Brezhnev will end their two days of talks here and helicopter to the White House to participate in the ceremony.

Democratic and Republican leaders from both the Senate and the House were summoned to a briefing on the agreements by Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's chief adviser, one hour before the ratification.

Nixon and Brezhnev held another round of talks at Camp David as their aides began returning to Washington.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko and ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin departed early to attend a luncheon at the State department.

Ziegler's statement said:

"The President and the general secretary have agreed to sign today an agreement between the government of the United States and the government of the U.S.S.R. on scientific and technical cooperation in the field of peaceful uses of atomic energy. Also, they have agreed to sign today an agreement outlining basic principles of negotiations on the further limitation of strategic offensive arms."

Mexican jet slams into mountain; fear 27 dead

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (UPI) — A Mexican DC9 jetliner with 27 persons aboard flying from Houston, Texas, to Mexico City, slammed into a mountain peak on Mexico's rugged Pacific Coast Wednesday night and exploded. All aboard were feared dead.

The wild Pacific coastal area is almost inaccessible by land. A flotilla of 30 to 40 small rescue boats led by a yacht went by sea early today along the coast to a landing at the base of craggy hilltop area and sent rescue teams into the mountains to search for the wreckage.

A passenger list issued by the Aero-Mexico airline indicated that at least 14 Americans boarded the plane at Houston, but the list was incomplete and the exact number of Americans among the 23 passengers aboard was not known.

Pedro Vega Padilla, commandant of Puerto Vallarta police, said he was waiting for word on what the first rescue group encountered at the scene, about 30 miles south along the coast from here.

"But I am not optimistic," he told UPI. "That is extremely rough and rocky country and I don't see how anyone could have survived."

He said the plane crashed and exploded, according to eyewitness reports received so far by authorities. The plane, apparently preparing to enter its landing approach, plowed into El Morro hilltop between Chimo and Chatala, he said.

The jet was last in contact with the Puerto Vallarta airport tower at 10:25 p.m. CST (12:25 a.m. EDT) today, about 10 minutes before its scheduled landing.

Earlier reports fixed the crash site as Chimo hilltop but when dawn broke it was determined to be Morro hilltop nearby, he added.

Of the 23 passengers, 14 boarded the plane at Houston last night. Nine more got aboard at Monterrey, Mexico, the flight's last stop before it hit the mountainside.

Puerto Vallarta was the second scheduled stop of the flight, No. 229, and then it was to have gone on to Acapulco before ending its run at Mexico City.

Vega said army troops and naval personnel as well as doctors, nurses and local authorities were in the rescue teams ferried down the coast to the landing site. He said the operation was being directed by top Puerto Vallarta officials from a yacht, the Sombrero.

Red Cross teams flying in from Mexico City may try to go overland, he said.

Eyewitnesses to the crash included various fishermen and a school teacher, Vega told UPI.

Letter bomb fatal to French official

PARIS (UPI) — A letter bomb Wednesday killed Georges Fully, the inspector general of medical services in France's prisons, police said.

They said 47-year-old Fully died instantly at his apartment on the Seine River when he apparently opened a package left for him by a visitor earlier in the day.

D.B. girl, 1, drowns in pool

DIAMOND BAR — A 1-year-old girl drowned in a backyard swimming pool Wednesday afternoon when her playmates left her unattended for a few minutes, sheriff's deputies said.

The victim, Dawn Nicole Hunt, was discovered unconscious, lying in about 10 inches of water in the portable pool behind her home at 209 Rock River Drive, when her sisters, JoAnne and Jeanine, returned.

Their mother, Mrs. Lillian L. Hunt, 41, called for help and county fire department paramedics used oxygen and external chest massage in efforts to revive Dawn while she was rushed by sheriff's radio car to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The child was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after 4 p.m.

Deputies said the pool measured 8-feet long by 5-feet wide and was 10 inches deep. They said the victim was alone about five minutes.

The body was taken to Pollock Mortuary.

High court also revises obscenity definition

Desegregation: part and parcel ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a long-awaited Denver decision, the Supreme Court ruled today that intentional racial discrimination in part of a northern city school operation means the entire system is subject to federal court desegregation orders.

The court also revised its previous legal definition of obscenity and said that states and local authorities need not apply a "national standard" of morality in cracking down on pornographic movies and publications.

The Denver case —the first involving a non-southern city to be decided by the high court — dealt with school board policies which black parents said resulted in a discriminatory dual school system. There was no law on the books at issue in the dispute.

The vote was 7 to 1, with the majority opinion delivered by Justice William J. Brennan Jr. Justice William H. Rehnquist dissented and Justice Byron R. White, who comes from Colorado, did not participate in the decision.

In most Southern school cases, the court dealt with de jure segregation which was based on actual state or local laws. The Denver case presented the issue of de facto segregation where schools are racially imbalanced because of neighborhood living patterns or unwritten policies.

Brennan said that where a policy of intentional segregation has been shown as resulting from school board policies in a significant portion of the system, the authorities must prove that their actions involving other racially imbalanced schools were not likewise motivated.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger set forth the new obscenity yardstick in three 5-4 decisions involving two cases from California and one from Georgia.

He let stand a 1957 definition of obscenity: "Whether to the average person, applying community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to prurient interest."

However, he struck down a later requirement that the material must be shown to be "utterly without redeeming social importance."

Burger added two other tests: Whether the work describes "in a patently offensive way, sexual conduct specifically defined by the applicable state law;" and "whether a work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary artistic, political or scientific value."

'Don't force me to testify,' Mitchell pleads

WASHINGTON (UPI) Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell has asked the Senate Watergate committee not to force him to testiiy because he expects to be indicted in the bugging case.

Mitchell's attorney, William G. Hundley, wrote committee chairman Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., that a Senate appearance would force Mitchell to spell out his "entire defense" before the government has proved a case against him and would violate his right to "stand mute" until the government's case has been presented.

Hundley's letter, sent Monday and later disclosed to UPI, said the "cold fact of the matter" is that government prosecutors "are going to recommend that the grand jury indict Mr. Mitchell and in the present climate the grand jury is going to follow their recommendation."

The initial reaction among committee sources was that the plea would be rejected and that Mitchell will be called to testify sometime next month. The panel has turned down similar pleas from others. Last week it required Maurice H. Stans, former Nixon finance chairman, to testify, although it agreed not to ask about the Vesco case, in which both Stans and Mitchell have already been indicted in New York.

Meanwhile, a summary prepared by the White House of 36 conversations between President Nixon and his counsel, John W. Dean, between February, 1973, and late April came to light. The summary, obtained by NBC, portrayed the President as repeatedly seeking the facts about the bugging and portrayed Dean as repeatedly assuring Nixon there was no high-level White House involvement. It said Dean stuck to this position up until the latter part of March, nine months after the bugging.

Another summary—this one prepared by the Senate Watergate committee staff after Dean talked with them in secret session Saturday—contained allegations against Nixon's former top aides, John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman, but did not give details of Dean's talks with the President.

The Washingtbn Post said this omission was apparent because Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., committee vice chairman, ruled in the Saturday session that Dean's talks with the President might be covered by attorney-client privilege or national security constraints and that this question should be determined in a second interview with Dean, scheduled for Monday. Dean declined to appear for that interview, saying there were so many press leaks he would say no more until his public testimony next week.

Only man she ever loved; won't leave him

Martha says she wants Mitchell to tell it all

WASHINGTON (UPI) Martha Mitchell has again used her favorite means of communication—the telephone—to say she has urged her husband to reveal anything he knows about White House involvement in the Watergate scandal for the sake of their family.

"I've told him repeatedly that I may not be here many years, but Marty (their daughter) will be and his grandchildren," Mrs. Mitchell said in telephone call Wednesday from her New York apartment to UPI White House reporter Helen Thomas.

Mrs. Mitchell, whose husband John was attorney general and President Nixon's re-election campaign manager during a portion of the 1972 campaign, shed no light on allegations that Mitchell had a role in the bugging conspiracy and coverup. She said she understood that he "was being pressured from the top," but declined to elaborate.

Mrs. Mitchell repeated her assertion that Nixon should resign.

"I don't like (Vice President Spiro T.) Agnew, but by God I think he's better than Nixon," she declared.

Mrs. Mitchell indicated she and Marty, 12, would be "going South," probably today and ptssibly to her home state of Arkansas, and might be away for the summer.

"All I want is peace of mind," she said. "I could live in a shack."

She said her husband would join the family after he undergoes questioning by the Senate Watergate Committee and stands trial in New York on charges that he sought to obstruct justice and defraud the government in connection with a campaign contribtion.

"Under no circumstances will I ever leave my husband," she said. "He's the only man I ever loved."

In an article in the current issues of McCall's magazine, writer Vivian Cadden said the Watergate scandal might have been exposed much earlier had it not been for "deliberate moves" to silence Mrs. Mitchell and then to discredit her.

McCall's said that after the June 17, 1972 break-in at the Democratic National headquarters at the Watergate complex, the Nixon administration considered Mrs. Mitchell "no longer useful" as "comic relief."

McCall's said there was a "concerted effort on the part of Republican party officials" to transform Mrs. Mitchell in the public's eye "from the Republican darling to a sick woman who drinks too much."

McCall's said the anti-Martha campaign was intended to suggest that "her remarks, present and future, were to be considered the product of an overwrought person."

Mrs. Mitchell came down from her 11th floor apartment Tuesday night and threw a doorman's cap at a woman reporter who was staked out on the sidewalk outside the apartment building. She also hit the reporter on the head.

Inflation spiral eases slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's worst inflation in 22 years eased slightly in May, but higher prices for food, clothing, gasoline, used cars and household services still pushed the cost of living up 0.6 per cent, the government said today.

Although the May increase was smaller than the price jumps in the three previous months —the highest three-month rise since 1951 — the Labor Department said its Consumer Price Index (CPI) now stood 5.5 per cent above a year ago —more than twice the government's 2.5 per cent price guideline.

Retail prices have risen at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent over the past six months and at a yearly rate of 8.7 per cent over the past three months.

The May CPI did not reflect the 60-day price freeze ordered by President Nixon last week, but it did show the full impact of the meat price ceilings he ordered late in March. As a result, meat prices fell 0.1 per cent in May after rising 13.2 per eent during the previous four months. more

While the cost of living continued to go up, the BLS said average weekly earnings of rank and file workers failed to keep up with the higher prices last month. The purchasing power of their average earnings declined 0.3 per cent last month.

The 0.6 per cent rise in prices in May was under the 0.7 per cent jumps in February and April and the 0.9 per cent advance in March. But it was still higher than for January of this year or any single month in 1972.

The CPI in May was 131.5. This meant that goods and services which cost $10 in the 1967 base period cost $13.15 last month.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said food prices went up 1.0 per cent in May, the smallest increase this year. Commodities other than food went up 0.6 per cent while the prices of services increased 0.4 per cent.

The BLS said food prices in grocery stores went up 0.9 per cent instead of declining as they usually do in May. With the exception of meats and eggs, most foods showed price increases —with sharp jumps for dairy products, fish, coffee, cereal and bakery products and smaller increases for fresh vegetables, particularly potatoes, onions, cabbage and celery.

The price index for restaurant meals went up 1.4 per cent in May, the largest monthly increase since that index first was published more than 20 years ago.

Price increases of 1.2 per cent for gasoline and motor oil, 2.8 per cent for used cars and 0.8 per cent for clothing accounted for most of the increase in the nonfood commodities index. Prices also went up for fuel oil, furniture, houses, tobacco, newspapers, and home maintenance and repair commodities.

The BLS said new car prices held steady, but they normally drop slightly in May.

In the services category, charges for household services went up 0.4 per cent, primarily because of increases in rent, mortgage interest costs, and home maintenance and housekeeping services.

Prices for medical care services, dry cleaning and laundering and recreation also rose.

Astronauts cleaning house on last day aboard skylab

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab's astronauts cheerfully cleaned their house-sized space home and finished packing today—the final day of their record four-week orbital research journey.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz plan to leave Skylab at 4:45 a.m. EDT Friday, fly their Apollo ferry ship around the lab for one last look and then gradually descend to a Pacific Ocean splashdown at 9:50 a.m.

Because Skylab will be visited by three more astronauts for eight weeks starting July 27, Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz had to leave the eight-room assembly in spotless condition.

Listening to music and chatting with mission control, Kerwin paused for a few minutes during his housecleaning chores to tell capsule communicator William Thornton:

"We'd like to stop and have coffee with you, but the CDR (Conrad) says we're going on a trip tomorrow and we have to pack."

"Press on," Thornton replied. "It sounds as if the CDR is getting a bit travel proud."

Just like a housewife getting ready to leave for a vacation, the pilots had to wipe all food preparation areas with a disinfectant, clean the bathroom, scrub the trash airlock, discard dirty clothes and defrost a freezer.

Conrad paused from his work to play a loud recording of "Up, Up With People" for mission control, and said the scene aboard the space station was "like the day before Christmas. We're having our farewell party with all the office staff and everything before we leave."

To rest up for their action-packed morning Friday, the astronauts went to bed an hour early Wednesday and got up an hour ahead of schedule this morning. They planned to take a five-hour nap late this afternoon, awaking at 8:30 p.m., but flight director Don Puddy said they were about two hours ahead of their cleanup timetable, and might get even more rest.

ACLU asks court to set aside Watergate convictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) has asked U:S. District Court to set aside the convictions of the seven Watergate defendants and to order a new trial against "all" of those responsible "regardless of their station in life."

In a "friend of the court" motion filed with Judge John J. Sirica Wednesday, ACLU said justice was "abused" in the criminal case in which five Watergate defendants pleaded guilty and two were convicted in a trial last January. It called the trial a "sham."

It said those who pleaded guilty "were receiving large sums of campaign cash" but "falsely represented otherwise" to the court.

The convictions, it charged, were obtained partly on the basis of perjured testimony by "at least two witnesses" —Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Nixon campaign, and Herbert L. Porter, former campaign schedule director, both of whom have admitted in Senate testimony that they lied to authorities in the criminal case.

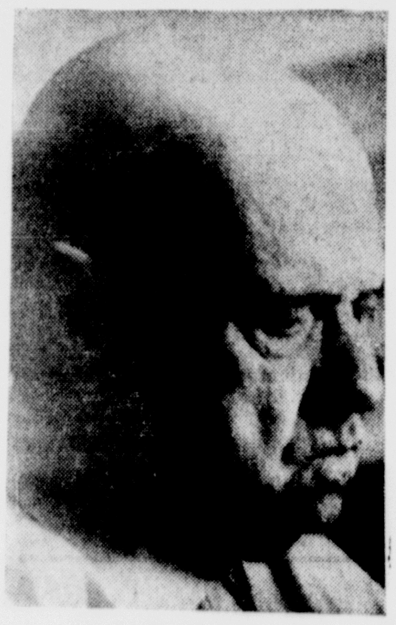

At the same time, ACLU filed a lengthy "report" on the Watergate case with special prosecutor Archibald Cox urging him to conduct an immediate review to determine whether his office should file its own court motion to set aside the seven convictions.

This report also urged Cox to use no personnel connected with the Justice Department or the U.S. Attorney's Office in his own investigation. It was highly critical of how those agencies so far have handled the case.

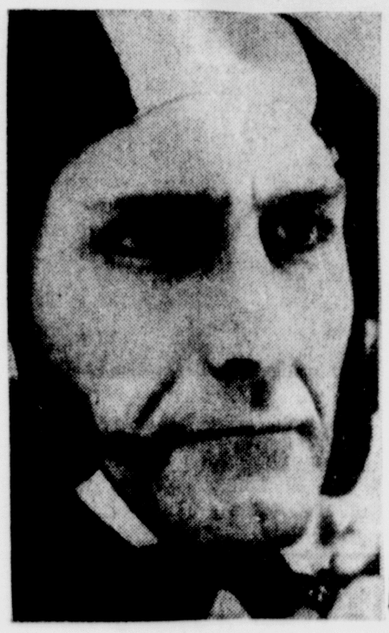

Violations drop, but Viets still fighting

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese command said today there were only 65 Communist cease-fire violations in the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m., the lowest since the same number was recorded May 31.

The number of attacks has dropped steadily since the second cease-fire went into effect June 15.

Plane crashes in Everglades; three killed

MIAMI (UPI) — A Trans-Air DC7 cargo plane crashed in the Everglades just after takeoff today, killing all three crewmen.

Dade County police went to the scene by helicopter and found the bodies. The three men were not identified.

The plane, bound for Santo Dimingo, crashed and burned in an uninhabited area of the Everglades about five miles north of Tamiami Trial just west of Miami.

The Coast Guard said the plane took off at 4:20 a. m. and four minutes later dropped from the radar screen at Miami International Airport.

A Coast Guard search helicopter spotted the wreckage at 4:50 a. m. and the pilot described the crash as "non survivable."

Via Verde plans . . .

for both projects which are located about one mile apart.

The 63-unit development would be constructed on the east side of Via Verde between Camino Del Sur and Camino Del Cerritos. The 55-unit project would be constructed in the Via Verde Golf ccurse area northerly of the clubhouse and southerly of W. Avenida Loma Vista.

A public hearing was held two weeks ago before the commission with testimony from nine residents of Via Verde protesting the projects. The commission held the hearing over until Wednesday to give commissioners an opportunity to visit the site and also because several members were concerned that the 63-unit development didn't have play areas for children and sufficient visitor parking.

Commissioner David Brode was critical of the project two weeks ago and voted against the 63-unit development Wednesday night. He explained that he still felt the development "would be detrimental to the area."

The commission approved the 63-unit condominium with the conditions that two 20 by 30-foot lots be included and one on-site parking space be required for every four units.

Residents testified that the 63-unit project would be a traffic hazard, cause noise problems to the people living on the bluff above the development and would lower property values.

Mrs. Phyllis Myer of 1371 Camino Del Sur, which would be above the project, said "I'm going to be looking at garbage cans and trucks, didn't buy my property to have this to look forward to. Several residents opposed the recreational vehicle storage lot for the development.

Commissioner Klein defended the project, saying it was compatible and the plans are reasonable. He said that people who live above the project wouldn't have the bad experiences with the development that they now expect. Commissioner Robert Lowry said he felt better about the project after visiting the site.

The residents also testified against the 55-unit development. Ersher pointed out that although the project was described as a "townhouse development" it was also a condominium development. City Atty. Norman Oliver and Wright agreed that the second project is a condominium.

Commissioner Donald Haefer said he felt there should also be a tot lot provided in this development. The commission decided that a half-acre area near the swimming pool could be used for this purpose.

City Manager Robert Poff said this morning that unless there is an appeal of the two cases, the matter won't be before the City Council until the developer files final plans. He said there is a possibility that the council might want to study the proposed developments to determine if they will conform with the new general plan. Public hearings on the general plan will be held before the Planning Commission the second week of September.

This isn't the first time Via Verde residents have battled the city over developments in Via Verde, which is located in the southern portion of the City.

A referendum was filed in 1968 and an initiative petition was filed in 1971, both by the Via Verde Homeowners Association.

The residents won the referendum case when the council repealed the lot size ordinance they opposed. However, the council rejected the initiative petition to curtail apartment development because of a legal error.

The association also sued the city over the general plan in a case which was dropped several weeks ago.

Casals concert in Central Park

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cellist Pablo Casals will perform a free concert in New York's Central Park Friday, a city parks spokesman said.

The cellist will be made an honorary citizen of New York in honor of the occasion.

Violinist Isaac Stern, who will also perform, praised the 96-year-old cellist and composer as "one of the greatest muscians in the history of music who has given direction to so many of us over the years."

Conrad exercises, reduces waistline

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab commander Pete Conrad Wednesday reported that he found a way to melt inches off his waistline while eating three square meals a day and a few butter cookies before bed.

Conrad has been taking a daily turn on a stationary bicycle, usually reserved for biomedical experiments, even when he was not taking part in the experiments.

"Now I have a 28-½ inch waist and I started out with about a 30," the astronaut said by radio from space. "I've lost a little around the legs and I don't believe I've lost any in my arms. I think I'm in as good shape physically almost as I was when I left."

Liza says affair with Sellers over

NEW YORK (UPI) Liza Minnelli arrived at Kennedy International Airport Wednesday and confirmed reports that her short-lived affair with actor Peter Sellers is over.

The 27-year-old singer and actress said before leaving London that she had no regrets.

"How can you regret anything that was so happy?" she asked.

Elvis aids camp emptied in theft

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Elvis Presley Wednesday promised $1,000 to help restock a summer camp that was cleaned out by thieves earlier in the week.

Presley's manager, Col. Tom Parker, relayed the pledge to Louisiana State police after the rock singer read about the theft during his current concert appearance in Mobile, Ala. The camp, located in Holden, La., is operated by state police volunteers.

In Montgomery, Ala., meanwhile, Gov. George Wallace interrupted a meeting to take a telephone call from Presley, who asked after his health. The governor told Presley that he was feeling better although he still cannot walk unassisted.

Earl Warren will give Bradley oath

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Earl Warren, 82, former chief justice of the United States, will swear in Tom Bradley as mayor of Los Angeles July 1.

Others participating in the inaugural ceremony, according to plans made public Wednesday, include singers Vickie Carr, O.C. Smith, who will sing "The Impossible Dream," and Florence Henderson (of "The Brady Bunch" television series), the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, which will play "Fanfare to the Common Man," and the Operation Breadbasket Choir.

Bradley defeated Mayor Sam Yorty in an election last month to become the first black mayor of the nation's third largest city.

Actor says ex-wife misused child funds

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Tony Curtis accused former wife Janet Leigh Wednesday of misappropriating more than $100,000 in child support funds.

Curtis, 47, petitioned Superior Court for custody of his daughter Jamie, 14, saying Miss Leigh's home is "wrought with tension and is otherwise an unwholesome medium for the emotional stability and welfare of the child."

He said Miss Leigh, who has remarried, failed to set up a trust fund for Jamie, as she had promised, and misappropriated Curtis' support payments for "unbelievable items" such as travel, liquor, clothing and limousine rental bills.

Navy will place women in command

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Navy chief of operations Elmo R. Zumwalt Wednesday said that women will soon be taking command of some non-combat posts.

"The opportunity for competition is there for all," he said. "It takes a lot of years to get into a command position, and I'm sure the women will compete favorably."

Pope celebrates 10th anniversary

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Giovanni Battista Montini quietly celebrated his 10th anniversary as Pope Paul VI today, looking back on a decade that perhaps saw greater change in the Roman Catholic church than in any other this century.

A crowd of thousands gathered below sent up a roar as the white smoke erupting from the roof of the chapel signified a choice had been made.

Attempted-murder trial of Riverside pair delayed

POMONA — The trial in Superior Court here of two young Riverside men, accused of attempted murder, was continued Wednesday to Aug. 27 while defense attorneys file affidavits supporting their pretrial motions.

The defendants are Keith Arnold Spears, 22, and James Franklin Hooker, 20, who are charged with cutting the throats of a young man and his sister during the ransacking of their parents' home here March 23. Both victims recovered.

Among the defense motions is one seeking a change of venue. Defense lawyers maintain publicity given the incident locally would make a fair trial impossible. Another seeks information from the prosecution concerning evidence obtained during the police investigation.

Trial Judge August J. Goebel scheduled July 10 for a hearing on the motions and set Aug. 27 for the possible beginning of the trial.

Spears, Hooker, Margie Collins Davenport, 29, 1794 Calatina Ave., Pomona, and 15-year-old Rosemary Adams, Riverside, were arrested several hours after the cuttings as they were driving near the Pomona Freeway. The 15-year-old eventually was turned over to the Riverside County Probation Department. She was accused of being the girl who got the victims' father, George Ryan, 52, to open the door of his home by claiming she was conducting a survey. Two armed men rushed inside and the entire family was bound and gagged.

Mrs. Davenport, originally charged with resisting arrest and receiving stolen property in the incident, later pleaded guilty in Pomona Municipal Court to disturbing the peace. She was sentenced to 18 days in jail, the time she had been confined, by Judge Houston A. Snidow.

Spears and Hooker remained in jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

College tax shows drop in Chaffey Dist.

ALTA LOMA — A tentative budget of $8,545,123, featuring the biggest tax rate reduction since 1960, has been approved by Chaffey College trustees.

At current estimates, next year's tax rate will be about 4 cents less than this year's rate of 61¼ cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Included in the new budget is $465,000 in revenue to Chaffey contingent on the passage of Senate Bill 6, the proposed state financing for community colleges.

The tentative budget for the year ahead encompasses a 5½ per cent wage increase for all full time employes as well as funding of study program development.

In a recent adjourned meeting, two employe groups opened the way for furthr salary negotiation under the Winton Act.

The board rescinded its earlier approval of a 2 per cent salary adjustment, conditional on the passage of SB 6.

Fish or foul play, Iceland row causes NATO concern

Icelanders, inhabitants of a minination once called the Hermit of the Atlantic, say there are few words in their language to describe military rank or tactics.

They have with their Scandinavion cousins a traditional desire for neutrality.

But it is their misfortune that their island democracy sits at the edge of the North Atlantic's great circle route over which passes the bulk of seaborne traffic between Europe and America.

It was this that led Lenin to declare at a meeting of the Comintern in 1920 that Iceland would have an increasingly important strategic role to play with the development of air and sea warfare.

These are the factors that make the codfish war with Britain more than a relatively simple dispute between two nations and make it a cause for concern to all the nations of NATO.

Iceland itself has broadened the scope of the dispute with its demand that NATO force Britain to recognize Iceland's claim to jurisdiction over fishing waters 50 miles off Iceland's shores and the announcement that it would reopen the agreement covering the NATO base at Keflavik with a view to ousting American forces there.

Iceland has no defense forces of its own so the 3,000 or so Americans of the Navy and Air Force serve in a dual capacity as Icelandic defense and NATO forces under asingle command.

Highly sophisticated electronic equipment on land and sea and in the air keep tabs on the movement of Soviet submarines out of Murmansk and on Soviet long-range bombers. More than a dozen of the latter hape been seen by U.S. reconnaisance planes near Iceland in a single day. All or most of the Soviet subs operating in the Mediterranean are said to come fron. Murmansk.

Hospital staff asks nursing home aid hike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mount Zion Hospital staff members urged Gov. Ronald Reagan and state legislators to provide more state funds for nursing homes.

"The level of care in nursing homes accepting Medi-Cal patients in the San Francisco area has been generally poor," they said in letters to Reagan and the lawmakers.

The letters said the reason for the deteriorating situation was "inadequate reimbursement paid by the state."

Tot run over by mother's car in fall through window

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — A 17-month-old child was injured seriously Wednesday afternoon when she was run over by her mother's car after falling out the car's window, sheriff's deputies said.

Stephanie Michele Phillips was reported in fair condition today at Queen of the Valley Hospital, West Covina, where she was being treated for a variety of cuts and bruises.

Deputies said the child's mother, Mrs. Claudia Phillips, was driving into the driveway of their home at 17014 Ridge Park Drive when the child fell out and was run over by a rear wheel. The girl was rushed by sheriff's radio car to the hospital while county fire department paramedics gave her mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage. She began breathing before reaching the hospital, deputies said.

Defense witnesses contradict prosecution line in Burts' case

SAN BERNARDINO — The defense in the Ronald Wayne Beaty escape case Wednesday called 10 witnesses to the stand as testimony resumed after a two-day delay because of a juror's illness.

In the trial, Benton Douglas Burt, 30, and his wife Andrea Holman Burt are accused of murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and freeing a prisoner in connection with the Oct. 6 ambush of a state car in Chino that freed Beaty and left a prison guard dead.

Wednesday Chino prison guard Manuel Vicario and his wife, Elizabeth, testified that they were kidnaped by Beaty in another escape on Nov. 1, 1970. The defense asked the couple if they were not kidnaped and actually were accomplices in Beaty's escape.

The couple reaffirmed their original testimony in the federal court trial on the escape case that they had, in fact, been kidnaped. In that trial Beaty was convicted of escape with force.

Bay area residents Mrs. Joan Oney and aCroline Ballinger took the stand to establish alibis for the defendants on Sept. 16 and Sept. 30 of last year. The alibis related to the prosecution testimony of a Montclair hardware tsore employe who said Mrs. Burt was with a group who may have looked at and later purchased a pair of bolt cutters similar to those used in the ambush to free Beaty from his waist chains on the dates in question.

A San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department detective took the standt to confirm testimony of another alibi witness, the Burts' apartment landlady, who said she thought the Burts were home Oct. 6.

A telephone company employe, Lawrence Brown from Gilroy, testified about a telephone call made to the Burts' apartment on Oct. 6. Cross-examination revealed that another telephone call from Gilroy went to Sylvia Stead, the woman Beaty said kept them overnight Oct. 6.

Carl Trickett from A-Mart testified that he had shipped two additional bolt-cutters to the Montclair store prior to Oct. 6, bringing the total number shipped to four.

Stanford law school graduate Jerod Peterson told the jury that he had met the Burts at a party on Sept. 16, and another law school graduate Walter Hunkler, now one of the Burts defense attorneys, took the stand to say he met the Burts about prison law projects that day.

Chino prison guard Michael Rose testified about two telephone calls made by Beaty the day before his escape.

Auto stalls on freeway, is hit

ONTARIO — A car that stopped running while on the San Bernardino Freeway was hit by another car that couldn't stop.

Velma Mathews, 75, of Ventura was driving east on the freeway near Mountain Avenue Wednesday when her car's engine stalled. The vehicle came to a stop in an outside travel lane in the midst of heavy traffic.

Richard Parker, 29, of 228 E. Ralston St., Ontario, was traveling about 60 miles an hour and didn't see the stalled vehicle in time to avoid a collision, highway patrolmen said.

Parker was treated at the San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland and released.

Upland girl, 15, struck by car

UPLAND — A 15-year-old Upland girl was struck by a car on Euclid Avenue at 19th Street this morning as she was crossing the street to catch a school bus, police reported.

Pamela Lacey, 15, of 345 Yorktown Court, Upland, was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital for treatment of multiple injuries shortly after the 7:43 a.m. accident. Her condition was not immediately known, police said.

Police said the girl was struck by a car driven by Jimmy Fugate, 28, of 9442 19th St. in Alta Loma.

Donrey acquires Ark. newspaper

The Donrey Media Group, owner of the Progress-Bulletin, has announced the acquisition of a new property, the Springdale News in Springdale, Ark.

The newspaper, which has a circulation of 9,634, becomes part of the Donrey's eastern newspaper division, saidRoss Pendergraft, executive vice president.

3 Chinatown bandits face S.F. trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A trial date of Sept. 18 was set in U.S. District Court for three suspected members of the "ski-mask bandits" who struck banks and groceries.

Edward Chien, 18, Ronald Gong, 16, and Wallace Tang, 17, pleaded innocent to charges resulting from the May 14 robbery of a Chinatown branch of the Bank of America.

A fourth suspect, Thomas Chamberlain, 17, was charged as a juvenile and will be sentenced July 10

For Friday, June 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It won't take much to tip you off-balance today. You're likely to have a very low boiling point. Cool it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Don't be disappointed when someone toward whom you behaved generously doesn't show proper appreciation. It's one of those days.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You will have a tough time if you try to cover all the bases. Do less today — but do it well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You have to hold very firm to your plans if you intend to follow them. Many interruptions will bug you today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You would be wise to let others sort out their own affairs today. You won't be much help. Keep out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Situations where you and a close friend have to come to terms on an agreement will occur. Neither will yield.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): You may feel someone else is taking credit for something you've done. You're right, but don't squabble now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): Someone you care for may not live up to your high expectations today. You'll probably let them know it. Why not?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Outside interests will look more appealing and inviting today. Don't neglect responsibilities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your attention to what you should be doing will be easily distracted today. Curb your wandering interests, for your own good.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): Plug up any holes you can in your budget. It now looks like you're spending more than you're making. It's easy to do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Discipline is called for today. As the triangle that says like fun appear to be "no-no." You'd better believe it!

Stiffer paid-killer measure approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to discourage persons from hiring paid killers was approved 30-9 by the senate recently and sent to the Assembly.

The measure (SB387) by Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale, would require a sentence of not less than five years in prison for soliciting a measure.

Currently, the penalty is up to one year in jail or up to five years in prison or a fine not exceeding $5,000. A combined fine and jail sentence also can be levied.

Bridge

Overcall cues a grand slam

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Sir Kay was the one cowardly knight of the Round Table. He was also a coward at the bridge table. He thought his jump to four clubs was a tremendous overbid and might keep Lancelot from getting to the right contract.

A more enterprising and valiant knight would have jumped to six clubs and probably kept Lancelot out of the grand slam. All the four-club bid did was tell the peerless knight and bridge player how to go about the business of making the grand slam.

Lancelot ruffed the club lead and drew trumps. He noticed that Kay followed to three leads. He also knew that Kay held a lot of clubs for his preempt. Hence, if anyone held all four diamonds it would be the unfortunate Sir Palamides sitting East.

Just to make sure Lancelot cashed his ace of spades. Kay followed to that also and now Lancelot was ready for the diamonds. He led a diamond to dummy's ace. Kay showed out and it was a simple matter to lead the 10 of diamonds, overtake East's jack, go back to dummy with the queen of spades and finesse against East's nine to make the grand slam.

Lancelot might have played diamonds that same way if Kay had not bid at all. After the four-club bid the play was just about a cinch.

Business group sees fuel oil shortage next

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The gasoline shortage of this summer may be followed by a fuel oil shortage next winter, a business group has reported.

The National Federation of Independent Business said a survey showed that 63 per cent of fuel dealers in 23 states have reported cutbacks in supplies averaging 20 per cent.

In addition, the federation said 74 per cent of the dealers reported they have had prices increased by suppliers.

Obituaries

Mrs. Winifred Miller

POMONA — Mrs. Winifred S. Miller of 1542 N. White Ave. died Wednesday in a local nursing home after a lengthy illness.

She was born July 17, 1882, in Paola, Kan., and moved to Pomona 13 years ago. She was a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church here, and a charter member of the Neodesha, Kan., PEO.

Survivors include a son, Tom S. Tyson of Pomona; one grandson; and a great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be at 4:30 p.m. Friday in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Dr. John W. Black, pastor of the Trinity Church, will officiate. Shipment will follow to Kansas.

Mrs. Iva C. Dickson

CHINO — Former Chino resident Mrs. Iva C. Dickson died Saturday in Wilcox, Ariz.

Mrs. Dickson was born in Clinton, Iowa, in 1887. She had lived in Chino since 1962 before moving to Wilcox recently.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Geneva Sheffield of Chino and Mrs. Frances Capener of Pearce, Ariz.; one son, Robert of Decatur, Ga.; nine grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandson.

Private services were held in Wilcox, Ariz.

Mrs. Minnie C. Hill

LA VERNE — Mrs. Minnie C. Hill of 1024 Mildred St. died Wednesday morning in a San Dimas convalescent center.

Mrs. Hill was born April 9, 1889 in Michigan City, Ind. She came to California in 1970 from South Bend, Ind.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Paul Bishop and Mrs. Donna Clark, both of La Verne; Mrs. Norma Burden of Port Richy, Fla., and Mrs. Lois Essling of La Porte, Ind.; a son, Claude Jr. of Elkhart, Ind.; a brother; eight grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Services and burial will be held in Patton Cemetery in La Porte. Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona is in charge of arrangements.

Topless 'in', bottoms out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It's cover-up time for the bottomless dancers at North Beach's nightclubs.

The Board of Supervisors has appdoved an ordinance banning such entertainment where alcoholic beverages and food are served.

The girls, however, will still be able to shake it up on the stage with their breasts bared. The only stipulation is that they stay six feet away from oglers.

Trapped fish saved by DFG

REDDING (UPI) — State Fish and Game Department teams have won a race against time to save thousands of salmon and steelhead fingerlings trapped in the pools of drying streams in Tehama and Siskiyou counties.

Paul Wertz, department information officer here, has reported the Tehama salvage operation was completed last week with an estimated 100,000 fish in the three to four inch class being plucked from more than 100 locations.

The annual rescue operations reached beyond the normal fishing spawning runs because last winter's exceptional rainfall attracted adult fish into creeks ordinarily void of migratory fish, Wertz said.

Many of the creeks which ran high during the winter stopped flowing and began to dry under recent high temperatures, he said. The fingerlings, if left in the pools, faced certain death.

In Tehama, most of the rescue work was done with seins. The fingerlings were trucked to the Sacramento River and released.

Balance of payments picture brightens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. balance of payments situation, a gauge of the nation's international financial standing, brightened considerably during the first three months of 1973. The payments deficit was reduced by $300 million during that period, according to government statistics.

The Commerce Department reported Wednesday a first-quarter deficit of $1.2 billion on current and long-term capital accounts. This compares with deficits of $1.5 billion for the last quarter of 1972, $2.6 billion for the third quarter of last year and $3.7 billion in the first quarter of 1972.

The balance of payments measures trade in goods and services, U.S. government grants, private long-term capital investments and pensions paid to overseas residents. The figures exclude the volatile flow of liquid funds which tend to reflect foreign exchange market pressures on the dollar.

The department said the improvements in the overall figures resulted from the elimination of the deficit in goods and services and a substantial decline in the trade deficit.

But long-term capital outflows shifted in the other direction in the first quarter. The department statistics showed a $120 million deficit in long-term capital outflows compared to a fourth-quarter 1972 surplus of $781 million.

The department also said net foreign purchases of U.S. stocks rose to a record $1.3 billion during the first quarter, an increase of $200 million. "But there was an offsetting decline in new issues sold abroad by U.S. corporations."

In a related development, Yoshizane Iwasa chairman of the Fuji bank of Japan, told a group of American businessmen that the 1972 trade deficit between the United States and Japan—which totaled $4 billion —will be cut in half this year and brought into near balance in 1974.

Iwasa said during the first five months of this year "we have been the beginnings of a long awaited turnaround, both in the U.S. trade deficit with Japan and in the overall U.S. deficit in its trade with the world."

Supermarket pact okayed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than half of the union locals representing Southern California supermarket employes have now accepted a fact finder's recommendation for pay raises and the other locals are expected to follow suit.

Wednesday, local 770, the largest of the locals representing 18,000 supermarket personnel in the Los Angeles area, voted by a 53.3 per cent margin to accept the 6.5 per cent pay increase.

Management already has agreed to the 6.5 increase and four other union locals—from San Diego to Santa Barbara—have voted to accept the raise. Four more locals will vote by Friday.

If all 60,000 supermarket clerks and boxboys accept the recommendation, it would then go to the federal Cost of Living Council before a contract can be completed.

10 inmates, fire warden hurt in mountain crash

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eleven men were injured Wednesday when a county truck carrying a prisoner fire crew ran off a dirt road and plunged 100 feet down an embankment in the Santa Monica Mountains.

One inmate from county Detention Camp 13 was in serious condition at UCLA Medical Center. A fire warden and nine prisoners were in fair condition at Westlake Community Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said the truck, which was carrying the prisoners to clear firebreaks in the Malibu area, failed to negotiate a curve on a winding dirt road and slid down the hillside, rolling over three times.

A sheriff's helicopter rescued the injured.

County-USC hospital named cancer center

LOS ANGELES (UPI) County-USC Medical Center has been selected as one of eight new comprehensive regional cancer centers operating under the jurisdiction of the National Cancer Institute.

USC officials said the purpose of the center is to coordinate all cancer activities supported by the institute within the local region.

Mayors ask Nixon to hand over jobs-for-youth funds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Nixon administration was urged Wednesday at the U.S. Conference of Mayors to release $265 million in federal funds for summer youth jobs.

Some 100 teen-agers picketed outside the St. Francis Hotel in a demand for jobs while Mayors Theodore M. Berry of Cincinnati and Joseph N. Alioto of San Francisco made their appeal to Kenneth Cole, director of the White House Domestic Council.

Cole was addressing the final session of the weeklong conference and was telling the mayors that their problems were less important than President Nixon's efforts toward world peace.

Berry leaped to his feet and said:

"There is a group of people outside this hotel trying to embarrass the mayor of this city by demanding summer jobs for youths, and I would like to ask Mr. Cole why the President will not release the $265 million appropriated by Congress for summer jobs this year."

Cole replied that the cities could use their Emergency Employment Act money for the jobs.

Alioto replied: "Your answer just doesn't stand up to analysis. Every mayor in this room can tell you that to use those EEA funds to provide summer jobs for our youth we'd have to fire adults already employed with the same funds."

The host mayor said Nixon was acting under "a false premise." He added that Cole should convey the mayors' feelings to the President.

Before heading home, the mayors adopted resolutions on revenue sharing, federal budget cuts and mass transit projects as well as on environmental matters. One approved resolution supported the construction of the Alaska oil pipeline.

Mayor Roy Martin of Norfolk, Va., was elected the new president of the conference and he named Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary, Ind., as cochairman of the conference's Legislative Action Committee. Alioto was named the other chairman.

Martin told the delegates from nearly 750 cities that he would accept the invitation of Washington Gov. Dan Evans, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, to set up a joint task force to push for passage of more federal aid for cities and states.

Work-study funds go to 8 valley schools

WASHIGNTON, D.C. — Sixteen colleges and universities in his district will share some $630,000 in federal work-study funds during fiscal 1974, reported Rep. Jerry L. Pettis, R-33rd Dist.

Included are Cal Poly Pomona; Chaffey College, Alta Loma; La Verne College; and Claremont Graduate School, Claremont Men's College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College and Pomona College, all in Clareont.

Pettis said he had been informed by the U.S. Office of Education that federal funds will provide 80 per cent of student payrolls and a matching college-university or off-campus agency will provide the remaining 20 per cent.

Additionally, he said, a total of $961,326 in federal funds for supplemental educational opportunity grants for low income students has been awarded.

This program provides grants ranging from $200 to $1,500 per academic year to undergraduate students of exceptional financial need who are eligible.

House committee ups Nixon Health, Education budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to sharply increase President Nixon's proposed spending for health and education programs in 1974, exceeding his budget requests by $1.3 billion and inviting a new veto.

The panel approved a $32.8 billion money bill to fund the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies in the new fiscal year that starts July 1. Nixon had asked $31.5 billion for the same programs.

Nixon vetoed two Labor-HEW money bills last year because they exceeded his budget requests. Congress sustained the first veto and rather than try to override a compromise bill that he also vetoed merely passed a resolution continuing funding of the agencies at the 1972 appropriations levels.

The committee said it "could not possibly accept the meat axe approach" Nixon used in cutting back federal aid to health programs and boosted his proposals in the health area alone by 300 million.

The panel also inluded $333.8 million to keep the Office of Economic Opportunity in business for another year while Congress decides what to do about Nixon's plan to abolish the antipoverty agency.

Nixon budgeted $143.8 million to phase OEO out of existence and the committee said it was merely adding $190 million to that figure but was earmarking the money to certain OEO programs, mainly the big Community Action Agency project.

In education, the committee recommended $2.1 billion for aid to grade and high schools whereas Nixon pegged his budget to his proposed special revenue sharing for education, a program the administration has conceded is dead for this year at least.

HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger told a recent meeting of school administrators he would recommend to Nixon that elementary and secondary education aids continue at current funding levels which would be $241 million less than the committee has proposed.

The panel also recommended $610 million for the impacted aid program that sends money to school districts with large numbers of children of federal workers. It noted this was $549 million over Nivon's budget request.

The bill would provide $1.8 billion for higher education programs, an increase of $61 million over the budget, and would fund vocational education at $600 million, an increase of $555.6 million over the budget.

Congress may keep F111

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, which a decade ago nearly aborted the birth of the F111 fighter-bomber, now is rushing in with a transfusion to prevent its death.

The House Armed Services Committee voted $172.7 million Wednesday to keep production lines for the controversial plane open through 1975—a year longer than the Pentagon wants. This will enable General Dynamics to produce 12 extra planes—one a month.

Similar action appears to be in the works in the Senate, despite Acting Defense Secretary William Clements decision on June 6 to close down the line at Fort Worth, Tex., when the 534th plane rolls off in December, 1974.

The F111's successful performance in the December bombing raids against Hanoi and Haiphong—in which it softened up enemy defenses for the B52 bombers—appears partly responsible for the change in attitude.

But more important, General Dynamics and backers of the F111 in Congress have skillfully sold some Pentagon spending critics on the idea that the F111 may be a suitable, lower-cost alternative to the B1 strategic bomber now on the drawing boards.

At least, F111 proponents feel, the Pentagon should reserve its options in the event the B1 is a failure.

During the 1960s, the F111 was under severe criticism in Congress because of mounting costs and technical problems. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., conducted a prolonged investigation filled with charges of contract irregularities and performance deficiencies.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was accused of ramming the multipurpose plane down the throats of unwilling military chiefs, who opposed a plane to be used in common by the Air Force and Navy. The Navy version eventually was cancelled.

Year by year, enough money was squeezed through to keep the program alive. But instead of the 1,726 F111s that McNamara originally planned to buy at $3.4 million each, the government now will get only a third that many for $14.6 million apiece.

In view of the soaring costs of other aircraft—the B1 is now expected to cost $54.6 million a copy—some in Congress now consider the F111 a bargain.

'Chaotic' drug pricing favors rich in L.A. County

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Retail drug prices in Los Angeles County fluctuated by as much as 173 per cent from store to store in an "absolutely chaotic" pricing system in which the poor pay more and the rich less, a legislative report revealed today.

The survey, initiated by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti indicated the consumer could cut his drug bill in half if he knew about the price differences. The saving in Los Angeles County alone, Moretti estimated, would be $60 million a year.

"The prices are whatever the traffic will bear," Moretti said. "The public doesn't have a chance to select intelligently because there's no incentive for the retail pharmacies to discontinue their capricious and arbitrary pricing practices."

Moretti is the author of legislation requiring pharmacies to post the prices of the 100 most commonly prescribed drugs and which would lift the prohibition on price advertising. It goes before the full Assembly today.

"I believe they ought to compete just like any other business in a free enterprise system," Moretti said.

The survey, conducted in Arcadia, Beverly Hills, East Los Angeles, Huntington Park and Long Beach, showed that "the unwary drug purchaser is victimized by an unfair and capricious system," he said.

Persons living in the Mexican-American barrio of East Los Angeles were charged higher prices for "four out of five" medications than residents of exclusive Beverly Hills, he said.

The price difference between the two communities "is just another example of the kind of outrageous conditions that exist," he said.

"A well known medication for skin infections sold for a low of $2.20 to a high of $6, a 173 per cent fluctuation," Moretti said. "And researchers were charged 15 different prices varying 131 per cent for a drug needed by epileptics."

"It's not unrealistic to suggest the consumer could cut his annual prescription drug bill in half if he knew about the price differences," said the Van Nuys democrat.

Citing the Los Angeles survey and an earlier one with similar results in Sacramento, Moretti said, "no matter how you look at it prescription drug pricing practices in California are absolutely chaotic, all to the detriment of the consumer, especially the sick and elderly."

The survey was conducted by the Assembly Office of Research, which bought five prescription drugs from five pharmacies in each of the five communities.

The brand drugs purchased were Chlortrimeton, Dilantin, Lanoxin, Polycillin, and Tetracyn.

"Studies have shown the average family buys 10 prescription drugs each year. By doubling the highest and lowest cost of the five common drugs surveyed, and multiplying the totals by the number of Los Angeles county families, we see a difference of more than $60 million," Moretti said.

The survey also included follow up telephone requests for price quotes for the same drugs purchased only days before.

"Of the pharmacies willing to cooperate, the price claims of 62 per cent conflicted with the actual over the counter cost— most often too low," Moretti said.

"That's after we cut in half the number of responses because of druggists who refused to quote a price or who were so imprecise you could only consider the information whimsical," Moretti declared.

New camera lets doctors 'see through'

MENLO PARK, California (UPI) — Scientists at the Stanford Research Institute have developed a machine that allows doctors to "see through patients," giving them a look at bones, blood vessels and tendons.

Phillip S. Green, program manager at SRI, thinks the device will be a valuable supplement to the X-ray machine.

"It is many times more sensitive than an X-ray machine and has tremendous potential for working on the heart or looking for tumors," he said.

The device is called an acoustic camera and was developed with funds supplied by the National Institute of Health.

The machine uses sound waves too high for the ear to hear. It sends the waves through the body and they are picked up by six transducers set to the right frequency.

In a recent demonstration of the camera, Green stuck his hand in a large tub of water and an image of the hand's bones, blood vessels and tendons flashed on an adjacent TV screen.

Eventually, Green said, there will be no need for the water.

Some similar machines now in use require the patient be placed in water but Green says his machine soon will have water-filled bags attached to the camera.

The camera will press the bag against a patient from the sound-transmitting side and another from the receiving end.

"This device is also far more sensitive than the few other similar ones now in operation," he said.

The sound waves moving through the water can be focused by acoustic lenses in just the same way as light is focused.

"X-rays are absorbed by dense structures like bone, but not by soft structures as readily as sound waves," Green said.

"To make soft tissues visible with X-rays they have to introduce a contrast material, and this sometimes can be hazardous."

Nixon home improvements at $460,302

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government now says it spent $460,302 for improvements on President Nixon's estate at San Clemente, Calif., instead of the $39,525 announced the White House May 26.

The higher figure was released Thursday by the General Services Administration (GSA), which said the entire amount was for work done at the request of the Secret Service for security reasons.

GSA said the work, done by contractors, was begun in July, 1969, when Nixon bought the estate, and included:

—$184,174 for electrical wiring inside and outside the 10-room villa, low and high intensity lighting and a detection and signal system.

—$76,000 for landscaping the grounds. The Secret Service said this was necessary to remove shrubberies and foliage blocking vision and to put in plantings which would enhance security.

—$13,500 for a new central heating plant which the Secret Service requested to eliminate fire hazards. Also a sprinkler system for fire safety.

—$26,740 for guard houses, a gate house and a gate.

—$15,989 for roadway repairs.

—$57,582 for a masonry wall.

—$11,561 for a redwood fence along the beach.

—$12,964 for a bullet-proof wind screen by the swimming pool.

The Santa Ana (Calif.) Register said a Nixon financial statement showed the President spent $123,514 in additional expenses out of his own pocket.

GSA said that within a few days it would make a similar accounting of government expenditures at the President's home at Key Biscayne, Fla.

LEVITZ IS NUMBER 1*

* THE WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER OF FAMOUS BRAND FURNITURE

Levitz Soaring to No. 1 In Southern California

By JOANNE GAMLIN

LOS ANGELES — Levitz — a name which has long stirred awe and anxiety in traditional furniture dealers here — will realize a three-year-old retail ambition this year.

The seven Levitz warehouse-showrooms here will nail down the position of No. 1 in any list of the top ten furniture retailers in southern California.

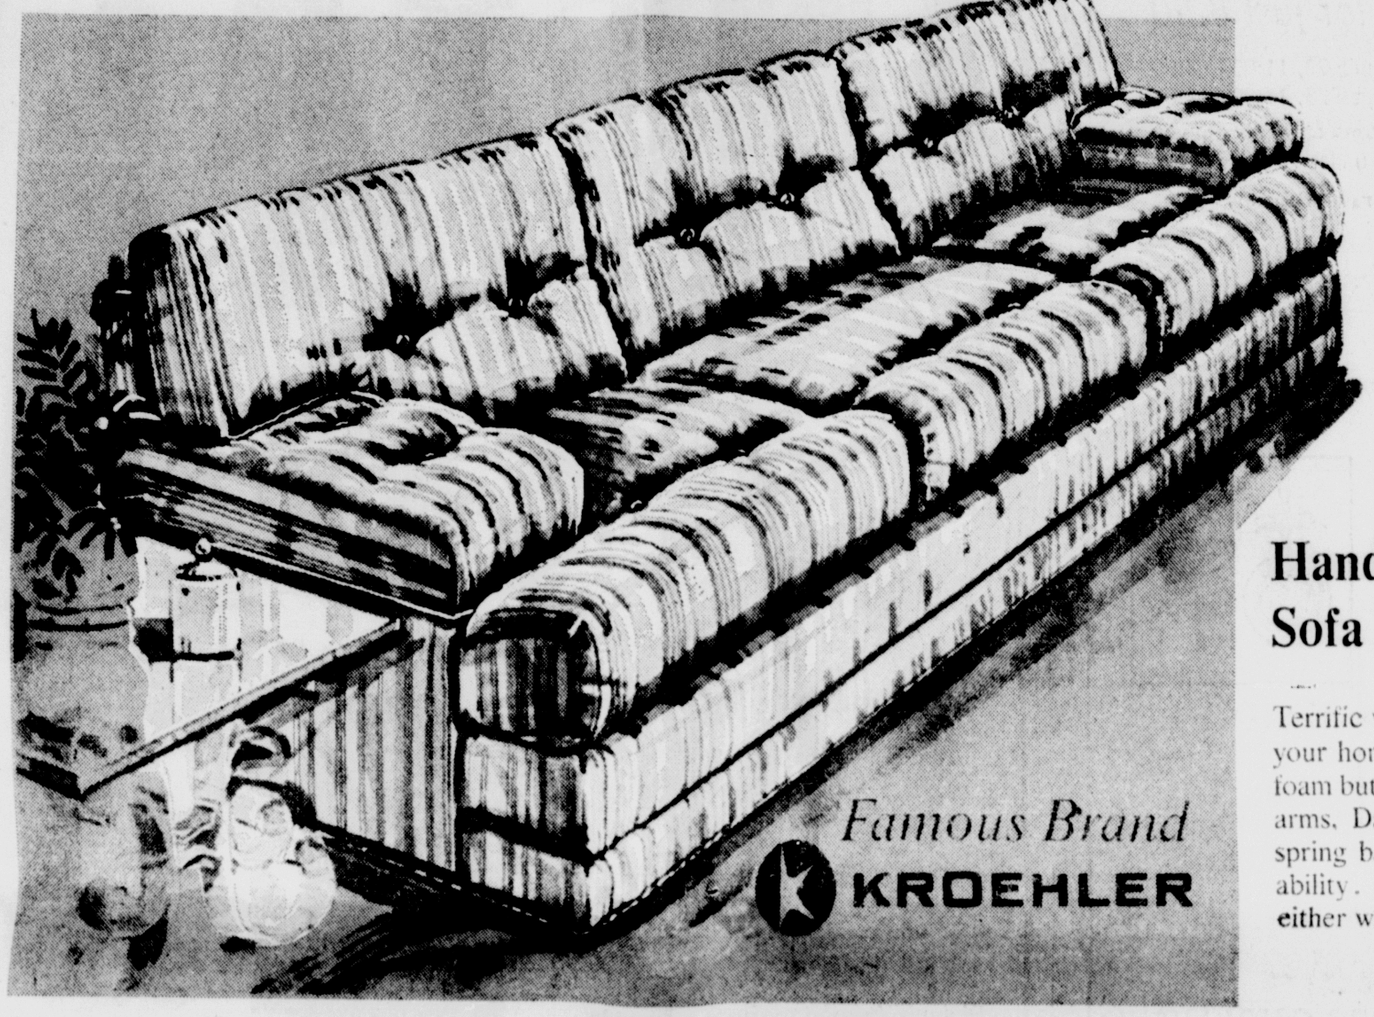

Refuting the Cassandras who spent a lot of time in 1972 predicting the warehouse-showroom momentum had begun to wear thin, Levitz was probably No. 1 in 1972 and will be the indisputable crown holder this year. Its full size warehouse-showrooms, combined with the smaller San Diego unit, will churn out total sales of nearly $80 million this year.

LIBRARY'S SUMMER FUN

Ex-Claremonter is judged insane and committed

POMONA — Eric Joseph Saville Jr., 27-year-old former Claremont resident accused of attempted murder, has been adjudged presently insane and committed to the state Department of Mental Hygiene.

Pomona Superior Court Judge Robert Firth committed Saville, of Los Angeles, to the state hospital at Atascadero and suspended further criminal proceedings against him. They could be continued upon Saville's recovery.

The defendant was accused of wounding John Pilon, 47, of 1465 N. Tulane Road, Claremont, when he went to Pilon's home after being turned down for a job at the place Pilon worked.

Pilon was wounded in both legs and faces a lengthy period of recuperation, authorities said.

Saville himself was wounded in the arms in a blast fired from a shotgun by a Claremont policeman who was summoned by Pilon's wife. The officer, Dex Atkinson, said he fired as Saville was holding a gun to Pilon's head.

Saville was a former acquaintance of the victim. He arrived at the Pilon home carrying a box. Inside the box, investigators reported, was the weapon, a .38-caliber revolver.

Police said Saville took the gun from the box, shot Pilon and then held the weapon pointed at the wounded man for 15 minutes before being shot by Atkinson after refusing to free the victim.

Pomona school budget drops tax rate 95 cents

POMONA — The tax rate for the Pomona Unified School District for the coming year will drop about 95 cents per $100 of assessed evaluation, according to the district's tentative budget which will be up for Board of Education action next Tuesday evening.

The reduction in the tax rate is made possible by an additional $2.3 million in support money from the state as a result of Senate Bill 90.

A study session on the tentative budget was held by the Board of Education last Tuesday evening.

A good portion of the increased state funds will go to district employes. Earlier this month the board agreed to a 9.5 per cent salary increase for all district employes for the 1973-74 school year.

The proposed tax rate is approximately $5.20, down from last year's $6.15. It will include 70 cents for bond redemption.

Garrett Nichols, assistant superintendent for business services, said that major changes may be expected in the publication budget which will be up for approval in mid-July. He said that if Assembly Bill 1267 were passed it would provide the district with upwards of $300,000 in new funding.

SCHOOL HISTORIAN

Sharon Guevara, center, newly elected as Fremont Junior High Schools first "Keeper of Records," looks over the Pomona school's scrapbook of newspaper clippings along with Deborah Barbar, school student body president, and school Principal Rafael Estupinian. Miss Guevara will keep an updated history of the school by clipping articles from local newspapers about school events.

Three win P-B sweepstakes

Three Pomona readers won cash prizes in the Progress-Bulletin's TV Week Sweepstakes Wednesday, raising the total number of contest winners to 136 and cash awarded to $2,740.

Wednesday's were:

— Richard Sanchez of 2487 Barjud Ave., a $10 winner.

— Jessie Perez of 2925 Houston St., who received $25.

— Toni Mitas of 356 Cameron Ave., also a $25 winner.

'Magical Mystical Tour' theme of library program

POMONA — Registration began this week for the Pomona Public Library's schedule of special summer activities for children.

Under the theme, "The Magical Mystical Tour," the summer program will include daily events for children of various age brackets and special programs.

A summer reading club will be offered. This will not require book reports or the reading of a set number of books. Reading of one book will qualify children for a certificate.

The schedule includes folk dancing every Monday at 10 a.m., puppet making Tuesdays at 2 p.m., films for younger children Wednesdays at 10 a.m., and for older children and adults the same days at 2 p.m.

Craft-making is scheduled Thursdays at 2 p.m.; story hours Fridays at 10 a.m. for to 5-year-olds; story hours the same days at 10:30 a.m. for 6 to 8-year-olds; and Fridays at 2 p.m. discussions will be held on books.

Special programs will include a "Safety with Animals" presentation on July 12, a pet show July 13, and a Festival of the Arts and special family film on Aug. 30.

MARILYN L. SOMMERVILLE of 669 Russell Place, Pomona, recently received her 20-year service pin from the Metropolitan Water District's board of directors. She is senior telephone operator at the district's F. E. Weymouth Memorial Softening and Filtration plant in La Verne.

Pomona student receives degree

LOGAN, Utah — Joseph L. Corey of Pomona was among some 2,100 graduates who received their degrees in recent commencement exercises at Utah State University.

Corey of 1007 Lewis St. received his bachelor's degree in the humanities, arts and social sciences.

Fire Dept. reminder

Fireworks illegal in city

POMONA — Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes today issued a statement reminding residents that fireworks are illegal in the city July 4 or any other day.

"Each year, in the city of Pomona, numerous fires are caused by the careless and illegal handling of fireworks. Some of our citizens, usually children, are seriously hurt by fireworks which become out of control," said Fowlkes.

"City ordinances make it a misdemeanor punishable by up to a $500 fine for possessing, discharging, or transporting any type of fireworks.

"Even though some of our neighboring communities have chosen to permit the sale and discharge of safe and sane fireworks, the citizens of Pomona have chosen not to permit their use in the city.

"I strongly urge those responsible to eliminate the illegal use of fireworks this year in their celebration of the 4th of July, thereby making sure that their homes and their families will not be one of our statistics.

"Each year, I encourage the Pomona Fireman's Association to continue providing a safe fireworks display for the citizen of Pomona at a reasonable cost. This display is presented by professional people so that each and every citizen can celebrate the 4th of July fire safely."

4 from L.A. County Fair get Western Fairs posts

POMONA — Participation of four representatives of the Los Angeles County Fair in committee assignments has been announced by Western Fairs Association, largest regional organization of its kind on the North American continent.

WFA, with headquarters in Sacramento, extends into 28 states and five Canadian provinces. Member fairs last year attracted 39 million patrons.

Committees will assist in planning for the 1974 WFA annual meeting and workshop scheduled for Feb. 4-6 at tne Disneyland Hotel, Anaheim.

Committee from the Los Angeles County Fair are Phil D. Shepherd, Fred Bruderlin, Dr. William Walker, and Harry Hoffman.

Shepherd, secretary-manager of the local fair and director of Western Fairs Association, will serve as chairman of the Fairs Over 175,000 in attendance committee, and as a member of the by-laws, bicentennial, pari mutuel racing and vocational education committees.

Bruderlin, assistant manager, is co-chairman of the commercial exhibits committee, and a member of the carnival-concessions and civic-recreational use committees.

Walker, fair director, is a member of the advisory directors committee.

Hoffman, fair publicity director, is a member of the publicity-advertising-promotions committee.

Coed participating in science program

PALM DESERT — Debra Ericson of Pomona is one of four students from the University of Redlands who are participating in a mutual academic program with Eisenhower Medical Center.

The students, involved in an intensive 10-week course in biomedical sciences, will take part in case reporting, developmental work in one or more areas including histology, chemistry, radio-immune analysis, nuclear medicine and radiology.

Miss Erickson is a senior majoring in chemistry.

Adult swimming lessons at YMCA

POMONA — The Pomona Valley YMCA will conduct a series of swimming lessons for adults beginning Monday at 350 N. Garey Ave.

There will be a class for men and women on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8 p.m. and a class on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 to 11 a.m. for women only.

Instructors for the lessons will be Paul Strid and Debbie Thompson.

Fee for the course is $1 for YMCA members and $10 for nonmembers.

For further information, persons may call the YMCA at 623-6433.

Ellison is tapped by Phi Beta Kappa

POMONA — Gregg Alan Ellison, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. Roger Ellison of Pomona, has been named to Phi Beta Kappa at the conclusion of his junior year at USC.

Ellison has been accepted at Baylor University Medical School in Houston, Tex., and reports for classes on July 5.

A 1970 graduate of Pomona High School, Ellison has been employed during his college years in the Pomona Valley Community Hospital laboratory department.

VFW band will play at hospital

POMONA — Bob Ensign and his Blue Grass music group, composed of members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2018 in Pomona, will visit the Long Beach Veterans Hospital Saturday to entertain the patients.

In addition to playing in the hospital auditorium, the group will also perform in the five spinal injury wards for bedridden men.

Members of the VFW post and the ladies auxiliary visited the hospital recently, where they are sponsors of one of the spinal injury wards.

In addition to visiting each man individually, they also took homemade cookies and fresh fruit to the patients.

Robert Knox of Ontario and Virginia Spridgeon of Montclair are the hospital chairmen for the post.

Pomona band to play at barbecue

POMONA — The Pomona Concert Band led by Stan Selby will play a variety of musical selections Sunday at the sixth annual barbecue of the Historical Society of Pomona.

The event, which last year attracted an estimated crowd of 1,300, will be held at the site of the old Louis Phillips Mansion, 2640 W. Pomona Blvd., from noon to 5 p.m.

Numbers by the band will include "Marchas Zacatecas," "Variations on America" by Jerry Bilik, "Bohemian Scene" by Albert Davis, "Kiddy Ballet" by Ralph Hermann, selections from "Showboat" by Jerome Kern, other marches and novelty tunes.

22 complete studies for nurse's aides

POMONA — Twenty-two students who completed nurse's aide training received certificates at a recent graduation dinner.

Mrs. Roxie V. Barfield is teacher of the course, sponsored by the Pomona Adult School. Half of the semester is spent on nursing theory and half with on-the-job training at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Students receive training in medical, surgical, orthopedic, pediatric, geriatic and obstetric nursing.

Graduates are Martha Camarillo, Mary Ann Cooper, Julia Damper, Sherri Dennison, Faye Fruit, Elidia H. Garcia, Terry Hankins, Karen Hetle, Ellen W. Jacobs, Sherril Johnson, Florence M. Jordan, Inga M. Kubicsek, Janet La Londe, Evangeline La Marque, Sandie Le Master, Edna McCarther, Janet E. Morgan, Kathryn Palmer, Donna Mae Seberger, Edith Shay, Denise Williams, and Linda Ann Witthaus.

The next class is scheduled for Sept. 10.

Fiesta Mexicana planned

POMONA — The annual Fiesta Mexicana at Sacred Heart Church will be conducted July 13, 14 and 15 on the church grounds featuring a variety of musical entertainment.

In addition, five local girls are vying for the title of queen of the fiesta. They are sponsoring car washes, bake sales and dinners to sell tickets to raise funds for the parish fund benefit. The girl who sells the most tickets will be declared queen of the contest.

Contestants include Rosemary Marguia, Espie Garcia, Marie Antoinette Lopez, Mary Lou Caldera and Delia Garcia.

Miss Marguia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Murguia, 2146 Towne Ave. She is a junior at Garey High School. She is being sponsored by her family.

Miss Garcia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel H. Garcia, 2240 S. Park Ave. She is a senior at Garey High School. She is also being sponsored by her family.

Miss Lopez is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peguero, 1868 Denison St. She graduated from Garey High School in 1972. She is being sponsored by the Brown Hearts.

Miss Caldera is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sal Caldera, 543 W. Fernleaf Ave. She is a senior at Garey High School. She is being sponsored by her family.

Miss Delia Garcia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santos G. Garcia, 867 W. Monterey Ave. She graduated from Ganesha High School in 1972. She is sponsored by the Guadalupanas.

The winning girl will receive an eight-day trip to Mexico or Hawaii or $600 in cash. Second-place winner will receive a color portable television set and third-place, a 10-speed bike.

Entertainment for the fiesta will include the "Los Tapateos," "El Balet Folklorico," and Spanish dancers directed by Mrs. Esther Nariega.

Rides, games and food booths will be featured at the fiesta.

Question is can phase IV do it?

As far back as a century before Christ, the Chinese Emperor Wu Ti attempted to control prices by government decree. History is replete with other such examples, most of them distinguished by markedly little success.

In announcing "Phase 3 and one half," a partial return to the controls of Phase I of August-November, 1971, President Nixon reflected this lesson of history.

"We must never," he said, "slip into the temptation of imagining that in the long run controls can substitute for a free economy or permit us to escape the need for discipline in fiscal and monetary policy. We must not let controls become a narcotic and we must not become addicted."

Whether or not controls (on everything except raw agricultural products, wages and rents) are a narcotic, they seem to be the kind of medicine a feverish economy needs at this juncture.

The question is whether that medicine is strong enough and timely enough and, even so, whether it will do more than treat the more visible symptoms of whatever it is that ails the economy, symptoms that could only flare up again once controls are removed.

If it is not controls that we are in danger of becoming addicted to but inflation — an inflation that has distorted the economy for the greater part of the past decade and which we have almost come to accept as an inevitable fact of life.

Added to the problem of "normal" inflation in recent months has been the attack on the dollar in the world's money markets, an adverse balance of payments and, as the President noted, crop failures abroad and some of the worst weather for crops and livestock we have ever experienced in America.

Thus the attack on an inflationary situation of such complexity must be conducted on a broad front, with the agonizing knowledge that not every variable—the weather, for instance—is fully amenable to human manipulation.

But while a mandatory price lid may be the least effective weapon in this fight in the long run, it appears to be the best one immediately at hand.

It remains to be seen whether the upcoming Phase IV, unlike the disastrous Phase III that relied on voluntary compliance and undid everything accomplished by its two preceding phases, will contain remedies which will, as the President hopes, get us as quickly as possible out of a controlled economy and back to a stabilized free-market system.

Dispirited '76

The great American celebration of its 200th anniversary has pretty much gone phhhht.

After three years of awkward inaction, the unwieldly and unimaginative American Revolution Bicentennial Commission has aborted the one nation-wide celebration proposal it had been able to gestate. That was a federal program of financing to help the states establish their own Bicentennial parks.

It looks as if a federal celebration now is beyond possibility. Which leaves it up to the states to honor a momentous occasion. And quite a few are working on enlightened plans, preeminently California.

The state's American Bi-Centennial Commission has designated the Gold Rush as the theme for California's celebration, not only because of its colorful impact on history, but also because of the economic impact and the fact that it so enriched our lives by bringing to California people of diverse cultures.

The '76 observances will not, however, be confined to the 49ers. Ten estimable projects have been approved by the commission, according to executive secretary Albert C. Johnson. Among them:

A cultural display in Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego ranging from American Indian arts to today's mass media forms;

A reenactment of Juan Bautista de Anza's expedition to San Francisco;

A working replica of the frigate USS President, which will visit various state ports;

Establishment of a wildflower park in Antelope Valley, primarily to preserve the famed California Poppy.

The other projects are of similar merit, and with the enthusiasm so far evidenced by the commission bid fair to make it certain that California, at least, will not have a dispirited '76.

Spending clocked

For the first time in history, the rate the government spends money is being clocked, literally, by a "Federal Spending Clock" located in the national headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Every 1.2 seconds a dial indicates the expenditure of another $10,000, the average annual income of an American family. Every 12.6 seconds a light flashes, indicating the spending of another $100,000. And every two minutes and six seconds, a "beep" is heard, signaling that the federal government has just dropped another million smackeroos.

The "beep," incidentally, goes off about 700 times a day. By the end of the current fiscal year, the rapidly changing digital figures on top of the clock will have registered a total of some $250 billion.

Meanwhile, over at the Census Bureau, there's another clock that records the arrival every few seconds of one more citizen who will spend most of his lifetime making the other clock run.

Colson's confession about snooping

WASHINGTON — The White House financed a trip to New England by Waterbugger E. Howard Hunt to investigate Sen. Edward Kennedy's role in the Chappaquiddick tragedy, according to Charles Colson, who ordered the mission.

The former White House aide confessed his part in the snooping operation during a secret deposition taken May 28 by lawyers for the Democratic National Committee.

Colson told under oath how Hunt came to him in July 1971, with a tip that a policeman, identified only as "Demott," had confidential information on the case.

Because Kennedy was a potential presidential contender, the White House was eager to learn more about the 1969 drowning of Mary Jo Kopechne during a drive with Kennedy.

Rehash

Colson instructed Hunt to interview the policemen whose information, said Colson, proved to be a rehash of published material. The White House paid Hunt's air fare either to Massachusetts or Rhode Island for the interview, Colson recalled.

The tough, glib Colson also admitted he had dispatched Hunt to Denver to question Dita Beard about her famous memo linking an ITT financial commitment to the Republicans with an advantageous antitrust settlement. Hunt wore a preposterous, ill-fitting red wig on this secret mission.

Colson conceded that he had worked, too, on an advertisement supporting President Nixon's decision to bomb and mine Haiphong harbor. The ad was signed by private citizens but paid out of campaign funds.

'Attack group'

In his deposition, Colson also spoke fully for the first time of his mysterious "Attack Group," which worked out of the White House in 1972. Its job, he said, was to coordinate policy for surrogate candidates who were carrying the political attack to the Democrats.

Colson vigorously denied he had advance knowledge of the Watergate break-in. The most he did, he said, was phone campaign deputy Jeb Magruder to arrange for the Watergate ringleaders, Howard Hunt and Gordon Liddy, to explain their intelligence plans. But Colson insisted he did this at Hunt's request and never learned the actual plans.

On balance, Colson denied more than he admitted. He flatly contradicted press reports that he had recruited men to pose as homosexuals in the McGovern campaign. He also denied knowing Hunt had once forged documents to show the late President John F. Kennedy had conspired to assassinate the late South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Democrat Deal: The Watergate spotlight had caught in its sweep many a moneybag who contributed generously to President Nixon's campaign and received a government favor in return. But there were Democrats, too, who engaged in this sort of exchange.

A defaced "m" in a typed bill introduced by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., for instance, led us to the typewriter of John Horne, a former Sparkman aide who is now a director of the billion-dollar Continental Investment Corp.

We established that Horne had written the measure and Sparkman had rushed it through his Senate Banking Committee without bothering to have it retyped. The bill would allow Continental's brokerage company to continue collecting fat brokerage fees until 1975 from a mutual fund company also owned by Continental. This would benefit the company at the expense of the shareholders.

Until a few days ago, we thought Sparkman had granted this legislative favor because of his long friendship for Horne. But now we have learned that Continental executives funneled money into Sparkman's 1972 campaign.

In December 1971, C. Robert Strader, vice president of Continental's brokerage firm, wrote his top aides in confidence: "In regard to the Senator Sparkman Campaign, would you be good enough to forward your check, made payable to the Sparkman Campaign Fund, to Mr. Reasoner immediately . . . ." William Reasoner is president of the brokerage subsidiary.

Again in February 1972, Strader made another pitch to his harassed executives: "Everyone in the Home Office is being asked to contribute the cost of one or more $100 fund-raising tickets based on their salary level . . . Forward your check to me made payable to the Senator John Sparkman Campaign."

Even in this day of Watergate, such blunt corporate pressure is uncommon. We have traced the flow of money from Continental executives into account number 12-860-81-411 at Washington's American Security and Trust bank.

The trail ends there. We were unable to get the bank or Sparkman's office or Continental to discuss the secret fund with us. Insiders have assured us, however, that the contributions wre "substantial."

Whatever the total, it was a good investment. Sparkman's bill will benefit Continental many times above the amount its executives raised.

PAUL HARVEY

Who can really afford a strike?

The steelworkers and the steelmakers have agreed: no strikes, no lockouts through July, 1977. Maritime workers are about to agree to a similar moratorium on strikes.

Even George Meany now says there must be a better way to settle disputes than by striking; he advocates voluntary arbitration. What's it all about? The cost of striking has gone up. Strikes cost more now than they're worth.

In the 1930s when most workers worked for 60 cents an hour, it cost very little to keep a family going during a strike. With today's standards of living and cost of living and all those time payments due on homes, vehicles, appliances, tuition, insurance and such, who can afford to go on strike? Why lose $50 to $70 a day for an eventual gain of a few cents an hour?

Peter Brennan, our nation's hardhat secretary of labor, says "all segments of society are coming to realize that strikes are an increasingly ineffective way to resolve disputes." The rank and file says "amen."

Latest Department of Labor figures show that idleness resulting from labor disputes has declined to nine-tenths of one working day per thousand — the least first-quarter level since 1966!

Strike idleness in March was the last in nine years. This trend could about-face within the next few weeks when half a million teamsters and half a million auto workers seek new contracts. Teamsters are demanding unprecedented wage and fringe benefits: 20 per cent!

Major labor contracts covering 5 million workers are up for negotiation involving some of the hardest-bargaining unions. Every worker reminds his negotiators that he needs more these days to buy bacon and beans and shoes for the baby. But the negotiator knows that he needs more to stay out on strike, also. And that could moderate some otherwise arbitrary demands.

The USDA predicts supermarket prices will soar 10 per cent this year. The best way to drive those prices down is to market more of everything. Yet some unions have struck meat processors in opposition to practices which would have increased efficiency.

Privately, most American workers know that they are not producing all they can. The most recent Harris Survey shows they know, six-to-four, that they could produce more. Two-to-one they fear automation of their jobs. Yet two-to-one they are opposed to any production speedup which most feel would benefit only stockholders and management.

This year labor needs to want to produce more and management needs to agree to share the profits with consumers.

Unshared enthusiasm

In your review of the Claremont High graduation, you devoted four paragraphs to one of the three student speakers, David Coleman, and a mere paragraph apiece to Tim Burdick and myself, the other two. Frankly, I feel that this indicates a real bias on the part of your paper.

Your patronizing not-bad-for-a-blind-kid attitude towards Tim's speech and your dismissal of mine as negative and anti-school was in direct contrast to the reaction of the audience, who were visibly moved by the former and visibly amused by the latter.

A pity your reporter couldn't have shared their enthusiasm. — Mitch Gordon, Claremont High class of 1973.

Old drivers missed

I would like to know what became of all our nice Pomona bus drivers that we used to have on the old Pomona buses. The ones we have now do not seem to know what the word courtesy means.

There is one who even takes us a block beyond where you ring to get off. They all act like they hated their jobs. We sure had some fine drivers on the old buses and it was a pleasure to ride with them but not so any more. —Mrs. R. Stevens, Pomona.

Gossip for today

Once upon a time, kissing babies and pointing with pride to the sanctity of motherhood was one of the favorite vote-getting gimmicks used by politicians. But how times have changed! Today, with all the worry about world population explosion and the ever increasing agitation to bring about zero population growth, no smart office seeker would think of touching motherhood or babies with a ten foot pole. Today those who are in the business of telling us ordinary mortals who we should run our lives and our government have far more important things to champion. Like in Maryland, for instance, where a Baltimore grand jury has recommended the legalizing of prostitution and gambling, saying that the state could benefit greatly from their operations.

INSIDE REPORT

Governor joins assault on Daley

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — Besieged by two persistent young Republican prosecutors, the battered political machine of Mayor Richard J. Daley now faces yet another potential calamity: the prospect that Gov. Dan Walker will back a full slate of reform candidates in next year's Cook County (Chicago) Democratic primary.

Such an unprecedented move by the newly elected Democratic governor against the state's most powerful Democrat for 20 years would heighten the Daley machine's sense of being surrounded by bipartisan enemies. It has been hurt badly by investigations and indictments at the hands of those two aggressive Republicans: James Thompson, 37, U.S. attorney for northern Illinois, and Bernard Carey, 38, state's attorney for Cook County. For Walker now to make his own move against organization would confirm the belief by Daley lieutenants that Walker is in league with the Republicans.

Although Walker's political operatives claim their current polls show Daley slipping, almost all politicians feel the 71-year-old mayor is still popular and probably unbeatable for a sixth term in 1975. His organization is another matter, however. There are signs of irreversible decline with far-reaching consequences for state and national politics.

Machine gummed up

A major contributor to that decline has been U.S. Atty. Thompson, probably the next Republican candidate for mayor. His high body count of indicted Democratic politicians has badly gummed up the machine. But, whereas Thompson supplies "the heavy bombers" smashing the machine, says one anti-Daley reformer, State's Atty. Cary provides "the infantry" to mop up. Carey's policing of the courts and polling procedures substantially erodes the organization's control of the vote.

As a result, ward committeemen in the Daley organization worry about next year's county elections. Some are pressing for purges of incumbents, particularly scandal-stained County Assessor P. J. Cullerton. Without new faces as regular candidates, they fear the reformers could come close in the primary. But such demands are inimical to the Daley system. Moreover, reform Democrats confide they will back moderate Republicans in the general election if they lose the primary elections.

For the governor to join this assault is intolerable to old-line Democrats. Even though Walker won the nomination for governor on an anti-Daley platform, the regulars expected him to cooperate with the mayor once in office in order to court the Daley bloc in the state legislature. But Walker, uninterested in legislative programs, has nurtured his anti-machine posture.

Contrary to rumors that it produced a secret accord, a May 22 closed-door meeting here between the mayor and the governor was an exercise in non-communication. Daley complained about Walker's patronage policy; Walker replied he has no interest whatever in patronage; Daley responded he ought to have a large interest in patronage.

The cold war in Springfield between Walker and Lt. Gov. Neal Hartigan, 35, a bright comer in the Daley organization, further illuminates the governor's attitude. Hartigan is totally frozen out of the state administration. He cannot get appointments to see Walker's top aides, much less the governor himself.

Hartigan refuses to resign

When Hartigan asked Walker for meaningful duties, he was informed that would require his resignation as award committeeman in the Daley organization. Hartigan refused, contending a resignation would repudiate everything he and his father, a Daley stalwart, had always stood for in politics.

In return, Hartigan has seized every chance to criticize Walker. Although Hartigan is acting on his own, there is no doubt that the mayor could stop the young lieutenant governor if he chose. He does not so choose. "Daley doesn't dislike Walker," a major Democratic leader told us. "He despises him."

Indeed, Daley is widely described as increasingly bitter—angry at Walker, angry at the Republican prosecutors, angry at press criticism. Although his political genius survives in part and the awe he inspires here is genuine, some friends say he now grows testy as the day wears on, and has become intolerant of unpleasant advice.

But what most irritates Daley and his stalwarts is a combination of his Democratic foes with the Republican prosecutors.

Reform Democratic alderman William S. Singer, a key Walker backer in 1972 and the man who shoved Daley out of the Miami Beach convention, recently held a fund-raising tent party. Among the guests was that omnipresent Republican, big (6-foot-6) Jim Thompson, who joked that he and Singer should flip a coin to decide who runs against Daley in 1975. To Daley stalwarts, the quip symbolized the serious bipartisan assault on the nation's last great city machine.

"Your mother and I just ASSUMED that your college roommate's name was spelled 'F-r-a-n-c-E-s'!"

GENTLEMEN, START YOUR ENGINES!

La Verne police chief Jack Baker looks over the four cars and participants in the forthcoming youth safety run which will demonstrate car economy and safety between Burbank and Yosemite Valley. Four cars will take part in the contest.

Fourth in L.V. is free for all

LA VERNE — La Verne will have a "free-for-all" Fourth of July celebration. City officials, the Chamber of Commerce and the businesses are combining their efforts to give La Verne people an Old-Fashioned Fourth.

Breakfast from 7 to 10 a.m. served at Third and D streets will be the only event which will require payment. It is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

This year the La Verne Leader staff has taken on the breakfast. Advance tickets may be purchased, but are not necessary. All the merchants and the Chamber of Commerce office is handling them.

There will be a parade, and the winner of the most originally decorated bicycle, tricycle or wagon, or most original costumed walker will receive a 10-speed bike from Liberty Ford. All ages are encouraged to get in the parade. There will be antique cars, fire engines, police vehicles, La Verne mounted policemen and other equestrian units. Anyone who wants to get in the parade is invited. Entry blanks must be picked up and returned to the Chamber of Commerce office, 2078 Bonita Ave., by Friday, June 29, at 4 p.m.

After the parade, which will form at Second and D streets, proceed up D to Bonita and go west to Kuns Park, all participants are invited to a watermelon feast in the park.

Beginning at 2 p.m. the city swimming pool will be open for free swimming and at 4 p.m. concessions and booths will open on the athletic field at Bonita High School.

In the evening, in the stadium at Bonita High School, the program will begin with the Miss La Verne Beauty Contest.

The evening will close with a fireworks display.

Teen dance failure tells city something

LA VERNE — City Councilman Dan Lopez feels the failure of the recent outdoor dance here has brought out something about teen-agers in La Verne — and the parks and recreation department should listen.

The dance, an ambitious outdoor affair in the Bonita High School Stadium June 9 with professional talent, was expected to draw 500.

Police were assigned to crowd control at the city's expense: the city's insurance policy was extended to cover all possibilities; the spot lights went on — and a total of 59 teen-agers showed up.

Ray Kaldenbach, director of the parks and recreation department, blamed the disappointing turnout on "two or three high-powered conflicting events on the same night."

He said a youth concert at Bonelli Swim Park drew 3,000 youngsters, and another conflict was created by a Las Vegas Night at a local church.

But Lopez had other ideas.

"You've just found out something about our children," he told Kaldenbach. "If they're going to raise Cain, they aren't going to do it in our town. They'll go somewhere else."

As far as the council is concerned, that's it for future outdoor dances here.

Explorers from L.V. taking part in safety run

LA VERNE — Twelve members of the Police Explorer Post and the Vagabonds Car Club will enter four cars next week in the 20th annual Youth Safety Run between Burbank and Yosemite Valley.

The contest, sponsored by the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs (PACC), an organization of policemen from 15 Southland cities, will be based on safety of driving and economy of operation.

Each of the 40 cars entered will have a youth observer who will score the driving team.

Each car will have three participants: a two-man driving team and an observer. The observers will be picked from among the participants and assigned to cars other than those of their clubs.

The local group will leave Sunday morning and return Tuesday afternoon. While in Yosemite, the groups will be the guests of the state park service.

Two of the La Verne cars are sponsored by Liberty Ford and two more are furnished by Bryant Pontiac.

Acting Police Chief Jack Baker has collected $1,000 in donations to defray the cost of the trip. Main contributors were the Jaycees, Auto Craft Western Tow Service, La Verne Police Reserves, city officials and the explorers themselves.

Also entered in the contest are two cars from Pomona and one car each from Upland and Ontario.

The cars will be divided into seven size classifications. The winning teams will be announced at an awards dinner next Friday night in Burbank.

Recreation at 4 schools planned for summertime

SAN DIMAS — Recreation playground program will be conducted Monday through Aug. 25 at Ekstrand, Gladstone San Dimas Elementary and Lone Hill schools and at the Via Verde development.

Two recreation leaders will conduct programs including crafts, games, sports, parties, music and special events from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The program at Ekstrand School will be open from 12:30 p.m. because of summer school which will be in operation thre until Aug. 6.

Activities will include softball leagues for boys and girls 8 to 14. Participants can register at the playgrounds.

An expanded arts and crafts program will be conducted at the playgrounds. In addition to the daily programs, a once a week major crafts project will be offered. The program will include candles, fantasy film decoupage, leather crafts, pyrolacing and slapstick crafts.

Hillcrest Homes and children exchange gifts

LA VERNE — The children of Grace Miller School and the residents at Hillcrest Homes are involved in a reciprocity program.

The children create art work for the shadow box in the dining hall of east Hillcrest and the Hillcrest residents are buying shade trees for the school grounds in exchange.

Mrs. Ethel Benjamin, activities director at Hillcrest, said the situation came about as the result of a suggestion of Miller School teacher, Mrs. Betty Mellard. The school has four Shamel Ash shade trees and the shadow box has new pictures frequently. Through the exchange, children and the Hillcrest people have a chance to get acquainted with each other. Many from Hillcrest are far from their own grandchildren, and enjoy the personal contact with the Miller children, said Mrs. Benjamin. It was decided to give trees to the school because the grounds can use more to an advantage, and the administration agreed that they would be a good gift both for now and the future.

Children from 5 to 7 invited to play ball

SAN DIMAS — Boys and girls 5, 6 and 7 are eligible to register for the new tee-ball league which will be sponsored by the parks and recreation department

Registrations will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Ekstrand School playground.

Tee-ball is a variation of baseball and is especially suited for young players. The ball is not pitched, but is hit off a tee. The games will be continued for six innings or 1½ hours. Both boys and girls can participate.

Bryce Bailey, director of parks and recreation, said rubber-coated 10-inch softballs will be used. There will be no striking out or walking and an inning will end after three outs or 10 runs, whichever comes first.

Information about the league may be obtained at 599-6713, ext. 41.

S.D. sponsoring trips to beach weekly in July

SAN DIMAS — The parks and recreation department will sponsor weekly trips to the beach for teens during the summer months.

Young people 13 through 18 who live within the boundary of the Bonita Unified School District may register for the weekly trips.

Every Friday during July a bus will leave San Dimas for Huntington Beach. Trips will be on July 6, 13, 20 and 27. The July 27 trip will feature a cookout at the beach.

Participants must register for all four trips. There will be no individual excursion tickets sold during the series. The cost for the trips is $6.

Recreation officials said an August series will depend on the success of the July excursion.

Information sheets and permission slips can be obtained from the Recreation Department, 245 E. Bonita Ave., or by calling 599-6713, Ext. 41.

Boys home has 2 boxes at center

LA VERNE — Le Roy Boys' Home now has two collection boxes at the reclamation center behind the police department in downtown La Verne.

The center is open 24 hours a day and the home hopes residents will deposit items they no longer need in the boxes for use by the 80 boys who live in the institution.

Items which cannot be used will be sold at the Le Roy Boys' Thrift stores. The boys can use such items as bric-a-brac, books, toys, clothing, small appliances, furniture and kitchenware.

Few girls seek La Verne title; age is lowered

LA VERNE — The Miss La Verne Contest planned for the Fourth of July by the Chamber of Commerce has a problem. Not enough girls have entered the contest. In order to encourage more entrants the chamber this week dropped the lower age limit to 16 instead of 18. The upper age limit remains at 23.

The chamber is eager to have the names of any girls who would be suitable for the position. They must be single and never married, residents of La Verne, and if attending college it must be within this area.

Friends of girls who might be reluctant to enter on their own initiative are encouraged to give their names to the chamber, 593-5265.

The deadline for entry is noon, June 29.

LVC appoints new financial vice president

LA VERNE — Richard A. Myers of Whittier has been named acting vice president of financial affairs at La Verne College.

Myers is vice chairman of the Rio Hondo College board of trustees in Whittier and also a trustee for the Los Angeles County-Whittier Municipal Courthouse Corp.

He served eight years on the Whittier Planning Commission and two terms as president of the Whittier Area Chamber of Commerce.

Before coming to La Verne, he served as president in charge of corporate direction and growth of a family-owned department store.

Local Jaycees are recognized at state confab

SAN DIMAS — Officials from the San tanding in their population division of the state at the reecnt convention of the California Jaycees in Fresno.

Jack Snell, president of the San Dimas chapter, and Bill Downs, state director, were both cited. In addition, the San Dimas chapter was recognized in competition with 76 other California cities.

Ed Arnold, who represents the region, was elected president of the California Jaycees for the coming year. Snell was installed as district governor of district 24 which includes Pomona, San Dimas, La Verne, Glendora, Hacienda Heights, Walnut, Chino, Diamond Bar and La Puente.

The state convention is held annually for the purpose of electing new state officers and recognizing individual local chapters for their achievements during the year.

LVC course will combine recreation and education

LA VERNE — A rare educational and recreational experience awaits participants in a special history and physical education course offered by La Verne College this summer.

"When Lewis and Clark Met the Mountains," will be taught by professor of physical education Roland Ortmayer and his family in the wilds of Montana and Idaho Monday to July 27.

Headquarters will be in the Ortmayer Friendship Cabin northeast of Bozeman, Mont., and students will be expected to participate fully in travel, camping, river floating and general outdoor learning that makes this course so unusual.

Students will read the journals of the Lewis and Clark corps of exploration as they travel more than 2,500 miles on an along the rivers first explored by that pioneer band. They will also visit museums, parks and landmarks that commemorate the historic Lewis and Clark journey.

The course credit is two hours each in history and recreation. Tuition is $45 per unit. A $50 deposit is required with each application, and the class will be limited to 16.

Participants must provide their own transportation to Montana and back.

To register for the Lewis and Clark river exploration interested persons may contact the college at 593-3511.

Franklin Castles are visiting here

LA VERNE — Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Castle of Lititz, Pa. are house guests of Mrs. Austin Fellenbaum and her brother, Roland Hollinger.

They were also entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hollinger, Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Hanawalt and Mrs. Harry K. Zeller.

The Castles, Roland Hollinger and Hanawalts were together during World War II in Puerto Rico working at Castenar Hospital in the back country, providing medical care for a region without it.

What's going on around here . . .

Bob Poff new Rotary head

SAN DIMAS — City Manager Bob Poff has been elected president of the San Dimas Rotary Club. New officers will be installed and out going officers recognized at a dinner June 29 at the Via Verde Country Club.

Other officers include Bob Howe, vice president; Dick Backer, secretary; Merle Runyan, treasurer; and board members Bill White, Bill Brown and Ralph Harpster.

Ohioans visit relatives

LA VERNE — Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mueller are the Rev. and Mrs. William Eicher of Springfield, Ohio. Mr. Eicher and Mrs. Mueller are brother and sister.

The Muellers, who have been residents of La Verne for several years, are moving to Grass Valley. They have sold their home to Mr. and Mrs Milan Rupel.

Ray Van Dusen fund is started

LA VERNE — A memorial fund is being gathered by La Verne businessmen and residents in memory of Ray Van Dusen, who died June 17.

The family has determined that the fund will be used for landscaping or other parts of the La Verne Plaza minipark, perhaps a tree or the fountain. Donors may make their contributions at the La Verne Chamber of Commerce office, 2078 Bonita Ave.

Van Dusen was a businessman and community leader since the early thirties in La Verne.

Visitors from Nicaragua

LA VERNE — Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rodriguez have been Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Akers, of Managua, Nicaragua.

Akers is in charge of Church World Service assistance in Managua. Rodriguez made his home with the family while he was working for Church World Service in rehabilitation work for two months.

4-H Club elects officers

LA VERNE — Melodie Carter was re-elected president of the La Verne 4-H Club at the June meeting.

Jeannne Koploy was elected vice president; Carrie Cooper, secretary; Carla Bauer, treasurer; and Cheryl Bennett, reporter.

Cathryn O'Donnell will be the photographer and Laura Goggia and Teri Carpenter, song leaders. Mike Lenain is refreshment chairman; Carrie Cooper, supply chairman; Cheryl Bennett, Hi 4-H representative; and Jim West and Cindi Kiezer, sergeants at arms.

Nine excursions going to Queen Mary from L.V.

LA VERNE — The La Verne Parks and Recreation Department will conduct the first of nine excursions this summer to the Queen Mary next Thursday. The bus will leave at 9 a.m. from the Alpha Beta parking lot and return approximately at 4 p.m.

In addition to the Queen Mary tour, there will be a tour of Jacques Cousteau's Living Sea. The fees are $4.75 for adults, $3.75 for juniors (12-17 years), and $2.75 for children (5-11 years).

Reservations are now being accepted at the Recreation Office at 2061 Third St., 593-4571.

No need for tax hike, candidate for governor says

By GEORGE SKELTON

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, trying hard to become governor, says he sees no need for a state tax increase during the next five years and believes taxes might even be cut.

The Democrat stopped just short of a concrete pledge not to raise taxes if he is elected next year to replace Gov. Ronald Reagan, but continually repeated at a news conference Wednesday that he believes the state will have enough money without taking more from the taxpayers.

"As far as we can project now, which is the next five years, we don't need any tax increase in California," said Moretti, one of five major contenders for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Reagan's press office later issued a statement declaring that, "if Mr. Moretti is really sincere in his promise not to increase taxes in the next five years, he should be the first in line to vote for the (governor's) tax limitation initiative."

Reagan and Moretti—who have worked closely on previous issues — began arguing months ago over the governor's tax ceiling plan, which is heading for a special statewide ballot Nov. 6.

Moretti Wednesday released a report prepared by his Assembly staff disputing Reagan's contention that the average family of four would save $17,756 over a 15-year period under the governor's proposal.

Reagan's office replied the report was "politically motivated" and designed "to confuse the people with spurious allegations and statistics."

Moretti was asked by newsmen whether, as part of his gubernatorial campaign, he could declare unequivocally there will be no necessity for a tax hike in the next five years. He answered: "Yes, I think that's a solid statement to make. We will not need a tax increase."

He even held out the possibility of a tax reduction.

"We can and we will reduce taxes as our population levels and decreases," he said. "Some 35 states this year are in the process of reducing their taxes. They're reducing those taxes because their populations are leveling off."

California's population still is increasing, but at a far less accelerated clip than in the past decade.

Moretti's "no new tax" forecast was the first of its kind by any of the Democratic gubernatorial contenders.

There have been two major tax increases under Republican Reagan—a $1 billion boost enacted in 1967 and another $500 million hike voted in 1971 when income tax withholding was established. Taxes also were raised under Reagan's predecessor, Democrat Edmund G. Brown.

Moretti, who flirts with the liberal wing of the Democratic party but clings primarily to the philosophical center, said that even without a tax hike there would be sufficient revenue to expand programs for such things as schools, health and recreation.

He noted a $1.1 billion budget surplus is anticipated in mid 1974 and the state is expected to take in $200 million more than it needs each year after that.

But the speaker said he is opposed to Reagan's tax limitation plan because, among other things, it would "alter a 200-year form of government in a very substantial way" by restricting the legislature's power to raise taxes.

Widow of slain cop sues bar

MARTINEZ (UPI) — The widow of a Pinole policeman has filed a $3 million lawsuit against a tavern on the grounds it permitted her husband's killer to get drunk.

The action filed by Mrs. Mary Sellers Monday in Contra Costa County Superior Court named as defendants the Antlers Tavern owners and a bartender.

Orland Davis pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the shooting last summer of John Sellers. The verdict, however, was changed to innocent by reason of insanity.

Police were called to the tavern after Davis allegedly pulled a pistol from his pocket during an argument.

RESCUERS BURIED — Seconds after this photo was taken, rescuers digging to free Kevin Long, 14, from a gravel pit were themselves caught in a cave-in. Here the youth is obscured by the men in the center as they administer oxygen to him. Both the boy and the nine caught in the second slip survived.

Cave-in traps youth, then his rescuers

EDMONDS, Wash. (UPI) — Kevin Long, 14, Mountlake Terrace was buried by a sudden cave-in of gravel while playing with three friends at the Kenmore Gravel Co., Wednesday, touching off a mammoth rescue operation.

Nine rescue workers were either totally or partially buried by the gravel when it caved in a second time just when it appeared that young Long was going to be freed.

Other rescuers worked frantically and managed to save all 10 entrapped persons.

All were taken to nearby Stevens Memorial Hospital, but only Long and David Becker, 18, were admitted. Both were listed in satisfactory condition.

Lt. Tom Johnson of the Edmonds Fire Department said approximately 100 persons working with heavy equipment, shovels, helmets and hands participated in the rescue operation.

Long was buried 2 hours, 25 minutes before he finally was freed.

Goldwater tells why he, Dean keep distance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. says he hasn't "dropped" his old friend John W. Dean III because of Dean's Watergate involvement, but he and Dean decided not to associate with each other because of the scandal.

"I've not dropped a friend," the California Republican told reporters here Tuesday, when asked about his relationship with Dean.

"I've just recognized that I as a congressman have responsibilities to my constituency and I shall not allow my friendship to get in the way of these responsibilities.

"We came to an agreement. We felt it would be best if we kept our distance," Goldwater said. The agreement was not discussed in detail, Goldwater said.

He said of Dean, "I've always known him to be a man of integrity."

Vote due on farm jobless funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation providing unemployment compensation benefits for 225,000 farm workers in California has advanced to the Assembly floor.

The bill (AB255) by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, was endorsed Wednesday by the Ways and Means Committee on a 12-3 vote without debate.

A similar measure was vetoed last year by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who contended California farmers would be at an economic disadvantage if California is the only state to enact such legislation. He said Congress should pass agricultural unemployment legislation.

But Fenton said the federal government is not likely to enact such legislation and noted President Nixon's plea in his inaugural address for the nation to discard "the condescending policies of paternalism —of Washington knows best."

Fentons bill would provide $68 million a year in new unemployment benefits to farm workers—the only group of workers not covered by unemployment compensation.

Agricultural employers would contribute $38 million toward the benefits with the remainder coming from other state employers contributing to the state unemployment compensation fund.

The legislative analyst's office estimated that extending unemployment compensation to farm workers would save the state $10 million a year in welfare costs.

Senate approves repeal of children's aid to parents

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has narrowly voted to repeal a key feature of the state's welfare reform law that requires children to help support their elderly parents receiving welfare aid.

The bill (AB57) by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, was returned to the Assembly Wednesday on a 22-15 vote for concurrence in Senate amendments. It needed at least 21 votes for passage.

Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, said the support requirement was costing more to administer than it was gaining from the children and "caused more family problems than any other" current state law.

Dills, floor sponsor for the measure, said it was "abominable" to require adult children to help financially support their parents who receive state aid.

Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed a similar bill last year, saying the current requirement helped to "strengthen the family unit."

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, agreed with Reagan's reasoning, saying: "Children have a responsibility to contribute to the expenses and needs of their parents."

He said the measure would give families a "legal excuse" to ignore the needs of their elderly parents.

Lemonade isn't sticky as the red tape

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Teen-ager Pam Sylke thought it would be an easy way to earn some money for school: sell old-fashioned lemonade from the back of a truck.

Then the 16-year-old, who recently moved here from West Allis, Wis., called City Hall to ask about a permit.

A mobile catering operation, she was told, requires a $7,500 city permit.

"We don't have $7,500," Pam and two teen-aged friends who planned to join her venture said in a letter to Supervisor John L. Molinari. "All we want to do is work, and $7,500 to sell lemonade seems ridiculous."

Molinari suggested an alternative—a $48 peddler's license.

But before she can get it, Pam has to pay $6 for police fingerprinting, must canvass merchants along her planned route to see if they object, have police investigate the route, and submit to a public hearing.

Wild, wooly West lives in Mexico

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (UPI) Mexican federal narcotics agents Wednesday shot and killed a suspected drug pusher during a raid in the city's red-light "zone of tolerance" but were then engaged in a 30-minute shootout with city police.

Witnesses in the city said the outnumbered narcotics agents, called Federales, surrendered to the city police following the pitched battle and were held briefly despite their explanation that they were police officers.

"The Acuna police hollered to the Federales (during the gunbattle) that they did not care who they (the Federales) were," a witness told Casey Gotcher, manager of Del Rio, Tex., radio station KDLK.

"The city police said it was illegal for them (the Federales) to carry guns in Acuna and that they (the city police) were going to take care of the city."

One of the Federales, Miguel Hernandez, 25, was wounded by the city police and was held in good condition late Wednesday at Val Verde Memorial Hospital in Del Rio, located just across the Rio Grande from Mexico.

The dead man was Mario Aguilar Perez, 38, a resident of Del Rio living in Ciudad Acuna.

Gotcher said the Federales were allowed to cross the river into Texas a short time after their arrest by city police. They called the Mexican Army garrision in Ciudad and the army promptly placed the city under martial law and arrested the city policemen.

Late Wednesday the Zone of Tolerance was barricaded by Mexican soldiers carrying M1 rifles, Gotcher said. He said he was turned away from the prostitution district by the soldiers.

Former aide to solon will seek his seat

OAKLAND (UPI) — Bill Lockyer, 32, administrative assistant to the late Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, will seek the office left vacant by Crown's death.

Lockyer, a native of Oakland, attended the University of California at Berkeley and California State University, Hayward, where he received teaching credentials.

He served as chairman of the Democratic Alameda County Committee.

Crown was fatally injured when a car struck him while he was jogging.

Lockyer announced his candidacy Monday.

Panel eyes campaign gift lids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate lawmakers have drafted tentative legislation which would sharply cut "fat cat" contributions in the 1976 presidential campaign.

by an individual or a committee voted Wednesday to place a ceiling on donations by an individual or a committee to $15,000 in the primaries and $15,000 in the general elections.

In addition, there would be a limitation of $5,000 each in the primaries and the election for Senate and House candidates. These ceilings would take effect in 1974.

And the proposed legislation would place an overall ceiling of $100,000 on all political contributions by an individual during a calendar year.

In effect, a husband and wife each contributing could give a presidential candidate $60,000 in the primaries and general election and spread around another $140,000 to Senate and House candidates.

But the bill would outlaw the so-called "fat cat' contributors who donated heavily to President Nixon's re-election and, to a lesser degree, to George S. McGovern.

As an example, 18 persons contributed more than $200,000 to Nixon's campaign, including W. Clement Stone of Chicago who donated $2.1 million. Many others exceeded the proposed limits.

A spokesman for Common Cause, while conceding that the legislation would curb contributions the size of Stone's, said it would not reach many large contributors, especially in congressional races.

The committee's decisions were tentative and are subject to change next week when the panel hopes to report the measure to the Senate.

Warnings slated for female deodorant spray containers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two major manufacturers of female deodorant sprays indicated today they are willing to start warning consumers that their products could cause rashes and other harmful reactions.

But there was little industry comment on the Food and Drug Administration's claim that such products are medically and hygienically worthless, and no indication the drug firms will reformulate the sprays to ease the problem.

The FDA Wednesday proposed a strongly worded warning for the labels of female deodorant sprays, $55 million of which were sold last year.

The warning would say:

"Caution—For external use only. Spray at least eight inches from skin. Use sparingly and not more than once daily to avoid irritation. Do not use this product with a sanitary napkin. Do not apply to broken, irritated or itching skin. Persistent or unusual odor may indicate the presence of a condition for which a physician should be consulted. If a rash, irritation, unusual vaginal discharge or discomfort develops, discontinue use immediately and consult a physician."

In addition, the FDA said it "knows of no medical or hygienic benefits derived from these sprays." Under the proposed regulation, the agency will consider misbranded any feminine deodorant spray which uses the words 'hygiene,' 'hygienic' or "similar words implying medical usefulness."

Alberto Culver Co., Melrose Park, Ill., whose "FDS" is a leading product in the field, said "we are prepared to conform with any regulations and to make the changes on the label. We've known this was coming for some time."

But the company denied it had been making medical or hygienic claims for the product, saying it had been promoted primarily as a "grooming aid." And a spokesman said Alberto Culver saw "no necessity" to reformulate the spray to lessen the chance for adverse reactions.

Warner Lambert Co., which makes "Pristine" spray, said "we are certain Warner Lambert will be able to comply with any regulation which may be issued." It did not comment on the FDA's charges about the value of the products, or say if it would change its formula.

Bristol-Myers Co., which makes "Feminique," and Johnson & Johnson, which makes "vespre" and "Naturally Feminin," both declined to comment at all.

Wash that false advertising out of our hair--FTC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has ordered 11 manufacturers of shampoo products to prove advertising claims involving such things as dandruff fighting and hair conditioning.

The order was the latest in the FTC's campaign to get major industries to back up their advertising. Previous orders have covered everything from automobiles to cough and cold remedies.

The firms and their products covered in today's order are: Alberto-Culver Co., Melrose Park, Ill., for Alberto Balsam Shampoo, and Alberto Balsam Rinse; American-Cyanamid Co., Wayne, N.J., for Gold Formula Breck Shampoo and Breck One Dandruff Shampoo; Block Drug Co., Jersey City, N.J., for Tegrin Medicated Shampoo; Bristol-Myers Co., New York, for Clairol Herbal Essence Shampoo, and Great Body Protein Conditioner Shampoo; the Gillette Co., Boston, Mass., for Lemon Up Shampoo; Helene Curtis Industries, Ind., Chicago, for Everynight Herb Shampoo. Everynight Balsam Shampoo, and Enden Shampoo; Johnson and Johnson, New Brunswick, N.J. for Johnson Baby Shampoo.

The Mennen Co., Morristown, N.J. for Protein 21 Shampoo; Proctor and Gamble Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, for Head and Shoulders Shampoo; Redken Laboratories, Inc., Van Nuys, Calif., for P K Organic Protein Shampoo; and the Wella Corp., Englewood, N. J., for Wella Balsam Conditioning Shampoo and Wella Balsam Rinse.

In many cases the FTC demanded the details of various tests the companies claimed to have made to prove that their products work better than other brands. Proctor and Gamble, which spent $6 million to $8 million to advertise its shampoos last year, was asked for a complete explanation of how Head and Shoulders works "to remove and prevent the return of dandruff for a period of time" after its use.

Alberto Culver, which spent $10 million on shampoo ads last year, was asked how Alberto Balsam works better "than any cream rinse or conditioner" and why a cream rinse was necessary anyway.

Shampoo sales in the United States, the FTC said, are running at $350 million a year, and growing at the rate of 10 per cent annually.

Extension voted for rails law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee sent to the House floor Wednesday a bill to extend for another year a law dealing with the transportation of hazardous chemicals by rail.

The administration had sought an open-ended authorization for the Transportation Department to implement the act, but the committee, without hearings, voted unanimously to extend it for a year at last year's $22 million level. Current authorizations expire June 30.

Committee members who were opposed to extending the law's authority without improvements were assured by Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., that within six months hearings would be held to tighten the law.

Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., argued tighter regulations were needed because of recent incidents of entire towns being evacuated

Farm support cuts might be reversed in new bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a House vote last Friday to cut off government grants to a private cotton promotion program, the House Agriculture Committee voted 23-5 Wednesday to authorize four more years of $10 million-a-year payments to the program.

The House, in an amendment on an appropriation bill, voted 234-125 Friday to withhold a $10 million Agriculture Department payment scheduled to go July 1 Cotton Inc., a private promotion group which also gets funds contributed by cotton farmers. The bill, including the amendment, now must be considered by the Senate.

The July 1 payment is scheduled as the last of three annual installments authorized by a farm law which expires this year. Critics argued during last Friday's debate that the final payment should be canceled partly because Cotton Inc., which pays its top officials $100,000 a year, had been extravagant and was "nothing more than a boondoggle."

The House Agriculture Committee, however, in action on a new omnibus farm bill covering farm programs for four years beginning in 1974, agreed Wednesday to authorize continuation of the payments to Cotton Inc. for four years beginning July 1, 1974. A motion by Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, to take the cotton grant authority out of the bill, was rejected 23-5.

Coroner's deputies found guilty of theft from dead

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Three San Mateo County Coroner's deputies Wednesday were convicted on charges resulting from the theft of a $500 cashier's check from the possessions of a dead man in South San Francisco.

They were William Scott, 44, Robert Cawley, 44, and Robert Kindred, 39.

A San Mateo County Superior Court jury found Scott guilty of conspiracy to commit forgery, forgery and unlawful possession of a check with intent to cash it. Kindred was convicted of conspiracy to commit forgery and unlawful possession. Cawley was found guilty of conspiracy.

An indictment charged that Kindred removed the check from the possessions of Samuel Yeary after his death Jan. 12.

The deputies' trial lasted two weeks. Alpine County Judge J. Hilary Cook presided over the proceedings.

Higher price urged to develop nuclear supply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At present projections, it would take uranium priced several times the current levels, or some big incentive from another source, to meet a nuclear demand squeeze through the year 2000, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said today.

The AEC said the most likely forecast is that nuclear power growth will require some 2.4 million tons of uranium through the year 2000. The known American reserves total only around 273,000 tons that can be produced at $8 a pound in the "most favorable geologic environments," the report said.

More money would find more uranium, the commission said—it estimated $15 per pound would bring 1.5 million tons, but it would take prices up to $30 a pound to get the full 2.4 million tons needed by 2000.

"Exploration and production capacity will have to be greatly expanded if the demand is to be met," the AEC said.

It said it took into account the fact that the federal government has a strong commitment to develop the "fast breeder" reactor, which will create in one form more fuel than it uses in another form. The fast breeder reactor is not expected to have much impact on nuclear generation until the late 1980s, and will not itself turn aside the supply squeeze before 2000, the AEC said.

Genetic disorder

New test pinpoints rare disease carriers

NEW YORK (UPI) — An inexpensive new test was introduced Wednesday which can detect a serious and sometimes fatal hereditary disorder known as porphyria, a rare metabolic upset that can be triggered by a variety of common drugs including oral contraceptives.

The most severe form of porphyria is the acute intermittent variety (AIP), which is marked by severe abdominal pain, psychotic behavior, convulsions and paralysis. A severe attack can be fatal.

The new test, developed by Dr. Urs Meyer, an assistant professor of medicine at the University of California, San Francisco, School of Medicine, is said to both confirm the diagnosis in patients showing the disorder's symptoms as well as detecting "latent carriers" of the gene among people who have shown no symptoms.

The incidence of AIP in the U.S. is estimated at one in 100,000, but the actual incidence is believed much higher because the symptoms are often mistaken for those of other disorders, making diagnosis difficult.

Jews, Latins and Blacks are almost immune from the disorder. White South Africans, Swedes and Anglo-Saxons have the highest incidence.

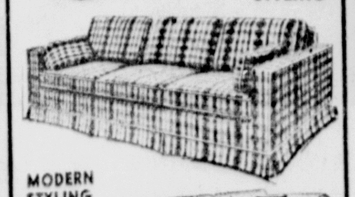

Other tests can detect AIP but only after it has shown itself symptomatically. Meyer said. The new test is unique in that AIP can be detected in latent carriers who may never show the symtoms.

SOMETHING NEW — Capt. W. C. Jones, left, commander of the California Highway Patrol office in Claremont, discusses new trailer with members of a passenger vehicle inspection team. Two trailers have been assigned here to carry all equipment needed by inspectors. Team members are Dave Bowles, Russ Porter, Gerald Martin and Ed Fahey. Use of the trailers began recently.

Briton predicts U. S. to profit on trade mart

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A British authority on the European economic community said recently that the United States stands to profit from increased European trade.

"The prosperity of the Common Market has made it a better trading partner," said Sir Con O'Neil, the head of England's agricultural support program. "U.S. exports have had a very considerable growth in recent years."

O'Neil said the United States' 9.2 billion balance of trade deficit has had little to do with its dealings with the countries of Western Europe.

"Increasingly in recent years this (deficit) has been made up of a deficit with Japan and to a lesser extent with Canada, balanced out with considerable surpluses for America in trade with Western Europe," he said.

Covinan wins 4-yr. Edison scholarship

COVINA — Frank A. Farris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ragene Albert Farris of 3341 Rancho La Carlota, is the winner of an $8,000 four-year college scholarship awarded by Southern California Edison Co.

V. F. Martin, Edison's Pomona district manager, said he was selected on the basis of scholarship, aptitude and citizenship.

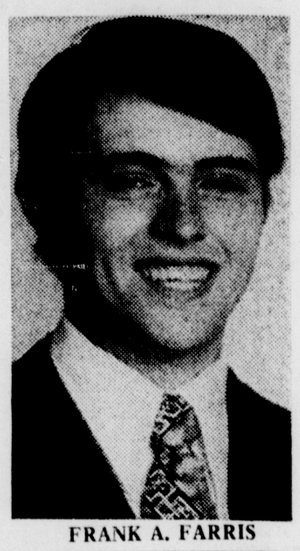

Farris is a senior at South Hills High School. He is a senior representative on the student body council.

He also has taken part in school dramatic productions and is a member of the San Gabriel Valley Junior Symphony.

Farris plans to major in mathematics or biochemistry in college.

He may attend his choice of 25 private colleges or universitites in Southern California.

Edison also presents a collateral $4,000 grant during the four-year scholarship period to the college Farris attends.

FRANK A. FARRIS

CHP using trailers for inspections

CLAREMONT — Don't get shook if you see a highway patrol car going down the highway pulling a small metal trailer.

It's a "new look" in the patrol's vehicle inspection program.

Rather than having to load and unload all the special gear from the patrol vehicles every day, this is all contained in the trailer.

Four patrol cars have been equipped with trailer hitches to tow the two trailers assigned here.

"We've received no calls yet from shocked motorists," said Capt. W. C. Jones, station commander. But then, no patrol cars with the trailers have been used to chase down speeders.

These trailers carry all the equipment needed by the vhicle inspection teams. This includes head light testers, work tables, signs, papers and water jubs.

Soon to be added are exhaust gas analyzers to check exhaust emissions.

"We expect the trailers to save us manpower," said Jones. He estimated it takes a half hour to load or unload a vehicle.

"The equipment will remain in the trailer and the patrol car can be used at night on patrolduty."

The trailers cost about $650 each. There are 42 now in the state.

Theology school will hold ethnic workshops

CLAREMONT — Two ethnic workshops on the church's ministry to Asian Americans and Hispanics will be offered at the School of Theology at Claremont summer school.

A workshop on "Developing an Asian-AMmerican Theology" is designed to give ministers and laymen a theological basis for an Asian-American ministry. The course will take into account Asian cultural heritage, the social history of Asians in America, the resurgence of ethnic pluralism and new currents in theology.

Dr. Roy I. Sano, chaplain and assistant professor of religion at Mills College in Oakland, and the Rev. William Shinto, Western regional staff, United Ministries in Higher Education, are co-directors of the workshop.

"Developing an Aisan-American Theology" will be held August 6 through 17. Class hours are 1 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"The Church's Ministry to Hispanics in Changing Communities" will provide ministers in communities whose ethnic composition is changing with a better understanding of Hispanic-Americans. The workshop will include a reveiw of the history, style and culture of the Hispanic-American in the Southwest, and different modes of ministry to Hispanic-Americans.

Dr. Elias Galvan, director, ethnic planning and strategy, Southern California-Arizona Conference, United Methodist Church, is director of the workshop.

"The Church's Ministry to Hispanics in Changing Communities" will be held July 23 through August 3. Class hours are 1 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

For further information on the summer courses offered by the School of Theology, persons may contact the director of admissions office at the School of Theology.

Following the study session, the City Council will go into executive session to discuss salary increases for city employes.

Children start La Verne fire

LA VERNE — Youngsters playing with matches set a grass fire Tuesday afternoon which burned three acres at the 2500 block of Sierra Way.

Chief Robert Lapp said the young children ran home and told their parents that they started the fire.

The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Couple makes six trips to Alaska

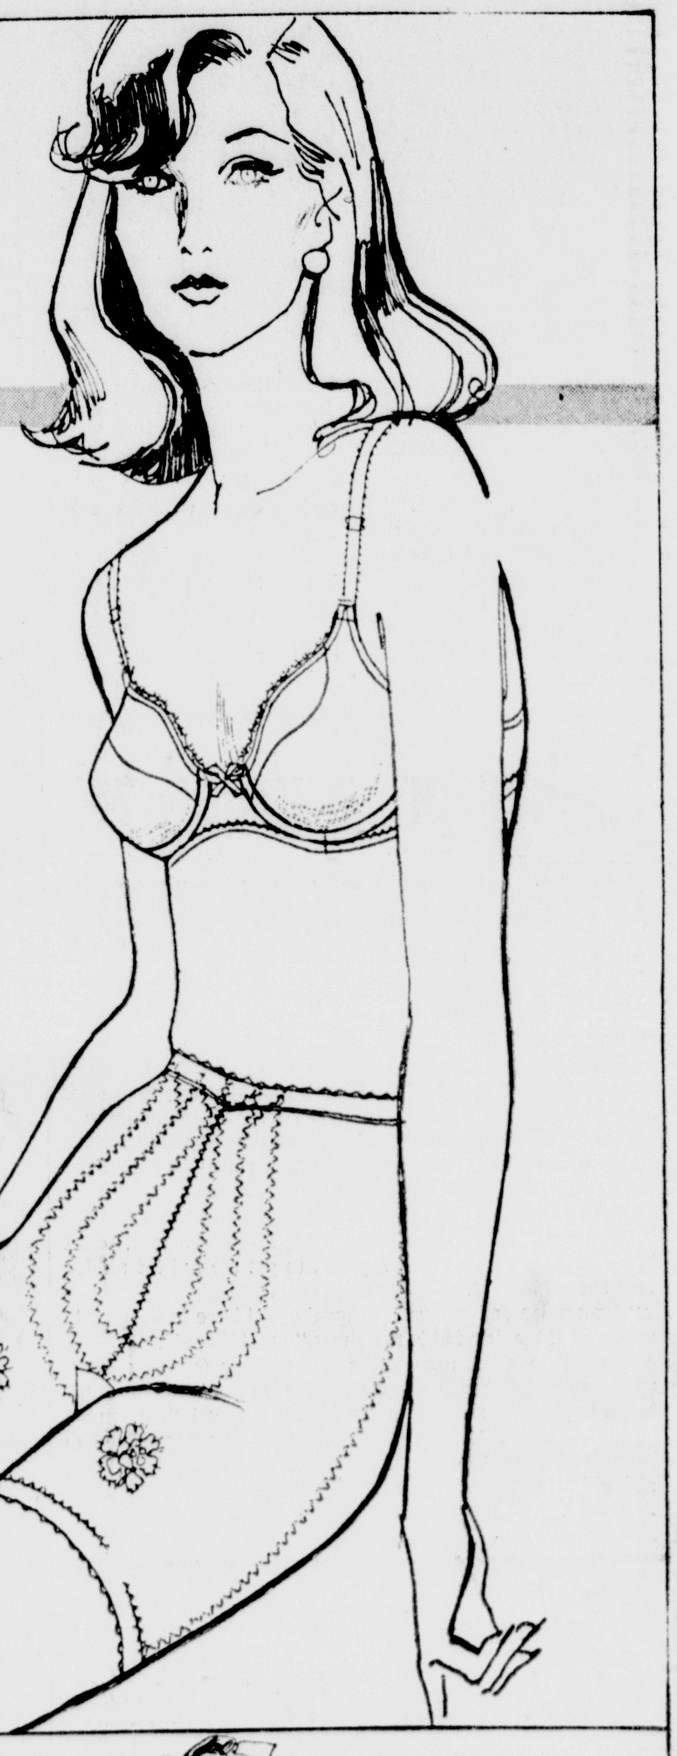

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gedney, Fallon, Nev., received life memberships Tuesday in the Chamber of Commerce.

The couple was honored for making six trips to Alaska. Five of the trips, over a seven-year stretch, were made by way of the bumpy Alaska Highway.

Israel concern over U.S. arms sale to Arabs told

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban said that Israel opposed reported U.S. arms sales to Saudi Arabia and Kuwait because the equipment will help encourage the Arab states to start another Middle East war they could not win.

Israel, he said, still is trying to convince Washington of its argument through "discussion."

Replying to an opposition motion in the Knesset (Parliament), regarding the purchases of F5 Phantoms and Skyhawk jets by the two Arab monarchies, Eban said U.S. assurances of continued Phantom deliveries to Israel "do not cancel out our concern."

The foreign minister said the planes would eventually wind up "in the hands of Arabs who talked about sacrificing one million Arabs," a reference to past remarks by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

"We shouldn't take the view that we are weak and helpless," Eban told newsmen off the chamber floor. "We are very confident of our security but our object is to prevent a war so the psychological effect is very important to us."

TV commercials hog the show

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

We pause briefly for station identification. . . ."

Famous last words. Or first words. On any given television program these days that means "time for commercials" when cute blondes in hot pants, unctuous announcers, hard-sell shouters, funny pizza makers, drawling cowboys, concerned "doctors" and a dozen other character actors from Central Casting bombard you with offers, boasts, threats and promises for cars, beer, hair spray, suits, tires, deodorant and toothpaste.

During that "brief pause" you have time to go to the kitchen and open a beer, make (and consume) a fried egg sandwich and read this morning's sports page.

When you saunter back into the living room, the announcer is just saying, "And now, back to our program."

Most television programs these days are so bad that they would not be worth sitting through without commercial breaks. Add a few dozen purring cat food ads, a handful of plugs for detergents and breakfast cereals, and a station break or two, and you have nothing multiplied by nothing.

Many of us have thoughfully equipped our television sets with blab-offs, a switch on a long cord attached to the sound control. When the little white dots begin to appear in the lower right hand corner of the picture, warning that a commercial is coming up, we flick the switch and enjoy six or eight minutes of silence.

A recent report by Broadcast Advertisers Reports, Inc. on the commercial clutter on an "hour-long" newscast on NBC affiliate WMAQ-TV in Chicago is typical of what we're up against:

"Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. Here is the news. But first. . . ."

Then came a one-minute commercial for Dennison Buttoneer, another for Hav-a-Maid mops, 30 seconds for National Car Rentals, 30 for Heinz steak sauce and 10 for Worth Parfums. Then came a station break, and at long last, the news!

Six minutes worth. At the end of that time viewers were cajoled for a half a minute each on behalf of Osco Drug Store, Farah jeans, Fleischmann's margarine and Selchow & Righter games. And so on.

At the end of the "hour of news," viewers had watched 30 different commercials totalling 15½ minutes, not counting the two minutes and 10 seconds of plugs leading into the newscast.

To angry protesters, whose numbers are increasing with each station break, advertisers, networks and broadcasters indignantly point out that these are the people that bring you your television entertainment free. Without them, we would have no "I Love Lucy" (Rerun), "Gilligan's Island" (Rerun) or "As the Stomache Turns" (Rerun).

Much, of course, depends upon what you mean by entertainment. Also what you mean by "free."

Are you watching more and enjoying it less?

THE DOWNGRADE must've been too much for this truck at Kansas City, Kan. Well, it isn't the first time somebody got in trouble just because of soft shoulders.

The doctor comments

Diabetic's sluggish feelings explained

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a hard time in bringing my blood sugar down. I have sugar diabetes, and even when I stick to my diet I have a hard time keeping it down. I take two shots of insulin for a total of 60 units a day. I am overweight and 52 years old. What do you recommend I do to get my blood sugar down? Even when it is high, I don't feel too bad, but sometimes I do feel sluggish.

Dear Reader — If a person has sufficiently severe diabetes to require insulin therapy, the amount of insulin has to be regulated in relationship to the diet that's eaten. If you don't stay on your diet, the insulin dosage too much.

People with untreated diabetes often feel sluggish because they don't have enough energy in the cells to carry out normal cell function. This happens because the glucose sugar used for cell energy requires insulin to be metabolized, that is, converted to carbon dioxide and oxygen to release energy. When the insulin is not effective or when there is not enough insulin in the body, the glucose sugar in the blood can't be utilized and its level incrreases to large amounts.

The high blood sugar isn't what makes you tired. It's the inability to provide energy to the cells. Because sugar can't be utilized in severe untreated diabetes, these individuals use fat and proteins for metabolism. The end products, particularly of the fat, are ketone bodies or acetone bodies which are strong acids. The excess accumulation of these leads to diabetes acidosis and even coma.

Blood sugar is also formed from the proteins in the body, if you don't have any carbohdrates in your diet. An animal with no pancreas that's fed only fat and protein will maintain a high blood sugar level. This is done by coverting the proteins to glucose sugar. Even the body proteins from muscles can be coverted to glucose sugar in this way. Of course, the glucose sugar can't be used by the cells if there is no insulin, and as the blood sugar goes up this causes sugar in the urine. One of the functions of your insulin then is to enable the cells to use normally produced glucose sugar and give you energy. This in turn combats the "sluggish feeling" or fatigue that diabetics experience.

Diabetic specialists have different opinions on how well controlled the blood sugar level should be. Certainly the diabets should be Certainly the diabets should be controlled well enough that the body doesn't have to depend on fat and protein for energy alone and cause acidosis or other problems.

Often an overweight diabetic needs less insulin once they've eliminated their excess obesity. If you are able to stay on a good diet that gradually eliminates you excess fat this might help you, but I think you should le your doctor worry about wha your blood sugar level shoul be, and that your main effor should be to stick to the die that he recommends for th amount of insulin he is givin you. If you don't do thi you're not going to get th maxiimum advantage of hi help, and in fact could ru into difficulties.

Nixons have bowling alley installed at White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With an assist from their friend Charles L. "Bebe" Rebozo, the Nixons have had a bowling alley installed in the White House so they won't have to cross the street to bowl.

The one-lane alley was built secretly last January, but has only now come to light.

Mrs. Helen McCain Smith, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, initially told reporters that the Nixons paid for the alley out of their own pockets.

Later, however, Mrs. Smith said further checking showed that the equipment and lane were donated by a private company and that Rebozo, of Key Biscayne, Fla., paid the bill for decorating.

She declined to say what the cost was.

Nothing for talent, but 'A' for bravery

RICHMANSWORTH, England (UPI) — Jane Wade, 9, fell off her horse and broke her arm at a horse show. She quickly had her arm encased in a cast and was back in the saddle within two hours.

She won no prizes for horsemanship, but the judges gave her a special award for bravery.

World of animals

Reader makes a plea on behalf of birds

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Please tell your readers pretty soon to fill up their bird baths or put out some kind of water for the birds. There have been some pretty hot days already and there are going to be lots more. Some of those poor birds get pretty hot and thirsty and sometimes they can't find a drip to drink unless you give it to them. So here's to all those hot summer birds and may they never be thirsty! — G. K.

COMMENT: Let's drink to that!

DEAR DR. MILLER: About four months ago, Clumsy, our part Great Dane, started to look pregnant. You know, filling out in the middle and all that. This was fine with us because we had about given up hope that she was going to get involved enough with the right kind of a dog to accomplish this. She was always crazy about female dogs but never let a male close to her. So there we were, all happily expecting a big litter of big puppies and what happened? What happened? Nothing. We're still waiting. She looks more pregnant than ever. How could she possibly hold out on us this long? — S. L.

Dear S. L.: Clumsy can't be packing live pups. Not after four months. Whatever she has stashed away in her sagging abdomen shouldn't be there, obviously. The sooner you get her in to the doctor the better her chances will be. I'd presume from your lack of such description that she isn't really acting all that sick. If so, you can still bet she is sicker than she seems to be so don't wait around for her to collapse before doing something about it. Whenever an animal develops a physical abnoramlity, whether the animal actually appears ill or not, DON'T wait! Have it checked out as soon as you notice the condition.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since our own little beef boycott is still under way, we've switched Tinker, our cat, from beef heart to chicken. He never dove into the heart like he does this chicken. Will chicken be as good for him as the heart? — V. E.

Dear L. E.: Better. While they both provide excellent protein, of course, the chicken is less likely to cause repercussions related to urinary mineral deposits.

Car polisher less likely to have accident

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A survey of motorists in Great Britain shows that drivers who polish their automobiles are less likely to have accidents than those slovenly blokes who tool around in unsightly, dingy vehicles.

This is something our own National Highway Safety Administration might do well to keep in mind.

The safety agency has ordered the U. S. auto industry to install air bags in 1976 models to protect the occupants during collisions. But there are indications the deadline may be extended.

If so, the agency possibly could achieve the same results by setting up federal minimum polishing standards for cars.

Getting and keeping unshiny vehicles off the road should substantially reduce the traffic death toll.

The British survey appears to corroborate the school of psychologists who hold that many motorists are in love with their cars and that polishing is a form of caress.

A motorist who has spent 20 or 30 minutes affectionately stroking his beloved sedan obviously is going to be pretty cautious when he gets behind the wheel, lest he run into something smudgy.

Presumably, this also is true of shoe polishers. Show me a chap with well-shined shoes and I'll show you a guy who's head over heels in love with his brogans.

And also a fellow who's going to be pretty careful about what he kicks.

Contrariwise, it may be assumed that a non-polisher's relationship with his automobile is strictly platonic.

A driver who isn't emotionally involved isn't concerned about preserving the car's glossy exterior. He's probably got his mind on some member of the opposite sex. And the next thing you know —crash! He's embracing a telephone pole.

Clearly, federal polishing standards would be in the public interest. This would force motorists who don't personally caress their cars to take the vehicles to a neighborhood massage parlor.

But since the gleam output of a metal surface is difficult to measure, the standards would necessarily be somewhat imprecise. Should a car be as bright as a new penny? As shiny as a blue serge suit?

Offhand, I would say that when a traffic cop stops a car, he should whip out a razor and see if he can use the fender for a shaving mirror. One nick and the driver gets a ticket.

Some pros and cons behind Nixon resignation proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The suggestion is being made, mostly by Democrats, that President Nixon resign in a magnanimous gesture to get the government moving again.

Some — again mostly Democrats — go further and say that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew should also quit so that a coalition government could be formed with the aid of Congress, to take over for the remainder of the Nixon second term.

There's no reason to suspect that either will happen. But the suggestion has stirred a debate in Washington during the Watergate furor.

Those who propose that Nixon and Agnew resign argue:

—The government is paralyzed now; the nation cannot wait until the outcome of Watergate to end the paralysis; impeachment is too tortuous a process for the nation to endure at such a critical time, so why go through such a traumatic experience when a much simpler method is available?

—If Nixon and Agnew were to resign, they would not be admitting any wrong-doing; they merely would be acting in the national interest, recognizing that paralysis existed.

—A coalition government is the best way to get the nation moving again, even while the Watergate drama unfolds to its last act

—A coalition government would be able to work closely with Congress; because it was clearly innocent of any Watergate connection, it would have the confidence of the American people.

—The temporary head of the coalition government would have no political debts and would be foreclosed from seeking election in 1976.

—Nixon and Agnew would be doing what Nixon asked top aides to do — H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Attorney General Richard Kleindienst — at the height of the Watergate scandal. The President had no evidence linking any of them to Watergate, yet got them to resign. He and they recognized that their usefulness had ended because of events perhaps beyond their control, and so they resigned in the national interest in order to allow new people to take over who could carry on the business of government.

Those who dismiss the suggestions for the President to resign argue:

—Removal of the President from office is too important to indulge in any tampering or skirting with the Constitution.

—Let's not kid ourselves over what a presidential resignation under Watergate circumstances would be: it would be a forced resignation under fire, and it would be compounding the difficulty by forcing the resignation of the vice president who was not linked in any way to the scandal.

—It would be setting a precedent that a President could be forced out of office by pressures outside of the Constitution; it would make future Presidents who have to take extremely unpopular stands vulnerable to such pressures.

—Impeachment is not a simple procedure; it shouldn't be; but it is the only constitutional method of removing the President.

Some of the benefits cited for the coalition government are nice things to have any time, all the time. The only thing missing in the coalition plan is a government chosen by the American people.

Name change of six universities passes Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has voted 45-10 to change the names of six state universities, including those at San Francisco, San Jose and San Diego.

The bill (AB229) by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, would designate the campuses as San Jose State University, San Francisco State University and San Diego State University instead of California State University at San Diego, etc. It was sent to the Senate.

Other schools would be renamed as Humboldt State University and California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, and California State Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo.

Similar legislation changing the names of some state colleges to more euphonious titles has passed the Senate.

Court clarifies legal point in mass arrests

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California demonstrators may be arrested for disturbing the peace and unlawful assembly only if there is clear and present danger, according to the state Supreme Court.

Monday's ruling resulted from mass arrests at the San Francisco State College campus during a 1969 demonstration, when more than 400 persons were taken into custody after police told them through loudspeakers that the assembly was unlawful.

The court overturned the convictions of 12 persons involved in the demonstration on the basis that there was no clear and present danger of violence.

Would You Believe a hula-hooping elephant? It — or he — is for real and a feature of the Hollywood scene. When Tommy, 4,000 pounds and only 7 years old, isn't giving rides to children visiting his home-base movie studio, he hoops it up alone or with Marcianne Underwood. Undisputed champion of the cities of Norwalk and La Mirada, Marcianne has one big advantage over Tommy, however. She's 10.

Would-be dope smuggler guilty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Bangkok, Thailand, man who tried to hire an undercover narcotics agent to carry an estimated $14 million worth of heroin through U.S. customs has been convicted of smuggling charges.

Sukist Benjatarupong was found guilty after a brief trial before U.S. District Court Judge Manuel L. Real.

Benjatarupong and another Asian still at large allegedly believed the agent to be a diplomatic courier holding a passport which exempted his luggage from a customs search. They were accused of trying to hire the agent to sneak 44 pounds of heroin past customs officials.

Judge Real set sentencing for July 16.

Deputy D.A. fired for dating woman juror

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Deputy District Attorney Marshall L. Bitkower was fired Tuesday on grounds of "poor judgment" for causing a mistrial by dating a woman juror.

Bitkower reportedly made a trip to Las Vegas with a woman identified as Cathy Importa, while she was serving on the jury in a murder trial.

The jury found John L. Parham and Keith B. Logan, both 24, guilty of first degree murder. Superior Court Judge Carlos A. Valarde declared a mistrial when he heard of Bitkower's association with Mrs. Improta, and the two defendants were sentenced Tuesday to 10 years each in prison after pleading guilty to charges of second degree murder.

Bitkower was not assigned to the trial in which Mrs. Improta was a juror.

The judge sealed affidavits submitted by Bitkower and Mrs. Improta, but published reports said they denied ever having spoken of the trial.

We can do more for you than any other bank.

(even if you can't find the scissors)

You see, we have more services than other banks. Not that you'll use them all. You won't. But it's nice to know every banking need imaginable is covered. And under one roof.
More likely, you'll be into things that make day-to-day living simpler.
Like the services we describe below.
Of course, of greatest importance is how we view the banking relationship. It colors everything we do.

Courteous personal service:

We feel banking is a person-to-person matter. So we value the human touch. With us, your needs are as individual as you are. That's why personal service has always been important at Bank of America.

Personal Choice Checking and Savings:

We have four checking plans to choose from. Beautiful scenic checks, too. And we offer many different savings plans. For example, our regular savings account gives you in-and-out flexibility. And our three Investors Passbooks earn you 5¾% annually for two years, 5½% for one year, 5% annual interest for 90 days. $500 minimum deposit.

Simplified monthly statement:

This statement simplifies balancing your checking account. We call it the Timesaver® Statement. It can even include a summary of your savings accounts and other information if you wish. You can tell at a glance where you stand.

Three ways to finance your car:

Only Bank of America gives you three different ways to finance your car. Ask your auto dealer about our Auto-Magic Financing, the rock-bottom monthly payment plan. Or about leasing.

Then there's our regular auto loan. We've made more of them than any other bank in California. See your dealer or local Bank of America.

Of course, we make loans for just about anything else you can think of, too.

Red Carpet Service:

Our own special system to serve you promptly, save you time. And nobody peers over your shoulder when you transact your business. Most of our offices have it.

Automatic Transfer Service:

Makes regular savings deposits or loan payments for you automatically, from your Bank of America checking account. Saves time, simplifies things. Especially helpful when you're ill or out of town.

More offices up and down the state:

No other bank can say that. Wherever you live or shop or work, you'll always find us close by. So you can cash a check whenever you want. Also, we can transfer your checking and savings accounts wherever you move in the state—save you time and red tape.

BankAmericard:®

For everyday shopping convenience, special occasions or emergencies. Good throughout California, the United States and around the world. One monthly bill helps you keep track of expenses.

3 great coupon offers:

These coupons represent some real banking values.

- Big savings on Bank of America Travelers Cheques.
- A free Family Financial Planning Kit—first-rate help in planning family goals.
- Your first order of 200 scenic or other premium checks—free.

You can see why we think you should bank with us. More services mean greater scope to meet your needs. As you grow, we're with you. Every step of the way. Let's get better acquainted.

Seniors given awards

Two graduating seniors from local high schools were honored at the meeting of the Montclair-Ontario Junior Women's Club at the Elderberry School Library.

Mrs. Sue Yoakum, president, presented $50 book scholarships for Chaffey College to Miss Kathleen Gibson and Miss Debra Claudy.

Miss Gibson is a graduating senior from Chaffey High School. She plans to enter the nursing program at Chaffey College. A Montclair High School graduate, Miss Claudy intends to major in dramatics.

Mrs. Yoakum is beginning her second year as president of the Juniors. Mrs. Lelan Larson, recently named first vice president, presented projects for the club's consideration this season.

Mrs. Jay Bragg, ways and means chairman, announced plans for a Las Vegas Night to be cosponsored by the Juniors and the Montclair Vista Women's Club.

Women between the ages of 18 and 35 interested in meeting friends and serving the community are invited to attend meetings of the Juniors. For information, call Mrs. Donald Fry, membership chairman, 624-2027, or Mrs. Yoakum, 624-7877.

Kathleen Jorgensen weds Stephen Latham

The Rev. Wendell Wellman performed the single-ring wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Kathleen Ann Jorgensen and Stephen Latham.

The afternoon rites were conducted at the Valley Community Drive-In Church in San Dimas.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jorgensen of San Dimas, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a satin-faced organza gown with a full chapel train. The yoke, long sleeves and wide ruffled hemline were of Nottingham lace. Venise lace motifs and pearls accented the gown.

A headpiece of matching venise lace and pearls held the bride's shoulder-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and pale yellow roses accented with ivy.

Miss Pam Riavic was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Diane Jorgensen and Miss Michele Marxen, cousins of the bride.

Sharilyn Jorgensen was flower girl and Michael Arbagast was ring bearer.

An uncle of the bride, Thomas Jorgensen, was organist. Peggy Aardsma handled the guest book.

Ed Trapp was best man. Ushers were Ken Lentz and Jim Little.

A reception at the church honored the newlywed couple who will make their home in Montclair.

MRS. STEPHEN LATHAM

Ask Dr. Brothers

Nightmares to her

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear D.R Brothers: I have two things that really drive me up the wall about my husband and we've argued over them so many times with no result that I'm afraid I'm never going to be able to break the habit. He constantly makes jokes about my mother and they are often very cutting. I, on the other hand, never kid about his mother who is often rather difficult. The second irritant is that we start every morning by his telling me his dreams over coffee. All I can say is I don't understand and I don't want to know!—J.O.

Dear J. O.: You may be robbing yourself by not listening to your husband's dreams more carefully, for there is much to be learned.

Dr. Ann Faraday believes that the sharing of dreams can help members of a family understand one another better. Dreams often tell us secrets that are hidden in our everyday life and by carefully listening and interpreting we can actually increase our understanding of a person and his problems.

At least, dreams provide a way of getting people to talk about their feelings and its is probably much more important to share thoughts and feelings over the breakfast table than it is to share a newspaper or to simply listen to the television or radio. Dreams are a means of communication that must not be overlooked, for they are much more revealing than they appear to be.

Dream messages from children, she says, may be particularly useful in helping parents recognize what they may be doing to their children, and in giving the child himself a way to express feelings he might not otherwise be able to articulate.

Try not to discourage your husband from relating his dreams, for he may be getting rid of many feelings in this way and sharing thoughts that could improve your relationship, making it deeper and closer. If you can recall your dreams, you might also learn about yourself by discussing them with him.

You are not alone in being upset by mother-in-law jokes. They are a common problem with wives for doing, or saying, something they disliked about their own mothers. He notes, however, that daughters-in-law seldom make jokes; they are much more apt to complain openly.

People often tell jokes to express resentment. Telling a joke about a feared situation is a way of sharing that fear with other people and perhaps getting some help from them. Sometimes, guilt feelings can also be expressed in a joke. Your husband is apparently getting rid of much of his hostility about your mother, or your relationship with her, through his jokes. While they may be irritating to you, you must consider that there are many worse ways for him to cope with his anger.

Sometimes a man may direct his anger at his mother-in-law rather than directing his wrath at his wife. Many husbands try to mask their hostility behind comedy, but as long as your husband tells his jokes to you, rather than to your mother, then they may not be too destructive, especially if you understand what lies behind them.

YW Wives select officers

The Upland Area YW Wives, a club sponsored by the YMCA of Greater Pomona Valley, recently installed officers at a luncheon at the Sycamore Inn, Cucamonga.

Taking office as president was Mrs. Carol Van Horst.

Other officers installed by Mrs. Nancy Mainiero, YWCA president; were: Mmes. Laura Watson, vice president; Judy Rogers, secretary; Janet Stricklin, treasurer; Aggie Geminder, arts and crafts chairman; Natalie Plaine, children's activities chairman; Leslie Moore, membership chairman; Mary Scogin, publicity chairman; Beverly Fortin, refreshment chairman; Wanda Franov, social chairman; and Judith Shaw, ways and means chairman.

The YW Wives group meets every Tuesday morning. Child care is provided.

Ex-POW to speak at dinner

An ex-POW of the war in Vietnam will be the speaker at the June 28 meeting of Pomona Valley Chapter, Executives' Secretaries, Inc.

Capt. Pete Camerota, U.S. Air Force, will address members and their guests and answer questions about his experiences while a prisoner of war. The meeting will be at Griswold's Inn, Claremont, with hospitality hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30.

Executives' Secretaries is an international organization of firms in business, industry and the professions. The local chapter includes members from Riverside and San Bernardino Counties. The firms are represented in the organization by the woman who holds the highest position in the company.

Philanthropic projects of ESI include scholarships for business students at local junior colleges.

Clubwomen!

Forms are due

Valley Women, a supplement of the Progress-Bulletin highlighting activities of all women's clubs in the valley, will be published July 24.

Madame President, will your club be included?

Fact sheets, sent out May 15 to club presidents or publicity chairmen are due next Monday for inclusion in the special edition.

If any club has not received the form to be filled out, an officer of the organization may contact the Women's Department at the Progress-Bulletin, 622-1201.

The annual edition will carry interviews with the four Women Achievers for Pomona Valley who were selected recently by a panel of judges, in addition to the stories of almost 200 women's clubs.

In the home care of minor wounds, it is most important to prevent infection. Immediately cleanse wound and surrounding skin with soap and warm water, wiping away from wound. Hold a sterile pad firmly over the wound until the bleeding stops. Then change pad, and bandage loosely with a triangular or roller bandage. Replace sterile pad and bandage as necessary to keep them clean and dry.

Sweater girls

Top fashion scene

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fall 1973 has its sweater girls all over the fashion scene, but the contemporary sweater look is a far cry from the days when Lana Turner made the tight pullover her trademark.

The new sweaters in most cases aren't clingy. The whole scheme is the loose, casual pullons or buttoned or the cardigan. And they don't stop as being sweaters.

Fall collections from New York designers-manufacturers are full of the sweater look—sweaters paired with skirts and jackets, sweaters elongated into daytime or evening dresses, just stretched-out versions of the classics.

Some of the best sweater combos come from the firm of Pierre Cardin and Andre Oliver, who designs the Cardin U.S. wholesale collection.

Outstanding are his exaggerated turtle necks, looking something like a neck brace from an orthopedic ward. Cardin pairs them handsomely under tunic dresses and jumpers, some in wool, some in leather.

If you skipped the sweaters, you could substitute blouses, or in some instances turn the garments into dinner dresses simply by wearing the jumpers only.

Cardin carries the knit look right to hats designed for the firm by Adolfo. They are stocking-like head huggers, replete with pom-poms at the crown.

Almost every manufacturer showed the sweater look one way or several ways during last week's series of shows for visiting fashion editors in New York for the Couture Business Council's semi-annual "press week". Today the editors started another week of shows from the American Designers Group, with some of fashion's biggest wheels on the schedule.

Look for sweater jackets in every possible variation on the Mexican shawl collar, the bulky fisherman knits, the equally bulky mohairs and jacquards.

Watch for coat length sweaters, some reversing to different colors, some trimmed with fluffy fox fur dyed to match. And there is the fanny sweater, promising to be what the trade calls a Ford (best seller).

This particular style is elongated to cover just what it says—and stop there. Usually it's paired with a flared skirt.

The message for evening, just as glittering as the one for day, is casual.

There are sequined dresses, both long and short, in a multitude of colors from offwhite and silver to jet black and brown.

Geoffrey Beene proves one of the masters of the sequined dress, both with whimsy and with color combinations.

Sequins in several colors form huge fans on basic navy or black long dinner dresses. And he works out other light and dark combinations, as in one with shades of cream, pale turquoise and brown.

Evening pants continue to be popular. Designers show them in satin in black or bright shades, and in patterns from floral to block print.

Back full force are the short evening dresses, in black jersey or crepe, and in the case of the Beene collection, in silvery gray lurex done like the flapper dresses of the 1920s.

ANOTHER RERUN — the strapless dress. It shows both short and long in sweater fabrics, glittery knits, matte jerseys and satins.

Film competition open to students

Deadline for Cinemedia IV, The Broadway Department Store's fourth annual film festival competition has been extended to Friday, to enable student filmmakers to submit their entry at the close of the school year.

The competition offers over $3,000 in cash prizes to makers of the most imaginative and technically proficient films, plus prize winning films are screened in local theaters.

Past Cinemedia winners continue to excell in the film on to win other awards. "The Resurrection of Bronco Billy," for example, from the first year's competition received an Academy Award, and later entries, "Cotton-Eyed Joe" and "Joshua and the Blob" won Academy Award nominations. "Joshua" also won an award in the New York City International Animated Film Festival.

Last year's second place winner, Bill Mauger, a USC student, received a grant from the Director's Guild plus the Cole Porter Scholarship in performing arts.

Distinguished members of the motion picture industry and related arts serve as judges for the event.

They include: Elmer Bernstein, noted composer and director; Alan and Marilyn Bergman, Academy Award nominated lyricists; Stephanie Edwards, ABC-TV film critic; Conrad Hall, photography director; Arthur Hiller, motion picture director; Peter H. Hunt, motion picture, stage and TV director; Fay Kanin, motion picture, TV and stage writer; Don Dilbourne, president, Los Angeles Film Teachers Association; Kathleen Nolan, motion picture, TV and stage actress; James Powers, motion picture industry executive; Robert Radnitz, motion picture producer; Wayne Warga, Los Angeles Times entertainment writer and editor; Pat Williams, motion picture and TV composer.

Requirements for entries are as follows:

1. Entries must be non-professional, and must not have won a previous award.
2. They may be black-white or color, sound or silent, live action or animated.
3. They must be 8 mm, Super 8 or 16 mm.
4. They must run no longer than 30 minutes.
5. Films must not have been completed prior to June '72.

Official entry forms may be obtained through high school and college film departments, Broadway Department Stores, or the Fashion Office in the Los Angeles Service Building.

WHAT CAUSES BLOTCHING AND DISCOLORATION OF THE SKIN?
The accumulation of dead skin that most women are not aware of. Look at the areas of a man's face where he shaves. Because he constantly removes dry layers of skin with his razor, his skin is free of blotching and discoloration. Women, on the other hand, have no means of removing these dry layers of skin, so they are prone to blotching. Peel O Matique Creme can remove this unwanted skin gently and quickly.

Working wives

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I just read that 3.2 milliion wives earn more money than their husbands do and that 21 per cent of these wives are in the professional or technical fields. How do women in a higher income bracket than their husbands avoid marital trouble in a society where men are supposed to be the providers?

"I will soon get my degree in a specialty in which earnings are high. My husband, who is 40, is in a job where he has about reached his earnings' peak. What advice can you give?—Mrs. H. Y., Toledo, Ohio."

My best advice is that marriage can be viewed as a partnership, particularly when the wife contributes part (and whatever part) of the family's income. It should be viewed as a partnership if the wife's contribution is services, and note that I do not say of services only. I am very much against denigrating the woman's contribution to the household of child care, homemaking, chauffeuring, bookkeeping, recordkeeping and cultural instruction. If you think that this is not a contribution, try to buy it in the open market.

In more than half the households of America, the husband is not the sole provider. Many women make cash contributions to the household in addition to their homemaking skills—and sometimes far into the night when their husbands may be doing nothing more taxing than looking at television. In fairness, however, most husbands make contributions to the running and upkeep of such two-wage-earner households.

It takes intelligence, strength and enormous ability for a woman to run a home and keep a job. If she has greater cash earnings than her husband, I can't see that it should make any difference at all. They should work as a team, contributing to the upkeep of their home as good planning indicates.

I feel that every woman, working outside of the home or not, should have money she can consider her own with no strings attached. Certainly, the business or professional woman who is married and contributing to the home must have her own checking and savings account and very probably investments. She needs her own disposable income. If she has the intelligence to earn it, she has the intelligence to handle it.

Women with independent incomes, whether earned or inherited, usually provide their own clothing budgets, spending money and personal expenses that need not be covered by the household budget. The husband must also have some money from his own earnings for which he should not have to be accountable to his wife.

Often it is advisable when two incomes are involved, and particularly where a woman's may be much more than her husband's to have outside dispassionate advice. Each situation is different. Certainly, no husband should be made to feel inadequate merely because his wife earns more money or has an inherited income that tops his. Money should not be made that important. Human values must be taken into account.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Our firm is sending out engraved invitations to an annual function. Names will be written in. We would like to indicate that each woman invited may bring a husband or an escort.

"As most married women in business use their first names, it is not easy to determine who among them are widows or perhaps separated or divorced. The phrase 'and spouse' doesn't work out. We can't use 'and friend' just in case they should be happily married. What is the best solution?—H.C., Los Angeles, Calif."

As this is a business situation, the best way to handle it is to write "and escort." This way, the married women will bring their husbands and the single or divorced women will bring male escorts, which is what you want—not extra women, which might be the result of using the phrase "and friend."

A true believer

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) — When Michael Sutton decided to christen his newborn son Kirk Lee Keegan Heighway Cormack Toshack Hughes Callaghan Hall Lloyd Smith Lindsay Lawler Clemence Shanky Sutton, nurses at the hospital thought there might be a story behind it.

There was. Thirteen of the names were those of the first team players and manager of his favorite soccer team— Liverpool. The two others—Kirk and Lee —were picked by his wife.

Scenes filmed here

'Frasier' now at Village

CLAREMONT — "Frasier, The Sensuous Lion," a comedy on the famed lion of Lion Country Safari, is now playing at the Village Theater.

Several scenes in the Shuster-Sandler Production were filmed in the Progress-Bulletin newsroom, La Verne College and at the home of Joe Firman, P-B columnist-reporter.

The full-length color tale, examining the "pride and passion" of the prolific lion who died nearly a year ago, stars Michael Callan and Katherine Justice. Victor Jory is featured as the voice of Frasier.

Frasier died in July 1972, after siring 36 cubs in the last 18 months of his octogenarian life.

Conceived by Harry Shuster, president and board chairman of Lion Country Safari, Inc. and the film's executive producer, "Frasier, the Sensuous Lion" was produced by Allan Sandler and directed by Pat Shields from a screenplay by Lion Country publicist Jerry Kobrin.

Callan stars as Prof. Marvin Feldman, an introverted zoologist who cannot relate to people, but is able to communicate freely with beloved old Frasier. Katherine Justice plays the female lead.

Other cast members include Frank de Kova, Malachi Throne, Lori Saunders, Marc Lawrence, Joe E. Ross and Peter Lorre Jr.

The film is rated PG, parental guidance recommended.

Fireworks sale to kids crime

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has unanimously voted to make it a crime to give skyrockets, roman candles, firecrackers, torpedoes and exploding golf balls to children.

The bill (SB543) by Sen. Joseph M. Kennick, D-Long Beach, was sent to the Assembly recently on a 34-0 vote with no debate.

Persons guilty of violating the ban on giving or selling the "dangerous" fireworks to persons under 18 could be punished by a fine up to $1,000 or one year in jail or both.

Other devices included in the ban were sparklers more than 10 inches long, trick matches, cigarette loads, chasers and salutes.

6 in valley recognized by De Molay

Six Pomona Valley men active in the Order of De Moley have been designated for special honors by the International Supreme Council of the Order, which met recently in St. Louis, Mo.

O. D. Ellis, advisory council chairman of the Claremont chapter, was elected to receive the De Molay Cross of Honor for his outstanding service to the chapter.

Selected to receive the Degree of Chevalier were Sal Guiliano, ritual adviser for the Claremont chapter; Don Verburg, athletics adviser for the Claremont chapter; Nike Whiteside, scribe for the Claremont chapter and president of the Citrus De Molay League; Darrel Foster, former supervisor of De Molay District 362 and adviser for the Pomona chapter; and Doug Cook, past master councilor of the Pomona chapter. The award is presented to less than one per cent of the total world-wide members of the Order.

New emission control devices burning out police patrol cars

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Hundreds of 1972 Highway Patrol cars have been disabled during the past year by repeated engine breakdowns which mechanics blame on extreme heat caused by smog control equipment.

At least one cruiser burned up after a high speed chase. And, the patrol reports it has not been "uncommon" after a typical scorching summer weekend in the Southern California desert to have half the cars undergoing repairs on Monday.

In some cases, said John Grow, the patrol's transport division chief, exhaust manifolds have broken twice or more on the same car, engine wiring melts away and plastic motor protection shields get "so hot they just drop off like cake icing."

Chrysler Corp., which supplies the patrol with a statewide fleet of 2,000 black and white Dodge cruisers, has mounted an intensive redesign effort to correct the problem and has paid the repair costs.

Chrysler executives contacted by UPI said they were not authorized to discuss the investment in repair and redesign costs, but Grow said, "It's got to be a fortune."

The excessive engine compartment heat, described by patrol mechanics, as like a "blast furnace," seems limited to 1972 Dodges patrolling the sweltering Central Valley of California and the sizzling desert from Mojave to Barstow and Indio.

Currently, there are 1,400 black and white 1972's on the highways. The 1973's total about 400 while 1971's still on active duty number about 200.

Both Grow and Ken Birk, Chrysler's man in charge of correcting the "California problem," said so far the 1973 Dodges don't seem to be affected by excessive overheating.

"Over the past five or six years, the greatest percentage of the heat-related problems are the direct result of emissions control devices," Grow said. "I'd estimate at least 66 or 75 per cent."

To meet increasingly stringent California and federal air quality standards on exhaust emissions of pollutants, automobile manufacturers designed engines to operate on a much leaner fuel mixture, which, in turn, caused much higher operating and coolant temperatures.

The 1972 Dodge was equipped with an "air injection pump" designed to aid burning as much gasoline as possible and reduce emissions of unburned fuel. The air pump was discarded on 1973 Dodges.

When all the partol's extra equipment is added on, each cruiser weighs about two and a half tons, much heavier than the average family sedan. In addition to having to push this heavy load, the motor also must drive other energy consuming accessories such as air conditioning, automatic transmissions, power steering and power brakes.

Add to all that the grueling driving a CHP car is subjected to at two or three eight-hour shifts a day for an average 5,000 miles per car each month. They average 9.3 miles per gallon.

One year ago, the patrol began being plagued with cracked and broken exhaust manifolds. Since then, the manifold has been redesigned three times, Grow said.

Engine wires deteriorated and melted away. So did the motor protection shields in the front fender wells and near the transmission. "You could smell them cooking," Grow said.

No records or reporting system was kept on how much "down time" patrol cars spent in the garage, but such a system has been devised and newly instituted. Grow said the cost to the patrol of "down time" is "immeasurable" because when a car is being repaired it isn't patrolling the highways.

Grow said, however, that virtually every 1972 car patrolling the areas of Lancaster, Bridgeport, Victorville and Barstow has been disabled at least once and most repeatedly.

"It is not uncommon to have as many as 50 per cent of the available patrol cars in the garage on a Monday morning after a busy weekend in July or August," he said.

"One car caught fire near Coalinga after a chase of over 100 m.p.h.," he recalled. "As the officer was preparing to write the guy up, his customer informed him that his car was on fire."

For its part, Chrysler deployed a "task force" of three engineers to California on a semi-permanent basis to find ways to make the Dodges run cooler. Among other things, they redesigned the exhaust manifold, installed a larger fan and radiator, and developed a series of air recirculation shields.

These modifications are being retrofitted on the 1972 patrol cars. The 1973's already incorporate the revisions from the factory.

"We're not blaming Chrysler or anybody for this," Grow said. "Other manufacturers have had their own problems developing engines to do what they're supposed to do and still comply with the clean air standards."

Dave Hubb of Detroit, supervisor of fleet engineering for Dodge, explained the effort to reduce polluting emissions "has given us more engine heat problems than we had anticipated."

He said thus far the modifications incorporated in the 1973 cars at the factory appear to be effective, but noted the hottest part of the California summer is yet to arrive.

"We've got another one or two summer months ahead of us," Hubb said. "So far, we feel pretty good about what we've seen."

Skylab developing know how to find good fishing spots

By THOMAS G. BELDEN
UPI Space Writer

HOUSTON (UPI) — Techniques are being developed aboard the Skylab space station that may someday tell fishermen precisely where to drop their nets to be assured of a good haul.

Dr. C. Lawrence Korb, a Johnson Space Center physicist, is using the orbiting space laboratory to test a highly precise instrument, the multispectral scanner, which can sense the color of ocean water and measure sea surface temperature.

"I think Skylab will be the major step toward doing this for oceanography," Korb said in an interview. "It'll be the first chance to see what the ocean looks like in good spectral (visual) resolution."

To find a good fishing area, the physicist said, you look for areas of high cholorophyll concentration, and for "upwellings"—areas where ocean currents have brought cold water to the surface, where it is then heated by the sun. Chlorophyll is the green coloring matter that causes plant cells to produce oxygen.

"These are areas of high productivity and good fishing, with a lot of marine life," he said.

Studying the sea from space has never been done before, but has a wide open future, said Korb, whose experiment is part of Skylab's Earth Resources Experiment. "Phytoplankton (microscopic acquatic plant life) are the primary oxygen producing organisms on this planet," he said. "If you're dumping pesticides or various forms of pollutions in the ocean, you're markedly disturbing the balance of these organisms. Using remote sensing techniques is a very efficient way of looking at the balance.

"All of the dumping that is done off the New York area, for example, what effect does this have, on how large an area? And what is the cumulative effect of all the dumping that is done in the northeast?"

Korb said once the technique of measuring sea surface temperature and sensing water color has been perfected, the precise instruments can be put aboard unmanned satellites that would study certain areas of the ocean in great detail and over long periods. Perfection of such satellites is expected in the late 1970s, he said.

Using a synchronous satellite, which stays over any given point on Earth all the time, rotating as the earth does, a well known fishing area could be monitored constantly to see if the marine population is remaining stable, Korb said. He added that a regular satellite that sets its own pace in orbiting Earth could map numerous fishing areas on a regular basis, every few days.

"You can see how populations are changing, both on a short term basis, what sort of fluctuations you have from day to day or week to week, and then again between various seasons."

"Mapping" the ocean from the sky has been attempted from regular aircraft, Korb said, but it has never been done regularly or proved very successful.

"The number of flights you would have to have would just be enormous," he said. "Eighty per cent of the globe is covered by water. It's just impossible to do it."

Church asks 'political awareness'

REDLANDS, Calif. (UPI) — Citing the "pervasiveness of dishonesty and corruption" in society, a United Methodist organization has approved a resolution calling for programs "to awaken the political consciousness" of the church's 230,000 members.

"The United States is facing a serious crisis of integrity," read the statement approved by the 123rd annual conference of Methodist leaders. The statement charged the Nixon Administration "has sought to establish a secret investigative hearing outside the checks and balances of our democratic system."

The conference called for an educational program to heighten political awareness in order to deter "a few individuals and special interest groups" from controlling an "inordinate amount" of political power.

Damage slight as USS Wasp strikes bridge

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The Wasp, a battle scarred aircraft carrier of World War II and Korea used later to pick up returning U.S. spacemen, struck a railroad bridge spanning Newark Bay recently while on its way to the scrap heap.

No one was injured in the accident, and the 350-foot bridge was only slightly damaged. Rail traffic across it was halted for a few hours.

The government sold the 890-foot-long Wasp for scrap last month and it was being towed by five tugboats to a graveyard dock to await dismantling.

After the collision the 41,000ton warship continued through the bridge and the harbor was open to traffic. No one was on the carrier at the time.

Ford admits donating Brezhnev Continental

DETROIT (UPI) — The $8,585 Lincoln Continental presented as a summit gift to Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev was donated by Ford Motor Co. "out of courtesy" to the White House.

Ford reluctantly took credit for the donation after White House spokesmen confirmed Tuesday the automaker had picked up the tab.

It was the second time in a year Brezhnev has been the recipient of an American luxury car. He received a Cadillac Eldorado, in the same price range, compliments of General Motors Corp., during President Nixon's summit visit to the Soviet Union in 1972.

GM charged the expense to sales promotions, but it was not known how Ford would handle the matter.

"All I know is that it's being donated by Ford as an act of courtesy to the office of the President," said a Ford spokesman.

Both GM and Ford donations were arranged by the protocol office of the State Department, according to a White House source in Washington.

"The State Department goes to the manufacturer and they (the manufacturer) make the car available," the source said. "My understanding that we pay some kind of token price, but I don't know how much that is.'

The "token price" was put at between $50 and $100 in a later statement by White House spokesmen.

The Continental, a dark blue, four-door production model, featured a dashboard engraving extending to Brezhnev "special good wishes—greetings," as well as a number of undisclosed options.

Foreign meats getting into U.S. without inspections

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign meat and meat products, including horsemeat, are being slipped into the United States without inspection by government meat inspectors, according to Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont.

Melcher, the only veterinarian in Congress, said uninspected meat and poultry from the Peoples Republic of China—which is ineligible to ship meat to the United States—also is entering the country through New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Chicago, and Boston.

The uninspected horsemeat, he said, comes mostly from Mexico and Canada.

The Montana Democrat based his charges on a report by Inspector General Nathaniel E. Kossack of the U.S. Department of Agriculture which the congressman placed into the Congressional Record.

Melcher said the report, which blames U.S. customs inspectors for the entry of uninspected meat, was intended for internal USDA use only but that he had received a copy from "a concerned person with access to it."

The congressman said the report also showed that sanitary conditions at 38 of 88 domestic meat and poultry packing plants sampled by USDA investigators had been found "unacceptable."

The official report singled out Norfolk, Va., as the port with the most effective inspection of imported meat. The result, according to the report, had been that Lloyds of London now charges higher rates for insurance against rejection of cargo at Norfolk than at other ports.

This, according to the report, had resulted in a reduced volume at Norfolk and pressure on inspectors to ease off on vigorous enforcement of regulations.

The inspector general's report said horsemeat was being admitted mostly from Mexico and Canada without inspection. It said customs inspectors referred only edible horsemeat to USDA meat inspectors.

Inedible horsemeat is supposed to be dyed or otherwise changed to make sure it cannot be sold for human consumption, the report said, but USDA had not provided customs officials with guidelines to assure it was not sold as food for humans.

Melcher said the report was "especially discouraging" because it indicated that weaknesses pointed out earlier had not been corrected.

"Los Angeles is singled out as still having inadequate conditions, although they previously had been identified by a review team as having questionable inspection," Melcher said. "Seattle's port of entry inspection is mentioned as having been questionable, but no follow-up inspection was done to see if it had improved."

In addition to such weaknesses, Melcher said the report showed that the morale of inspectors was "very low" and had been neglected by regional directors.

"It is a discouraging document, which needs to be brought to the attention of the public and Congress," Melcher said

Suicide named

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — Marin County coroner's deputies have identified the man who plunged to his death Monday from the Golden Gate Bridge as Sherman C. Leonard, 28, San Francisco.

Leonard was the 480th person known to have fallen or leaped to death from the bridge since it was opened in 1937.

GM air bag proving itself on the road

DETROIT (UPI) — The air safety bag, which General Motors hopes to install as an option on 100,000 of its 1974 models, continues to get good grades in on-the-road, real-life testing.

GM reported recently that a 21-year-old man suffered only minor chest injuries when his air bag-equipped car struck three poles on a safety island and then overturned in suburban Philadelphia.

It was the fifth time the air bags had deployed in the GM test fleet of 1,000 current-model Chevrolet Impalas equipped with air bags for both driver and front-seat passenger. In one case last week, the air bag on the passenger side inflated mysteriously, slightly injuring a woman in the front seat.

In the early morning incident in Wincote, Pa., Robert Perler of Scarsdale, N.Y., was alone in the car when it struck the poles on a trolley safety island in the middle of the street. The car then skidded out of control and overturned.

Perler was treated for chest injuries at a local hospital and released. The car was extensively damaged and was returned to GM for inspection to determine how well the air bag mechanism worked.

Besides GM's 1,000 air bag-equipped cars, Ford has close to 800. Together, the two companies have logged more than 24 million miles with the test fleet. Up to now, there have been eight traffic accidents where the air bags inflated as they are supposed to, and no serious accidents where the bag should have gone off and didn't.

In only one instance has anyone in an air bag-equipped car been killed in an accident — a seven-week-old infant who had been lying on the front seat of the car when it was involved in a head-on collision with a truck. The mother escaped serious injury when the steering wheel bag inflated, but the infant died when he was thrown into the instrument panel as the brakes were being applied.

GM now says the slow pace of government rule-making may hold up its plans to begin installing the safety bags as an option when production of 1974 models begins in August. New proposals for constructing test dummies are not expected before Aug. 1, pushing back the installation of the air bags to about December.

Offshore oil won't go far

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Petroleum industry officials say the 825 million barrels of oil and 1.75 trillion cubic feet of gas expected to be realized from recent offshore lease sales in the Gulf of Mexico will supply the United States with only enough fuel for about two months.

Dodgers lose Ferguson

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — the transformation n the Dodgers over a few month's time is miraculous.

The uncertain, light-hitting group of individuals of last year and early this season has become a closely knit team of sure-handed fielders and confident young hitters.

This was demonstrated again Wednesday night at Dodger Stadium as the Boys of Summer, '73 roared back with two runs in the 10th inning and one in the 11th to snatch a 6-5 victory from the stunned Altanta Braves.

But Dodger joy was diminished by the loss of catcher Joe Ferguson. Fergie, second in the league in runs batted in with 49, suffered a broken right thumb and is expected to be out at least two or three weeks.

Called by Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson "The second best catcher in the National League," Ferguson caught a foul tip off the bat of pinch-hitter Rich Goggin in the 11th inning and was replaced by Steve Yeager.

It was Yeager's ground ball that third baseman Darrell Evans booted with two out in the Dodger half of the 11th allowing Davey Lopes to score the winning run.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the Angelenos and gives them a three-game lead over the San Francisco Giants in the National League West.

Lopes had opened the inning with a walk. He moved to second on Bill Buckner's single to right and took third as Willie Davis grounded out.

Yeager hit a grounder off reliever Ron Schuler that Evans bobbled and then threw over first baseman Frank Tepedino's head.

The win went to the third Dodger pitcher, Jim Brewer, who worked the 11th inning. He now is 4-1. Schuler, with a 4.35 earned run average, is now 2-3.

It was an exciting game the first three and last four innings. The Braves took a 1-0 lead off Al Downing with three straight hits after two were out in the first.

The Dodgers went ahead 2-1 in the second. Atlanta scored a pair to lead 3-2 in the third. But the Dodgers came back in the fourth to tie it 3-3.

The score remained knotted until the 10th when Dusty Baker singled with two out and Johnson followed with his third hit of the game, the homer which gave him his third and fourth runs batted in. Never known as a heavy hitter, the former American Leaguer now has 14 home runs and 42 runs batted in. Last year he hit five home runs and batted in 32 runs all season.

Trailing 5-3, the Dodgers bounced back again in their half of the inning. Buckner slapped a leadoff double and Davis followed by slamming a Roric Harrison pitch into the right field pavilion.

Johnson's hitting for the Braves is an ironic result of the big winter trade between the Braves and Baltimore Orioles. Desperately in need of hitting, the Birds dealt Johnson, Harrison, Pat Dobson, and catcher Johnny Oates to Atlanta for Earl Williams and infielder Taylor Duncan. At last glance Williams was hitting more than 50 points less than Johnson and has fewer homers and runs batted in.

The Braves can't wait to say goodbye to the Dodgers. They've lost six straight in Los Angeles and two out of three in Atlanta. They have had to play without Henry Aaron. Aaron had the painful boil that had sidelined him lanced Wednesday night and could see action tonight.

Atlanta fielding has been of two varieties, terrible and worse. In Wednesday night's game alone, outfielder failed to field singles cleanly, infielders bobbled grounders and threw wildly, first baseman Mike Lum fielded a ball cleanly then couldn't make up his mind to throw to third, second, or first and all hands were safe. The fans were treated to the rare sight of a catcher having the ball slip out of his hand and go behind him while cocking his arm to throw to second on a steal attempt.

And the series isn't over yet.

DODGER NOTES — Claude Osteen (8-3) faces Carl Morton (6-2) in tonight's finale . . . The Cincinnati Reds arrive Friday for four games this weekend. Don Sutton (8-4) will oppose Ross Grimsley (6-5) Friday night. Saturday's twi-nighter (5 p.m. start) will see Andy Messersmith (7-5) and Tommy John (6-3) going against Fred Norman (3-7) and Tom Hall (5-3). Sunday it'll be Downing (5-3) vs. Don Gullets (6-5). All four Reds' hurlers are lefthanders.

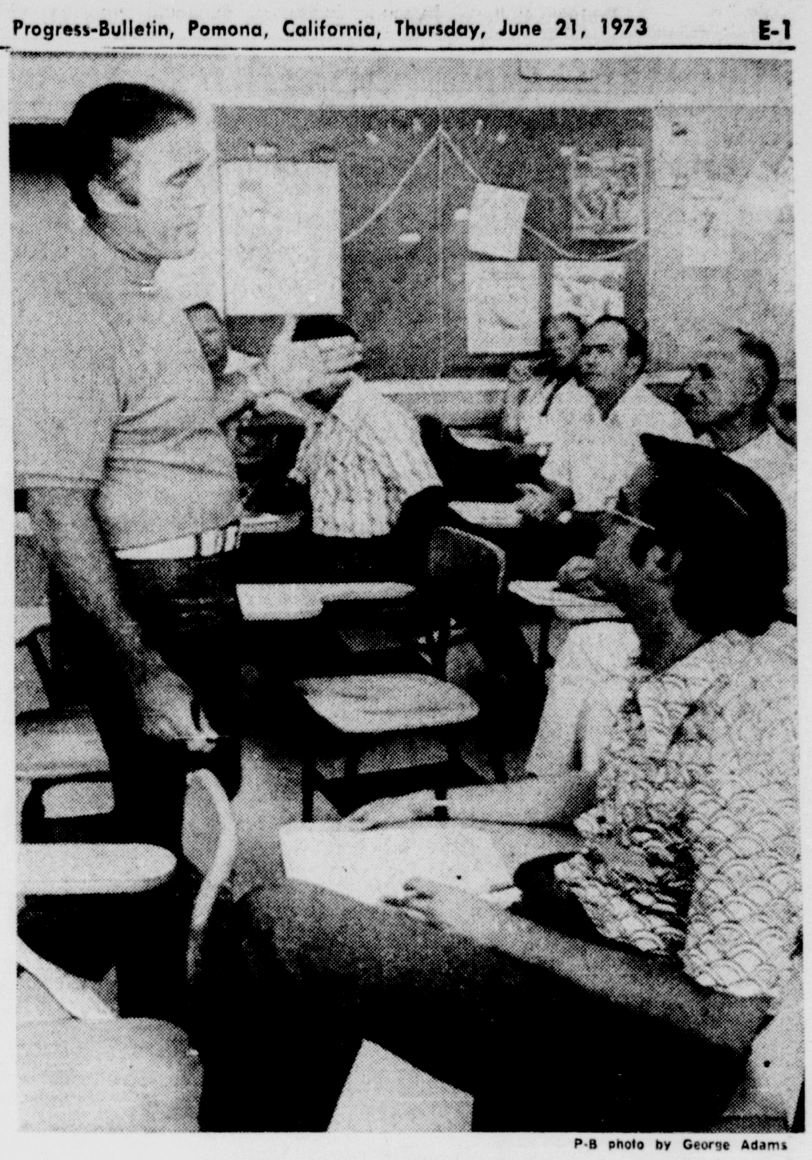

The Japan College All-Stars will play the U.S. All-Stars (mostly USC players) before Friday's game at (4 p.m.) and after Sunday's game (at 5 p.m.).

The Dodgers have signed 11 of the players taken in the recent draft including their first four choices. Among the 11 is pitcher Dan Smith from Covina High.

The top four are catcher Ted Farr of Spokane, Wash.; shortstop Mike Paciorek (Tom's brother) of Detroit, Mich.; outfielder Joe Simpson of Oklahoma U.; and third baseman Richard Hance of Fresno State. They'll report to the farm club in Ogden, Utah.

Ron Cey also has a six game streak going (8-for-21).

White Sox pitcher fails to hit on first at-bat

CHICAGO (UPI) — Using teammate Eddie Leon's bat and batting helmet, Chicago White Sox pitcher Cy Acosta Wednesday became the first American League hurler to bat in a game in 1973.

He struck out.

Acosta, whose knowledge of the English language is so poor that he can't order a meal in a United States restaurant, got his instructions from Leon before he went to the plate.

"He doesn't have a bat, so I gave him mine," Leon said. "He had no batting helmet, so I gave him mine. Then I told him, 'Get a hit. This is may nine-game hitting streak bat, so get a hit, and I'll claim it to make my streak 10 games.'"

"All the guys were pulling for him to get a hit," Leon added. "They were going to get the bat and frame it."

Pitchers don't bat this year in the AL because of the designated hitter rule, which permits each team to install a batter in the lineup charged only to bat, while the pitcher does nothing but pitch.

But Manager Chuck Tanner knowingly switched his designated hitter, Tony Muser, to play first base for the California Angels' eighth and ninth innings. The rule states that when the DH enters the game, the pitcher must bat in the place of the player who comes out.

Thus Acosta, who pitched the last 2 1-3 innings of the game, earning his second victory against one defeat, had to bat in Richie Allen's place with two outs in the ninth. But the White Sox had an 8-2 lead at the time.

"I figured that if we couldn't hold a six-run lead," Tanner said, "we didn't deserve to win. I didn't know it was the first time the pitcher had batted this year, and I don't think Acosta knew either. He just had a big grin when Eddie (Leon) told him."

While Acosta's bat contributed nothing, his pitching meant plenty in ending a five-game losing streak for the White Sox. He allowed only one hit and one unearned run in relief of Steve Stone, and the reliever got the win when the White Sox pushed across six runs in the seventh, highlighted by Pat Kelly's first homer of the season.

Ed Herrman started the inning, in which 11 men batted, with a double, and scored when both Bill Sharp and Luis Alvarado singled. Kelly then knocked in three runs with the homer, and after a walk to Allen, a single by Carlo May, Mike Andrews' double, and Herrman's sacrifice fly brought in two more runs.

Angels' starter Nolan Ryan stopped Leon's hitting streak at nine games, but he allowed seven of the White Sox' eight runs and took his sixth loss against Chicago, whom he has beaten only once in his career.

All-Star voting tough assignment

If there is anything tougher than voting in a national presidential election, it is voting for the baseball All-Stars.

What makes it especially difficult is the way baseball conducts its voting.

Fans arriving at Dodger Stadium and Anaheim Stadium are stuffed with ballots when they pay their admission to the parking lots. After a brief glance at familiar names, they make their selections.

What baseball ends up with is a pair of All-Star teams chosen as a popularity contest. Unfortunately, it isn't a true indication of the top talent.

There is no true way to pick All-Stars. The idea of having the fans vote on the teams is basically good. Anything which builds interest among the customers is helpful.

But the way the ballots are printed is absolutely stupid.

Out of position

For instance, this year's National League ballots have both Henry Aaron and Willie Stergell at first base.

As of this writing, they were sharing the home run lead in the National League but are regulars in leftfield respectively for the Atlanta Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Since they are both listed at first base, Aaron will win by a big margin.

But both Aaron and Stargell should be considered as outfielders. The ballots do not consider where players are at this year. Everything depends on the 1972 season.

The other problem concerns the young players. Because the official ballots are based on what happened in 1972, there are no considerations for the rookies and other young prospects.

This especially affects the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dodger no-names

Most of the Dodger no-names aren't on the All-Star ballot. There is absolutely no question Ferguson should be Bench's top challenger, not outfielder Manny Sanguillen.

Sure, fans are allowed to submit write-in votes. But how many actually do? It is much easier to punch the little holes than to go to the bother of writing in Ferguson.

It would seem the easiest method would be to wait until June 1 to determine who should be on the ballot and at what position.

But the sponsoring Gillette Company probably has financial reasons why a later ballot isn't feasible.

Anyone for Joe Pepitone at first base for the National League? He could always return from Japan for the game.

Notes from here and there:

We hope baseball is careful how it handles interleague scheduling. We certainly would like to see the Eastern teams as often as we do now.

At the beginning of the season, we rated the Dodgers fifth in the National League West. After the first week, that prediction seemed too high. Obviously, we blew it. But how could we know the Albuquerque class of 1972 would mature so early?

Southern California again dominated the world of collegiate baseball with USC, UC Irvine and USIU winning national crowns. Los Angeles also swept the field in NCAA play with UCLA taking national honors in basketball and track. Add USC's domination of football to make L.A. a complete bully.

CIF honors 'Pack stars

LOS ANGLES — Claremont High outfielder Brad Kessler and pitcher Jeff Barker were named to the first team and Charter Oak third baseman Andy Mason was elected to the second team of the 1973 All-CIF 3-A baseball selections, it was announced today by the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation.

Both Kessler and Barker have already signed major league contracts after being drafted in the pro summer draft. Kessler, who batted .429 in San Antonio League play, signed one day after the Cincinnati Reds have drafted him in the first round.

● CIF photos, list on E-2

Barker, who hurled Claremont to the semifinals of the CIF 3-A playoffs this year, was drafted in the ninth round by the Milwaukee Brewers and has already reported to Newark, New York.

Kessler led the SAL in home runs this year with five, while Barker remained untouched in league play with an 8-0 mound mark. The Wolf-Pack ace finished the year with a 15-2 record after compiling a 1.02 earned run average in league.

Kessler was a first-team selection last year, while barker was a third-team pick on the All-CIF choices in '72.

Mason led Charter Oak to the CIF 3-A playoffs for the fifth consecutive year with a .405 batting average. Only Rick Hertel of Los Altos kept the stocky Lancer from making the first team this year.

Charter Oak finished in third place in the Montview League, and was able to reach the playoffs via an at-large berth.

Both Claremont and Charter Oak were eliminated from the playoffs by El Segundo, the CIF 3-A champions.

Gary Roenicke, the big and rangy shortstop for coach Gary Kretz's Edgewood High Trojans, was named the CIF 3-A division Baseball Player of the Year for 1973 by members of the Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation All-Southern California Board of Baseball.

Although Edgewood managed only a third-place finish in the Sierra League, the Trojans advanced into the playoffs and handled all opposition quite handily until meeting champion El Segundo in the title game.

Described by opposing coaches in the league as "an excellent shortstop," Roenicke stands 6-3 and weighs 190 pounds. He hit .500 in 14 league outings for the Trojans . . . and .421 for the 30-game season.

Knox stresses line play

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Write

POMONA — Chuck Knox, the rookie head coach who will make his debut with the Los Angeles Rams next month when summer drills begin, won't be tinkering with the Rams' veteran offensive line.

If any tinkering is to be done, the tinkerer will be Ray Prohaska, the man that developed the present unit in five years under former head coach George Allen.

Prohaska returns to the Rams after a couple of seasons in Cleveland on the urging of Knox who recognizes, "an artists," in his words, in the offensive line coach.

But that doesn't mean that Knox isn't capable of handling the front-five himself or that he doesn't have some definite ideas of his own on that part of the game of football.

Knox explained some of his theories on offensive line play Wednesday at the opening session of the second annual All-Sports Clinic at Cal Poly. He spoke in one-hour segments on "Coaching at Various Levels" and "Things Start with Offensive Line Fundamentals."

His remarks were directed to a medium-sized gathering of valley coaches who paid $25 a head to attend the four-day clinic which concludes Saturday. UCLA's Pepper Rodgers and Standord's Jack Christiansen were the featured football speakers at today's session.

Knox, a forceful speaker with a southern drawl, punctuated his delivery with demonstrations, using volunteers from the audience, including one reluctant reporter.

He pointed out later that the techniques of offenisve line play he described were for the younger player — rookies who were perhaps lacking in sound fundamentals. Veterans Rams would probably not fall into this category.

As a matter of fact, Prohaska did his job rather well with center Ken Iman, guards Joe Scibelli and Tom Mack and tackles Charlie Cowan and Joe Carollo.

In the Allen era, the Rams were respected as a sound running team, and under Knox's predecessor, Tommy Protho, the trend continued.

A downward curve is not expected, barring injury, under the new head coach, who came to the Rams from the Detroit Lions, where coincidentally, he was an offensive line coach.

"Offensive line coaches," Knox believes, "are the real artists in all of coaching. It's the toughest thing to do, yet it can be the most rewarding, because you have the chance to do more with players and improve them more in the offensive line than anywhere else. You can take players that aren't great athletes and make winning football players of them. This is not always possible, say at halfback or wide receiver — the skill positions."

Knox earned some kind of reputation among his peers as an "artist" in his own right, first with the New York Jets and later with the Lions.

He was one of the first to be invited by Ram owner Carroll Rosenbloom to interview for the head job after Prothro's termination.

A positive thinker, Knox was confident he would be the former owner of the Baltimore Colt's choice as the new Ram coach.

Knox wasn't wrong. Rams have hope Rosenbloom wasn't either.

Musselman wants athletes

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — "A survey of American men in World War Two revealed a weakness in the upper body. I believe in working with the upper body."

The speaker is not a weight lifter, weight lifting coach or even a football, or track baseball coach. It is Bill Musselman, coach of the Minnesota Golden Gophers basketball team.

At 31, he became the youngest head coach in the University of Minnesota's history. He coached the Gophers to a Big 10 title in his first year and wound up second, a game behind Indiana last season.

Musselman is one of the nationally known coaches currently holding classes at the 2nd Annual Cal Poly All-Sports Clinic. Among the others are Pepper Rodgers of UCLA and Jack Christiansen of Stanford along with Chuch Knox of the Rams (football), Vern Wolfe of USC, Tom Telez of UCLA, and Willie Williams of Arizona (track). Among those lecturing on baseball will be Dodger players Al Downing and Bill Buckner. Downing is slated to speak Friday morning on "Pitching" (naturally) and Buckner is on the Saturday morning schedule to talk on "Hitting Fundemantals."

Working with the upper body is just one of many things the 33 year old Musselman believes in working with and on. During the course of his lectures (2½ hours in the morning and three hours in the afternoon), he describes drills untilized by his teams at Ashland College (Ohio) and Minnesota.

The drills are designed to develope skill, every phase of skill of basketball and the mind and muscles as well. "I want my players to be athletes not just basketball players," he says.

"Our big men do the same ball handling drills as our guards," he continues. And our guards go through the same rebounding drills as our big men."

The youthful appearing coach alludes frequently to other sports. "The most difficult position in any sport is defensive back in football," he tells the class. The defensive back has to stay with the opponent's quickest players."

Musselman stresses quickness and intelligence along with concentration and attitude. "Attitude wins ball games," he says. "You can win with attitude over talent sometimes. I believe in hungry ball players. A kid that is hungry will make (become) a basketball player."

To help Minnesota players develope their concentration, Musselman has his players alternate a basketball, weight ball, and volley ball in a drill. "The difference in weight and size forces them to concentrate on what they're doing," he explains.

Musselman also has his players dribble the ball while moving backward rather than forward. "I want them to do things that are unorthodox," he continues. I want them to do things that don't come naturally to them."

He also is a firm believer in utilizing psychology to get both the team and crowd "up" for a game. "We have a pre-game warmup, a lot of precision ball handling drills that some people say are in the the best in basketball," he replied in answer to the reporter's question.

"We have one kid juggling three basketballs and another juggling four basketballs. We split the posts and take the balls out of the air on the layup drills and it's just ball handling at its best. I doubt if there are very many kids in the country that can do it."

When he got his first college job as head coach, Musselman discovered that his predecessor had purchased a $300 rebounding machine. He sold the rebounding machine and bought a mascot's (eagle) costume.

"We needed something to help the school spirit and get people move involved in the basketball program," he related. "And we could practice rebounding by throwing the ball up on the boards and actually rebounding."

Musselman's teams went on to record a 129-30 record at Ashland and his '68-69 squad was named college division champion by both the Associated Press and United Press International. Each of the last five teams were rated tops in defense in the college division. He also produced seven All-Americans.

One of his teams shattered a college division record by allowing an average of only 33.9 points per game and subsequently became known as Musselman's Misers.

most of all, what Musselman's teaches is winning basketball. He expects to continuing practicing what he preaches.

Days rough for world's top jockey

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The last few days have been a little rough on Bill Shoemaker, racing's winningest jockey.

Removed from the mount of Cougar II in this weekend's $150,000 Hollywood Gold Cup in favor of another jockey, and then hurting his back bending over to tie a boot, the 19-year veteran was unceremoniously dumped by a horse in Wednesday's feature race at Hollywood Park.

Shoemaker was aboard Big Whippendeal, which finished a half length in back of Sweet Medic, when the horse pulled up after the race and sent him sprawling on the turf.

Jockey Don Pierce rode Sweet Medic to victory in the $44,250 Marina Del Rey Stakes for his seventh added-money tally of the meeting and his third win on Wednesday's card.

It moved him one in front of the uninjured Shoemaker for the lead of the meet added-money championship.

Sweet Medic, dismissed at 6-1, raced the 1⅜ miles on the turf in 2:15 1-5 and returned $14.80. Prove It Mike finished third.

Colorado Count, victorious in his last two starts, contests today's six furlong feature against Jeff David, King of the Blues, Jim 'n Jan. I'm Ed, Chief Tecumseh, Nahallat and Tommy Bruce.

Lopez rated 2-1 favorite

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Unbeaten Danny "Little Red" Lopez, who has never had to go more than eight rounds in a pro fight, goes in as a 2-1 favorite against Mexico City's bricklayer-fighter Juan Ordonez in their scheduled 10-rounder tonight.

Lopez, who stopped Cesar Ordonez in seven rounds in his last outing after getting a front tooth knocked out, is rated No. 5 by the WBC in its bantamweight rankings for the month of June.

The 20-year-old fighter has registered knockouts in each of his 18 pro bouts, the longest of which was an eighth round kayo of Yosh Goto last year.

Ordonez, 24-1, has 15 knockouts.

Three amateur fights plus a six round prelim will also be on the show.

Top women vote on tennis boycott

LONDON (UPI) — The world's top women tennis stars threatened to join the men in a boycott of the Wimbledon championships today unless they receive equal prize money.

Mrs. Billie Jean King, a fourtime Wimbledon champion, said about 100 of the women would meet tonight to form a players union and vote on a possible boycott.

"We want more loot," she said. "If I can get the backing of the top 12 women players I am all for pulling out like the men."

The men voted to boycott Wimbledon early Wednesday to protest against Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic being banned from the tournament by the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF).

British Sports Minister Eldon Griffiths intervened in the dispute Wednesday night without resolving the crisis in meetings with the chiefs of the players Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) and the ILTF.

The move came as about 40 of the top men players, including several former Wimbledon champions, withdrew from the tournament.

ATP President Cliff Drysdale called the boycott "an all-or-nothing fight" and predicted up to 75 tennis stars would participate.

The ILTF suspended Pilic from playing in Wimbledon or any other tournament until June 30 after he failed to show up to play for his native Yugoslavia in a Davis Cup match against New Zealand.

Mrs. King said the women players were angry because their 19,400 pounds ($51,000) in prize money in the tournament totaled 40 per cent less than the men, who share 31,400 pounds ($79,000) in prizes.

"We are in a unique bargaining position now," she said. "With none of the top men players competing, it will be the women the spectators want to see —and that deserves more money."

Sports news in brief

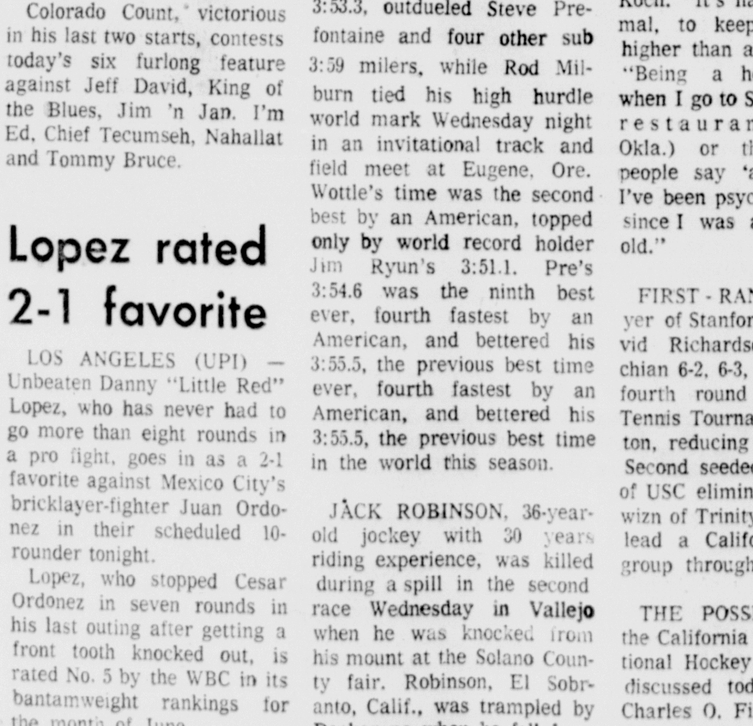

DAVE WOTTLE, running the third best mile ever in 3:53.3, outdueled Steve Prefontaine and four other sub 3:59 milers, while Rod Milburn tied his high hurdle world mark Wednesday night in an invitational track and field meet at Eugene, Ore. Wottle's time was the second best by an American, topped only by world record holder Jim Ryun's 3:51.1. Pre's 3:54.6 was the ninth best ever, fourth fastest by an American, and bettered his 3:55.5, the previous best time ever, fourth fastest by an American, and bettered his 3:55.5, the previous best time in the world this season.

JACK ROBINSON, 36-year-old jockey with 30 years riding experience, was killed during a spill in the second race Wednesday in Vallejo when he was knocked from his mount at the Solano County fair. Robinson, El Sobranto, Calif., was trampled by Deckarena when he fell from his horse, Chic Pleasure, just out of the gate in a 350-yard quarter-horse sprint.

HENRY DELOZIER of Oklahoma State, a first round co-leader in the 76th annual NCAA Golf Championships, admits that keeping his feet on the ground is a problem. Delozier is tied at three under par 67 with teammate Danny Edwards and Florida's Gary Koch. "It's hard to stay normal, to keep from getting higher than a kite," he said. "Being a hometown boy, when I go to Sandy's (drive-in restaurant in Stillwater, Okla.) or the post office people say 'are you ready' I've been psyched up for this since I was about 11 years old."

FIRST-RANKED Alex Mayer of Stanford defeated David Richardson of Appalachian 6-2, 6-3, in Wednesday's fourth round of the NCAA Tennis Tournament at Princeton, reducing the field to 16. Second seeded Paul Ramirez of USC eliminated John Bowwizn of Trinity, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, to lead a California dominated group through the day.

THE POSSIBLE SALE of the California Seals to the National Hockey League will be discussed today by owner Charles O. Finley and a special committee of the league. No final arrangements for a sale were expected today, but it was believed the groundwork for a possible sale could be agreed upon. The NHL office once previously purchased one of its own franchises, in Pittsburgh, retaining the club until suitable buyers in Pittsburgh were found.

San Dimas loses ground in Big League

San Dimas Big League lost ground to the Pomona Valley League leaders in the most frustrating fashion Wednesday when an acute lack of players forced the second place S.D. squad to forfeit its scheduled game with Ted Greene.

The loss gives San Dimas a 9-3 showing on the year, a full two games in the rear of pacesetting Diamond Bar. Ted Greene's record improves to 3-8-1.

Pomona National, meanwhile, continued to edge closer to third place at the expense of last place Pomona Northwest-Southwest, 7-1.

San Dimas could muster only eight players at the designated 5:30 starting time, and thereby was charged with the loss.

Pomona National got a strong pitching performance out of John Pearsall after he was stung by a Dave Shriver home run leading off the first inning.

Pearsall went the distance, striking out ten. He had a two-hitter going into the seventh inning before a pair of base hits doubled Northwest's final total.

Shriver's home run held up until the bottom of the second, when Serna Delfino singled home Jim Demboski and Randy Dana for a 2-1 National lead.

National finally put the game on ice with a four run rally in the fifth. Keith Glover singled, and scored on Dan Hess' base hit. Rick Kopplemman's single accounted for another RBI. Gary Ketchum walked and Dana's single scored two.

Chino National had its hot streak interrupted Wednesday when darkness forced postponement of its game with Montclair with the score tied at 6-6.

Six-hitter for Frank Kenyon

MODESTO Former Bonita High lefthander Frank Kenyon threw a six-hitter and centerfielder Jim Hogan hit a homer in the 10th inning Wednesday night to lift the Salinas Packers to a 5-4 victory over the Modesto Reds in the California League.

Kenyon fanned eight and walked only one. All four Modesto runs were unearned.

La Verne enjoys pair of easy wins

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — La Verne Post 330 was victorious twice Wednesday although it only played one game. It won by forfeit over the Pomona Connie Mach Kings, and then, after giving the Kings one of its players, went on to a 14-1 rout.

Jim Vallone started for La Verne and allowed only one run in the three innings he worked, while striking out six. He gave up three hits, with the third coming from his teammate who had been temporarily traded.

Vallone also helped his cause by slugging a three-run homer, and sacrificing a runner home. Before the crowd could calm itself down, Mark Bumstead one of his three singles, and Greg Thompson belted a shot over the 365 sign in left center.

The combination of Harold Drake and Bill Bumstead, the seventh and eighth batters, proved to be too much for the Kings.

Drake contributed four singles, scoring once and knocking in one. Bumstead must have had his rabbit's foot with him, as he got one scratch single, was hit by a pitch, and reached first base twice on two errors.

Besides Mark Bumstead's three singles, he hurled three innings of two hit shut-out ball. Bumstead also stole two bases, with his team stealing a total of four.

Pomona was led by Larry Pekarcik's two singles and a run-scoring single by Louise Caudillo. Ray Pekarcik also played a strong game from his shortstop position.

La Verne's victory gives it a 14-7 record overall. Its record in league is 3-2, good enough for a third place tie.

Pomona slipped to 1-14, but is not playing up to its true potential.

La Verne will try to continue its winning ways when it meets Industry Connie Mack at La Puente City Park, today, at 5:30.

NBA players tour Europe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four National Basketball Association players will leave next month on a three week USO tour of military bases in the Azores and Europe.

Boston Celtic veteran Don Nelson, making his second trip, leads the fifth annual tour. Joining Nelson will be teammate Art Williams, Don Smith of the Houston Rockets and John Hummer of the Buffalo Braves.

The group will leave July 18 for the Azores, then travel to bases in West Germany, West Berlin, Northern Italy, Belgium, Holland and England.

SCORES RUN — Diamond Bar's Bill Fleming scores run in 3-0 victory over Pomona American in Pomona Valley Big League action.

Liebrick's shutout boosts Diamond Bar in Big League

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Correspondent

DIAMOND BAR — Diamond Bar forged to a two-game lead in Big League action here Wednesday evening, using strong pitching by righthander Pete Liebrick to post a 3-0 whitewash triumph over Pomona American. The win coupled with San Dimas' loss by forfeit puts Diamond Bar in command of the league with a fine 11-1 mark.

Pomona American pitcher Bruce Black nearly matched Liebrick's effort, but some spells of wildness and fielding miscues by teammates netted Diamond Bar the winning scores. Diamond Bar opened the scoring in the second, using two hits and a walk to tally twice.

Black opened the frame by issuing a free pass to Bobby Flores. Dave Pedroza bounced out, but Bill Fleming followed with a sharp single to right, driving home Flores from second. Winning hurler Liebrich then followed with a bunt single down the third-base line, and when Black threw wildly past first, the runners advanced to second and third. Leadoff man Billy Karr got Fleming home when he skied to center and Fleming slid in under Larry Dogero's throw.

While Pomona American could not mount any offensive fireworks against Liebrick in the third and fourth, they did thrill the fans with two fine fielding plays which kept the score close. Diamond Bar looked like they were about to rout Black in the third, as Dean Sickles singled to right and Bart Sullivan reached on an error with no one out. Catcher Tracy Cowger then nailed a Black delivery, lining a shot to first baseman Jerry Loftis. Loftis speared the ball, stepped on first and fired to shortstop Pete Mendez whose tag iopped Sickles and completed the rare triple play.

A fine catch and throw by leftfielder Mark Wands kept Diamond Bar away from the scoring column again in the fourth, as he made a nice running catch on Flemings' fly and caught Kevin Gallagher off third with a quick throw back to the infield. The double play came as Diamond Bar had runners at second and third and bailed Black out of the frame without further damage.

Diamond Bar finally managed to pick up an insurance score in the fifth. Karr's leadoff single, stolen base, and two fielder's choices advanced him around to home-plate. Sullivan picked up Karr and the RBI with his infield grounder.

Pomona American could not do a thing with Liebrick. The young righthander fanned nine batters as Pomona hit only two balls out of the infield and failed to threaten outside of the first frame. Pinchhitter Dave Baird led off the seventh being hit by a Liebrick offering, but he was promptly doubled up as Karr grabbed Tom Hosack's liner and tossed to first.

With a 11-1 league mark, Diamond Bar next plays Ted Greene. Pomona American falls to a 5-6 mark in Big League play.

Budd Thalman goes to Bills

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — L. Budd Thalman, sports information director at the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., since 1962, Tuesday was named vice president in charge of public relations for the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League.

Cards belt 14 hits

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Despite numerous fielding and mental lapses, Claremont Connie Mack unleashed a 14-hit attack including seven doubles to hand Glendora Legion a 12-6 rout to send the Eastern Division of the San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League into shambles.

The win ties the Cardinals (4-3) for the top spot with Walnut (4-3-1) and Glendora (5-4). The difference l

Pirates drop to last

Stargell's mates shooting 'blanks'

By United Press International

Willie Stargell is going great guns, but his teammates keep shooting blanks.

Stargell, a slugging star for the Pittsburgh Pirates for the last nine years, hammered his 20th and 21st homers of the season Wednesday night, but once again they came in a losing effort as the Pirates lost to the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, and tumbled into last place in the National League's East Division.

The 31-year-old outfielder, who has collected eight hits in his last 10 at bats, has hit seven homers so far this month, yet the Pirates have won only six of 20 games and are currently 9 ½ games behind Chicago in the division race.

"There's only one way we can go now. When there's a tomorrow you always have a chance," said Stargell. "It seems the Cubs are playng like we were last year, but this club (the Pirates) is definitely not a last place club and I feel we won't be at the end of the season.

"Right now it's hard to discuss personally my hitting when the club is not going good. The only time I like to look at my individual worth is at the end of the year. But I do feel good at the plate."

Stargell was about the only member of the Pirates who could solve the pitching of Chicago's Rick Reuschel Wednesday night. Reuschel combined with Jack Aker and allowed the Pirates only eight hits as Reuschel notched his ninth victory. Pat Borque supported him with a homer.

While the Cubs currently enjoy a comfortable lead over the three-time defending NL East Division champs, they are cautious about counting the Pirates out of the race.

"I don't care what anybody says, the Pirates are not out of this thing by any means," says Ron Santo, the Cubs' all-star third baseman. "They are too tough to count out and I'm not about to do it."

In other NL games, Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 6-5 in 11 innings, Montreal downed St. Louis 5-1, San Diego defeated Houston 6-2, Philadelphia nipped New York 4-3 and Cincinnati topped San Francisco 7-5.

John Boccabella delivered a three-run homer to highlight a four-run third inning that gave the Expos a victory over the Cardinals. Ernie McAnally worked 6 2-3 innings to gain his fifth victory in six decisions.

Steve Arlin, who hadn't pitched a complete game since Oct. 1 of last year, ended San Diego's 10-game losing streak by stopping the Astros on nine hits. Clarence Gaston sparked the Padres' offense with two singles and a double. Doug Rader had a homer for Houston.

Greg Luzinski doubled home a run in the first inning and singled home the tie-breaking run in a three-run fifth as the Phillies posted their fifth straight triumph. Wayne Twitchell went the distance, allowing only four hits, to record his sixth victory in eight decisions. Wayne Garrett had a homer for the Mets.

Tony Perez hit a two-run homer and Hal King added a solo blast during a six-run fourth inning that enabled the Reds to hand the Giants their fourth straight loss. Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes homered for San Francisco.

Break up the Yankees...at least Lyle

By United Press International

Break up the Yankees—or at least Sparky Lyle.

That may become the new American League cry now that the New York Yankees (remember them?) have climbed back into first place and are serious contenders for their first pennant since 1964.

Relief pitchers aren't supposed to have two good years in a row. And Lyle isn't. He's having two great years in a row. After having 35 saves last season, Lyle picked up his 18th Wednesday night by saving a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles that vaulted the Yankees into first place in the topsy-turvy Eastern Division race.

The Yankees have won 11 games in June and Lyle has saved all 11. In his last 16 appearances since May 20, he has 14 saves and two victories. Of the Yanks' 18 wins since May 17, he's won or saved in all but two.

Lyle's total of 18 saves is more than the club total for all the rest of the clubs in the league.

This kind of record naturally brings up the question of whether manager Ralph Houk is overworking Lyle and challenging the law of averages.

"I don't recognize the law of averages," the optimistic major insists, "I just bring him in when we're ahead and he does the job."

Lyle got the help of a diving stop by Graig Nettles to get his latest save. Houk called on him with the Yanks leading 2-0 after Paul Blair worked starter Mel Stottlemyre for a walk, Bobby Grich singled and Brooks Robinson sacrificed the runners along.

Baltimore manager Earl Weaver sent Don Baylor up to face Lyle and Nettles, the Yankees' third baseman, made a diving stop on Baylor's grounder and threw him out as Blair scored. But that was it for the Orioles.

The victory, combined with Milwaukee's 3-2 loss to Boston, moved the Yanks into first place by half a game.

In other AL games, Chicago moved into first place by a half game in the Western Division with an 8-3 victory over California while Minnesota was blanked by Texas 3-0 and dropped into a second place tie with Kansas City, which beat Oakland 5-4 in 12 innings. Cleveland downed Detroit 7-6.

Sonny Siebert pitched a six-hitter and Vic Harris smashed two triples, including a two-run triple in the second inning, to give Texas the victory over Minnesota. Dick Woodson gave up eight hits and took the loss.

Kurt Bevacqua's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the 12th inning scored Fran Healy from third base and lifted Kansas City over Oakland. The A's tied the games with two runs in the ninth on a run-scoring double by Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi's sacrifice fly.

Rick Miller and Reggie Smith opened the game with back-to-back homers and Carlton Fisk drove in the winning run with a fourth inning single to pace Boston over Milwaukee. Bill Lee pitched a nine-hitter to boost his record to 8-2.

George Hendrick singled in Buddy Bell in the ninth inning to give Cleveland the victory over Detroit. It was the second straight game in which Hendrick drove in the winning run and he hit his 14th homer of the season of the seventh inning for his fourth in the last two games. Willie Horton hit a pair of homers for the Tigers.

Canadiens sign three

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League Wednesday announced the signings of left winger Bob Gainey, right winger Glenn Goldup, and goalie David Elenbass.

Gainey was the Canadiens' first draft choice in the 1973 Universal Amateur draft and played last season with the Peterborough Pets of the Ontario Hockey Association. The six foot two one hundred and eight five pound forward picked up 28 goals and 25 assists in 69 games last season and was the overall eight choice in the May draft.

Goldup the Canadiens' second choice and 17th overall pick stands six feet tall and weighs 190 pounds. Last season in 70 games with the Memorial Cup champion Toronto Marlboros also of the OHA he picked 49 goals and 64 assists for 113 points. He also spent 258 minutes in the penalty box.

Undefeated Peich wins title in Pomona National League

POMONA — Peich Construction has clinched the championship in the Pomona National Little League with a sparkling 16-0 record.

The champions recorded two shutout victories last week to take the title. Craig Donahue struck out 15 batters to beat Gemco. Donald Milner hit a home run for Peich while Richard Michalik and John Budde hit doubles for manager Dick Long's team.

Jeff Rich and Larry Scharmann of Mautz combined for their fifth double play of the season against Cave Pharmacy as Scharmann hit his seventh double of the campaign. McDonald's lost to Peich but pitcher Richard Chapman had nine strikeouts.

Glenn Cartwright of United Cal Bank and Alan Gugino of Pomona First Federal hit key home runs to highlight the action in the Ted Greene Little League. However, Catron Motors and Clark Brothers share the lead.

Park Avenue Hospital came from behind to beat CUNA Mutual, 6-5, and Credit Union, 4-3, to go into a first place tie in the Pomona American Little League with Optimists. Park's Bill Eldridge had five hits in the two victories.

CUNA Mutual scored three runs in the sixth inning to break a 3-3 deadlock and take a 6-3 win over Optimists. Michael Charles had three hits in the game.

Emblem Club picked up two wins in a 6-5 win over Brinderson and 6-1 decision over Credit Union to move into a three-way tie for third place.

In Pomona Southwest Little League action, the Dial Finance Yankees won both their games while the Twins, Cardinals, Angels and Dodgers took one apiece.

The Yanks had two hits apiece from Ted Andry, Kevin Haynes, John Mattson and Chris Garciduenas. The latter belted a grand slam homer. Catcher Gary Balch continues to be a key player for the Yanks with his defense and timely hits.

In a low-scoring game, the Angels surprised the first-place Dodgers, 3-1.

Pat Gilroy likes two-homer week

MONTCLAIR — Pat Gilroy of the Montclair National Little League will be remembering his big week for awhile.

Gilroy belted a grand slam home run to lead W. R. Co. to a 10-5 victory over Turner Tractor then connected for another homer in a 9-9 tie against first-place Pacific Rock.

In other action, Brad Coleman of Jim's Gulf homered in a losing cause, 10-3, to J & J Tire. Russ Story's circuit smash led W. R. to a 12-2 whipping of J & J. It was Julian Marquez' turn for home run heroics in a 10-5 win for Turner Tractor over J & J.

First-place Linay Auto Air built its margin in the Montclair Central Little League Senior Division by blanking Kiwanis, 6-0. Tracy Strasser hit a double and Mike Kizziar hit three singles to pace Linay. Mike Lane doubled for Kiwanis.

A double play by Cal Poly Optimist helped beat Kiwanis, 10-1. The fielding gem was turned in by the combination of Brett Jorgenson, Don Boyd and Harlen Hanson.

Scott Brouwer hit a double and started a double play to lead Pneudralics to an 8-5 win over Montclair Police. Scott Higgans and Mike Mathews completed the DP combination.

Morgan tops in D. B. play

DIAMOND BAR — Kevin Morgan pitched a two-hit shutout to help Coast & Southern edge Diamond Bar Realty, 1-0, in the Diamond Bar Little League Senior Division. The winning run scored on Bobby Cordova's triple and Kelly Bowlin's single in the fourth inning.

Ken Wilson of Paul's Chevron hit a three-run homer to spark his team to an 8-1 win over Pizza Palace.

Steve Shook of Diamond Point Women's Club struck out 10 batters and scored the winning run to beat first-place 7-11 in the Major Division. Vincent Hall homered for the winners while Norm Revis scored the tying run.

Bucs eager for second half title

CLAREMONT — After winning a special playoff game over the Phillies, 4-3, to determine the first half championship, the Pirates are setting a hoi pace in the second half of the Claremont National Little League.

Craig Thompson hit a home run and two doubles to lead the Pirates in a 10-5 win over the Dodgers. Kevin Corcoran hit the league's first grand slam homer of the season to lead the Pirates to another 10-5 victory, this one over the Cardinals.

Allen Pitts' hit in the final inning drove in the winning run for the Phillies over the Braves, 10-9. Roger Losser rapped four doubles and Mike Hammond scored four runs as the Giants downed the Cardinals, 12-8. Jason Powers homered for the Cards.

Randy Taylor hit two home runs during the week for Robertson's Insurance in the Claremont American Little League.

A well-balanced hitting attack led the Yankees to a 7-2 victory the Red Sox as Steve Peterson, Jim Knight, Greg Zell and Willie Beecherall connected for two hits apiece with Peterson belting a three-run homer.

Other homers were Orioles, Greg Eyrich of Grazziano's Pizza and Danny Orioles, Geg Eyrich of Grazziano's Pizza and Danny Layne of the Yankees.

Steve Lajti pitched a two-hit shutout and banged out three hits to lead the Giants past the Mets, 10-0, in the Claremont Pony League. Ricky Davis had three hits with Phillip Cornell getting two. The first-place Giants then beat the Yankees, 13-2, on Paul Sokolowski's pitching. It was his sixth win of the seaon. Jeff Johnson belted a three-run homer for the Giants.

Robbie Poling knocked in six runs for the Cardinals in an 8-1 win over the Cubs to help winning pitcher Mark Layne. Dan Healey pitched a six-hitter for the Cards past the Yanks, 10-4.

In Claremont Pinto League play, the Wildcats handed the Giants their first loss in an 8-6 contest behind Jim McCaffrey's pitching. McCaffrey helped his own cause by banging out three hits.

Rob Smith of the Yankees drove in three runs and Richard Lozano two in a 12-7 win ver the Cardinals.Scott Walker was the winning pitcher.

The undefeated Claremont Dodgers picked up two more Colt League victories. David Aquilera pitched a neat two-hitter to beat the Claremont Angels, 18-0. Kevin Oss led the 13-hit Dodger attack with two doubles, one home run and six RBIs while Mike Toomay had three hits.

Mel Pompa pitched the Dodgers over the Chino Road runners, 6-4, for his third win. Scott Davis contributed a triple and two RBIs while Brian Fitzjerrells went two-for-three in knocking in two runs.

The Angels bounced back behind the no-hit pitching of Kurt Kutyla in an 11-0 blanking of the Chino Falcons.

POMONA — Jackie Phillips pitched a pair of wins last week for Faberge in the Ted Greene Little Senior Division with the second, a 14-11 decision over first-place Olive Medical, being the biggest.

Besides earning credit for the victory, Phillips also scored four runs and banged out three hits. Earlier in the week, Phillips relieved Steve Larson and earned credit for a 6-4 win over Lampman. Phillips had two hits.

The Lions hit three home runs to edge Downtowners, 9-8. Winning pitcher Joey Chapa, Henry Clinton and Alan Wells belted circuit blows for the winners while Larry Richards connected for a three-run blast for the losers.

In other action, Mark Hernandez pitched Olive Medical past K & L, 7-1, while Mike Keegan stopped Lampman, 8-5. Keegan helped his own cause with a two-run homer while Jim Dague scored three runs. Ray Shepherd tripled in K & L's loss to Olive Medical and went three-for-three in a 3-0 loss to the Lions. Wells struck out 10 in recording the four-hitter. Robert Jones drove in three runs for Downtowners in a 10-6 win over Lampman while Ricky Guerra hit a bases-loaded double for the losers.

John Andrzejewski of Conley's Market picked up his fifth victory of the Pomona American Little League Senior Division and scored both runs in a 2-1 victory. He stole home to break the tie. In picking up his fifth win in seven decisions, Andrzejewski allowed only four hits while striking out 11 batters.

The Pomona National Little Senior Division enjoyed a big week with three games being decided in the final inning.

Reis Refrigeration enjoyed the biggest comeback when it scored six runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to stun Datsun, 11-10. Rick Yelton's single was the game-winning blow with Dave Dougherty of Datsun and Randy Olivieri of Reis hitting homers.

Dougherty was the hero in Datsun's 10-8 victory over Western Hills when he hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the fifth to give pitcher Pat Fitchner the win. Mike Ontiveros homered for Western Hills.

It was Rusty Marxmiller's turn to be a hero when he singled in the top of the eighth inning to drive home Ron McCullam for the winning run in a 5-4 decision over Elks. Winning pitcher Bill Long hurled three hitless innings.

Rob Naverrette of Optimists pitched the distance in hurling a two-hitter over the Elks, 7-0, as Hank Zibell tripeld and walked three times Teammate Chris Andrews three a three-hitter to down Western Hills, 9-1, as Rich Saum hit two triples. Jeff Lawson pitched a four-hitter to give Reis a 7-3 win over Carl's Jr.

Record holder heads back into training

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — A national record holder for one day now, 15-year-old Cindy Gilbert is back at work.

The San Clemente athlete went back into training today for this weekend's national AAU women's track championships after setting a 5-foot-10 high jump mark in the finals of the girls' division Wednesday.

"I have never been so happy in my life, and I have been working exceptionally hard for this moment, but I have to bring myself down now," she said, "because I want to win the women's title Saturday. That would be a wonderful way to celebrate my birthday."

The girls who post the best two marks in each event in either the girls' or women's competition will earn berths on the U.S. juniors team that will tour Europe this summer.

The first two placers in the women's events will make up the senior team.

Karin Smith of La Jolla added seven feet to the meet record when she hurled the javelin 177-0 and the Albuquerque Olympettes' Lisa Gibs, Kathy Kimsey, Cindy Ashby and Carol Hudson raced to a record clocking of 3:49.2 in the mile relay.

Nancy Ihram, calling it "my wanting to win kick," kicked her way to a lifetime best of 10:41.6 and won the two mile by 50 yards.

Will's Spikettes won the team title with 34.7 points, while Sports United of Rialto finished second and Sports International of Washington, D. C., ended up third.

Mary Decker, 14, failed in her attempt to break the 880 record when she took a spill going around the final curve after leading from the start.

Robin Campbell of Washington, D. C., won the event with a 3:08.3; Lynn Hollins, Rialto, came in second, and Miss Decker came in third.

Erma Bombeck

I hadn't been to a library in several years and was quite surprised when I went to leave. I was photographed, laminated, interrogated and searched by an electronic beam.

At first I thought it was because they thought I was going to hijack "Jonathan Livingston Seagull."

Then I called my librarian friend, Joe, in Denver, and he assured me that some of the nicest people in the world steal a couple of million dollars worth of books a year.

I don't know when larceny infiltrated the book stacks, but Joe said about 10 years ago in East Orange, N.J., the libraries got pretty sick of the thefts and had police roust people out in the middle of the night and demand their overdue books.

They were well within their legal rights to do so, but had never really invoked the law.

Frankly, people weren't too crazy about the law hammering on their door demanding, "Okay, Buddy, we know you've had 'The Love Machine' in there for three years now and we're here to put it back into circulation."

And the overdo pleading, "Give me a break, fella. I'm a slow reader."

So libraries initiated an elaborate (and expensive) security system by putting a piece of synthesized metal in the spine of every book. If the thefts still continue to be a problem it is possible to actually jail an offender. (This isn't Minnie Mouse stuff. One library reported $3,000 outstanding in films, 54 books worth $290 and two rare books at $550.)

It sounds absurd, but can't you see some bloke in the exercise yard of a penitentiary being approached by another prisoner who asks, "What you in for?"

"Wheels," says the new prisoner.

"Stolen?"

"Yeah. Had it out for about two and half years."

"What did you draw for it?"

"Six months and my library card revoked."

"For stealing a car?"

"What car? I checked out 'Wheels' by Arthur Hailey."

Joe said the problem is a serious one and I believe him. It's a sad commentary that one of the most workable systems of honor left in this country is being abused by more than a few. Care. Look around your own house for books and records that don't belong and instill in your children a feeling of integrity for something they've borrowed.

As an author, I'm probably more sensitive than most. If anyone ever gets a jail sentence for possession of any of my books, when they get out, they'll get me for it!

Thai chieftain cites need for U.S. bases to remain

BANGKOK (UPI) — Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said that his government feels U.S. military bases in Thailand will be necessary as long as the Communists do not live up to provisions of the Indochina peace agreement.

Thanom made the statement at a news conference in outlining principles under which he said the government has allowed the United States to build seven air bases here and station more than 400 aircraft and 45,000 men, most of them involved in the Indochina air war.

"As long as the Communists do not act in accordance with the peace agreement signed by North Vietnam and the United States regarding Indochina, which has a certain effect on the security of the region, we believe it is necessary for the United States to have bases and troops in Thailand," Thanom said. He said the need was "for a temporary period, in order to control and respond to offensives and violations of the peace agreement."

Thanom also said that any adjustments in the status of U.S. troops in Thailand would be discussed between the two countries "in order to have a common policy and principles." He said the number of American troops would gradually be reduced.

U.S. sources have said there were no plans for withdrawals of troops or airplanes from Thailand until it became clear what the outcome of the Vietnam cease-fire was.

Her cold KO'd his interest

Dear Ele: I had a cold and told this boy I didn't want to be romantic. He spent the whole evening sulking like it wasn't worth being out with me unless he was going to get his quota of sex. I was disgusted but didn't say anything. Do you have some suggestions on how I could have changed his attitude? — Pam

Dear Pam: If you were nursing a cold, it's possible that you viewed the evening through sinus-stuffed, glum per ception. To evaluate this, consider what the two of you have shared on other dates. Is there actually a base of companionship and mutual interests, or is it all just preliminary to an evening of passion?

If you judge that the only real interest he has in you (and maybe all you feel for him) is bod-centered, it's time you looked further for a companion. But if you have something going above the neck, head things that unite you, then tell him frankly how his disappointment translated itself in your mind, and see what the two of you can do to grow in understanding and consideration of each other. — Ele

Dear Walt: My father and mother are separated and I am living with her. She has gotten very afraid of the dark, and leaves practically all the lights on at night. Now she wants me to move out of my room at night and sleep in the room next to hers. I don't want to move and don't see any sense in it. Should I do it anyhow? — Sidney.

Dear Sidney: While symphatizing with mom's very real anxiety, I don't think it's a good notion to relocate your sleeping quarters. To do so might seem to ratify the validity of her night fear, and make it only a logical step for her to ask that you sleep on a cot in her room.

I think you ought to get her to seek a counselor (MD, priest, mental health counselor, etc.) to help work out her trauma. As partial reassurance, you might suggest she have the phones switched so that she could easily ring you in your room if she heard a night noise, etc. — Walt

Dear Ele and Walt: Our neighborhood is mixed racially and we get along all right, but everyone sort of keeps to themselves. I would like to have more cross-sharing, but don't know how to go about it. Ideas? — "Ike"

Dear "Ike": If there's a library or community center in your area, offer to do a window display every two weeks on the "contributions of the Blacks," or Irish, Jews, Chinese, etc. As you prepare your display, use your neighbors as resource people, borrowing insights and also heirlooms if you can guarantee their safety while on display.

Perhaps this start will give you zest to publish a by-weekly mimeographed "know your neighbors" newsheet in which you can spotlight the Higas, the Davids, the Whites, Etc.

From this you might go on to produce a block party five or six months from now at a church or school in the area. Enlist various talent discoveries to share with their neighbors at a potluck dinner party. Are you game? — Ele and Walt

Coleman The Colossal Cooler

The Colossal Cooler

MODEL 5256A THE COLOSSAL COOLER: a full 80-quart capacity, room for a 25 pound block of ice or cubes in the ice tub, a gallon of liquid in the water bottle...and about all the food you can carry. It's the closest thing to a refrigerator that's ever been opened in the great outdoors. There's good looks, rugged dependability, a corrosion and scuff resistant plastic bottom...and a new safety latch system, designed to prevent entrapment. It's everything a cooler should be...on a grand scale.

AVAILABLE IN GREEN, RED or BLUE

The Colossal Cooler will wear like iron...take the bumps and jolts and still stay good looking year after year...tough plastic interior resists scratches, chipping and scuffing, stays non-brittle under normal use...non-softening on the hottest days.

Threat of drought and floods

Rain or shine, Chinese have hard time with their crops

HONG KONG (UPI) — China's agriculture is in a critical period.

Sowing of crops for the important autumn harvest is well underway in much of the country while floods and drought still threaten many areas.

"At present we are faced with a grave situation," said a radio broadcast from the vast Inner Mongolia region. "A drought is threatening both rural and pastoral areas in our region."

"There was heavy rain recently in some areas of Hunan, and the rivers rose," warned a broadcast from Hunan Province, one of the most important rice-producing areas of China.

"We must prepare flood equipment and flood-fighting measures well both at low embankments where the water is now spilling over and at key dams. As for farmland which is now flooded, we must mobilize the masses."

"Due to excessive rain and heavy snowfall last winter and low temperatures this spring, the snow thaw was delayed," said a broadcast from Heilungkiang Province, one of the largest wheat-growing areas of China.

"In places where rain and snow have been excessive spring farming has been hindered. Field sowing of wheat has not begun...It is necessary to take effective measures such as applying additional fertilizer and preparing the soil to raise soil temperature and insure early sprouting."

These are but a few of the alarming reports emanating daily from some of China's provincial areas about the continuing threat of drought and floods.

Coupled with these reports are complaints about the "lethargic" attitude of people in some areas. A typical broadcast, from Hunan Province, called on Communist party cadres "and masses in the rural areas to mobilize, overcome lethargy and the mentality of depending on luck...to overcome natural disasters."

China was hard hit by drought last year in important grain-producing areas. The best estimates of agricultural experts here indicate grain production remained at about the 1971 level despite what some reports called the worst drought of the century.

The situation might have been disastrous except for herculean efforts in well-drilling, irrigation and other water conservation projects. Tens of thousands of wells were drilled in hard hit areas and thousands of miles of irrigation canals were dug to help alleviate the situation.

herculean efforts in welldrilling, irrigation and other water conservation projects. Tens of thousands of wells were drilled in hard hit areas and thousands of miles of irrigation canals were dug to help alleviate the situation.

These efforts still are underway, along with flood control measures, in threatened areas.

Matching last year's efforts— when production of grain and other cash crops were kept from declining despite the severe drought—will not be good enough this year. Not for a country whose population is increasing at more than 15 million a year

Can your cigarette pass these 5 simple tests?

If you've ever had second thoughts about the brand of cigarette you smoke, here's a quick way to find out if it really delivers what you want.

These five simple tests will tell you a lot about quality, freshness, and taste.

And if you make these tests with a Winston, they'll tell you why Winston smokers can point to their brand and say, "How good it is!"

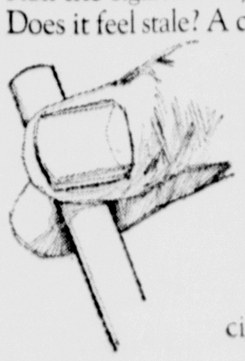

Test #1 Sniff It

Take a whiff of the tobacco. Does it smell rich and fresh and appealing? If your cigarette is Winston, you'll recognize the aroma of costly Vintage Leaf Tobaccos. Winston chooses the most nearly perfect leaves money can buy. Then we age these rare tobaccos in wooden casks. We do it for the same reason you'd age a fine wine. Aging makes our tobaccos mellow and brings out that extra dimension of natural goodness.

Test #2 Feel It

Roll the cigarette in your hand. Pinch it slightly. Does it feel stale? A cigarette that's been waiting in a warehouse, or on a shelf, can lose some of its freshness. And some of its taste. But, because Winston sells so fast, every pack comes to you fresh. The fact is, on any given day, Winston is likely to be the freshest cigarette your money can buy.

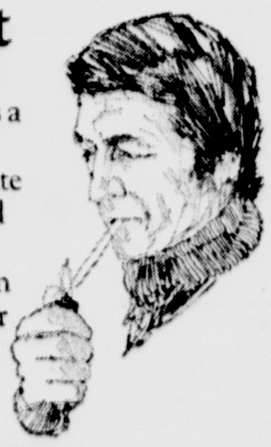

Test #3 Take a puff... before lighting

Take a puff—without lighting it. That's a good way to learn about the tobacco and the filter. If you can taste the tobaccos without lighting up, you know there's richness up front. And that the filter doesn't get in the way of the taste. Winston's exclusive Filter-Blend, a top-secret blend of different tobaccos, works with Winston's modern white filter to deliver satisfying taste in every puff.

Test #4 Light It

Does it burn evenly? Here's a critical test of the way your cigarette is made. A cigarette rolled fresh, packed full and made with care will burn evenly, draw easily. Winston always does. How does your brand shape up?

Test #5 Smoke It

What could be simpler? That's the real test of a cigarette. Can it deliver good taste and real satisfaction every time you light up? Winston can. Ask a Winston smoker. Any time. He'll tell you in four simple words: How good it is.

Ask a Winston smoker. He'll tell you

HOW GOOD IT IS.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ZONING CASE NO. 5994-(1) PROPOSED CHANGE OF OFFICIAL ZONING PLAN OF THE SAN JOSE ZONED DISTRICT

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Regional Planning Commission on a proposed amendment of Section 332 of Ordinance No. 1494, thereby making changes in the Official Zoning Plan of the San Jose Zoned District No. 21 established by Ordinance No. 6112 on December 9, 1952. Said hearing will be held on Wednesday, July 11, 1973 at 9:00 a.m., in Room 150, Hall of Records, 320 West Temple Street, Los Angeles. Testimony will be heard for and against said proposed amendment consisting of a change from R-3 (Limited Multiple Residence, C-1 (Restricted Business), RPD-8,500 (Residential Planned Development—8,500 square foot required area) and P (Parking) to RPD-5,000-32U (Residential Planned Development — 5,000 square foot required area—32 units per acre) and RPD-5,000-17U (Residential Planned Development—5,000 square foot required area—17 units per acre) for two irregularly shaped parcels having a total area of 11.87 acres. Parcel I, a 3.14 acre parcel located on the southwesterly corner at the junction of South Walnut Leaf Drive and East Colima Road with frontages of 1,048 feet and 185 feet on said streets, respectively, and having a maximum southerly dimension of 190 feet. Parcel II, an 8.73 acre parcel located on the northeasterly corner at the junction of South Walnut Leaf Drive and East Colima Road with frontage of 931 feet and 815 feet on said street, respectively, and having a maximum southeasterly dimension of 900 feet (all measurements being approximate) and such other change of zone which the Commission may recommend in the interests of public health, safety and general welfare within the area bounded as follows:

On the northwest by the centerline of East Colima Avenue; on the south by the southerly line of the R-3 zone established by Ordinance 8262; on the east by the easterly line of the C-1 zone established by Ordinance 8262 and the easterly line of the RPD-8,500-36U established by Ordinance 9870.

The Plan showing the proposed amendment may be inspected by the public in the office of the Commission, Room 1300, Hall of Records, 320 West Temple Street, Los Angeles.
